Elections Office would need to verify the names on the petition

After the historic landmark of 25% of the registered voters, required to trigger a referendum, was reached by the Cruise Port Referendum Campaign, the group met in George Town Hall, with Elections Supervisor Wesley Howell, to find out what the next step should be. Mr. Howell said that the Elections Office would need to verify the names on the petition, by checking them against the names of registered voters on the electoral role, before the petition could be officially presented.

Johann Moxam, one of the team of volunteers spearheading the referendum campaign, said: "What this is, and what CPR Cayman is, what's in this room; concerned citizens who care about the future of our country; we are concerned about the direction that the government is prepared to take, without allowing you the citizen to be a part of that process. Thankfully the Cayman Islands Constitutional Order

Cruise Port procurement process concluded

Final bids from the companies vying to construct the cruise berthing piers and expanded cargo facility were to be submitted to Government by last Friday 31st May 2019, marking the successful completion of another significant milestone in the project's procurement process.

Upon receipt, the bids will be evaluated and a report outlining the preferred bidder will be generated. Once this process has been completed, the company assessed as having won the bid will be publicly announced.

"It is very exciting that the procurement process has reached its conclusion, because this means the public will soon be able to see the winning design

SAME-SEX MARRIAGE DEBATE

Questions responded to by Prof. Eamonn Conway, Patrick Treacy SC and Dr. Van Nieuwenhove and published in Ireland in February 2015.

Collected in two parts and adapted for Cayman in 2019 by Bishop Nicholas Sykes.

Question 1. Are the only arguments against same-sex marriage religious arguments?

Answer. Of course not! You don't have to be a person of faith to value the centuries of tradition which societies the world over have attached to the institution of marriage.

The first recorded marriage took place in Mesopotamia some 4,000 years ago, preceded by 'pair bonding' which was introduced in the Stone Age to provide stability for child-rearing, amongst other things.

Child-rearing has long been one of the principal reasons why 'marriage' is such an important rite within our society, and our definition of marriage - between one man and one woman - has always been based on the fact that only a man and a woman can create a child. This is the same no matter what your religious views are. Moreover, while medical science has enabled couples that are unable to conceive naturally to have a family, it has not ever been able to alter the need for a man and a woman to be involved in the process of conception.

The bottom line is that we are made male and female and that we are made through a male and a female, and this is a universal truth. The truthful understanding of marriage, as between one male and female, is then based on the very fact of how we are made, without any necessary reference to any religious belief.

If you remove the gender basis of marriage and decide that it can be between two males or two females, you take away its essential meaning and engage in the imposition of a gender theory that says there really is no difference between a male and a female, and between fathers and mothers.

Through all prior generations and civilisations, marriage has developed certain meanings that are based on union between males and females.

One of these is the act of consummation of a marriage as sexual intercourse between a male and a female, which, if this does not occur, is a ground for the civil annulment of a marriage in some countries. Consummation of a marriage, as understood in such civil law, cannot occur in sexual acts between two men or two women.

Our language about marriage loses its meaning once we seek to maintain that marriage is not between a man and a woman. The complementarity of 'husband' and 'wife' and 'mother' and 'father' is pulled asunder.

Since March 2014, a same-sex couple can now become married in England and Wales where the registrar can say to two men "I now pronounce you husband and husband".

The concept of marriage as between two people of the one sex also serves to contradict fundamentally the whole reason why all of the generations and civilisations that preceded us based marriage upon male and female, namely that the procreation and raising of children is supported by a lasting bond with the child's parents. If human beings reproduced asexually and human offspring were born self-sufficient, would any culture have developed an institution anything like what we know as marriage?

Clearly, the answer is No.

In essence, irrespective of whether one holds a particular religious belief or none, the campaign to redefine marriage is not about extending marriage to couples of one sex only but about changing it to something that it just simply is not and cannot become. 🌐

2019 Hurricane message

By Premier Hon. Alden McLaughlin, MBE, JP, MLA

Each year as I prepare to work on this annual Hurricane message to you I do so with a certain amount of trepidation because as I put pen to paper, none of us knows what this hurricane season is going to bring.

Too, I am reminded of that 16th Century English phrase – “Speak of the Devil and he doth appear”.

I certainly don't want to tempt fate!

In the past few weeks we have anxiously watched our friends in the southern United States suffer through flooding from torrential rains and damage done by horrific tornadoes. Our neighbours remain in our thoughts and prayers. And while hurricanes can be even more damaging than tornadoes, they are predictable unlike tornadoes that can pop up quickly.

We are blessed because we have a National Weather Service that is linked regionally and can stay on top of all weather issues and inform us in advance when bad weather is headed our way, giving us time to make preparations.

The early predictions from our friends in the United States are already out. We are told that the 2019 Atlantic Hurricane Season is going to be less active than 2018 with 14 named storms, seven hurricanes and three major hurricanes.

But don't let that prediction put you off your guard. We know that just one bad storm can wreak havoc. We learned that lesson in 2004's Hurricane Ivan, 2008's Hurricane Paloma and watched in 2017 as our sister British Overseas Territories and other islands in the Caribbean suffered from hurricanes Irma and Maria.

My plea to each of you is to be prepared for the worst and pray for the best this hurricane season, which will stretch from 1 June to the end of November.

Earlier this month 17 of our Emergency Support Teams held a hurricane exercise to assess the country's hurricane plans, policies and procedures to give us a realistic depiction of a hurricane as it approaches, impacts us and then leaves us behind to clean up. I commend them for their diligence and service to our country.

What we have learned from past experiences is that no two hurricanes are alike and many are unpredictable. For instance Hurricane Ivan wasn't even supposed to hit Grand Cayman; it was headed initially for Cayman Brac, until it wobbled.

Fortunately we have learned lessons from the storms that either struck us or our neighbours. The main message, though, is be prepared.

If we do find ourselves facing another storm this year, I beg you to please pay attention to Government announcements and bulletins. All of our media outlets – Radio Cayman FM89.9, the Breeze FM105.3, Cayman Islands Government TV, Cayman Islands Government Information Services and <http://www.caymanprepared.ky> – will carry information to tell you what to expect and what to do. Hazard Management Cayman Islands also works with private media houses that have been diligent each time we have faced a storm to get out the important, necessary information.

So, if you don't have a hurricane plan in place for your family or business, make one and then join me in my prayer that God will once again spare our beloved Islands during this 2019 Hurricane Season. 🌐

2009 under Section 70 affords us all the opportunity to come together, unite, galvanize and share our concerns on issues of national importance, like the proposed cruise berthing project. This is not an anti-port meeting; the process of a people's initiated referendum is not meant to be anti-port. It is pro-democracy."

Mr. Howell said: "It is only when the petition is verified that it is presented to Cabinet. Cabinet has to deal with the Section 70 requirements. If we follow the end of that with the support of Cabinet then the Elections Office, through a bespoke referendum bill, will then conduct the referendum very similarly to what we do general elections. We would go through the process of producing ballot papers, doing Referendum Day counting and then returning the count to Government.

"The difference is that we have a very prescriptive law as to how the (general) elections are held," he said. But, he went on to explain, there is no similar law governing the way that a referendum should be conducted. This included the fact that there was no specific time-limit given for the referendum only that it should occur in a "Reasonable time."

"There is a direct relationship between myself as the governor, as the person I report to, and that ensures our independence and our team, which would then have to gear up and deal with the verification in this first instance and then deal with the polling as we would normally do," Mr. Howell explained.

Once of the questions from the floor was about the verification process, and what, exactly, it entails.

Mr. Howell responded that the processed involved some work going door-to-door to verify that "the signatures on the list correlate with a name on the voters list, and that person actually can verify that they are indeed a signature, so it is a three way test. It is actually putting a face to signatures and verifying them," he explained.

Mr. Moxam explained that not all the people who signed the petition were required to use their voters' registration card, but were required to use some form of official identification such as a driver's license. Ex Government Minister and historian, Roy Bodden, spoke next: "I think that it's a noble effort, and I will follow it to the end. But I smell a rat, and the rat it seems to me is in the verification process. I think the deck is stacked against your effort and I would say to you, using a historical reference, that while you have crossed Rubicon, the battle for Rome is yet to begin. So if I were to offer you some advice, I'd say, get your war chest and get your attorneys ready," he said.

Panelists were Linda Clarke who has overseen the collecting of signatures for the petition, Kenneth Bryan, MLA for George Town Central, and Ezzard Miller, MLA for North Side.

Ms Clarke spoke about what is contained in Environmental Impact Assessments. She also outlined the CPA's internal verification process, and said that her concern about the effects of the proposed new dock goes far beyond worries pertaining to the integrity of the coral reef. 🌐

Two day hurricane exercise brings key leaders together

that in the event of a hurricane, they would all be working together in harmony with one another. The second day included a 'table top exercise' which involved an even wider range of hazard management stakeholders.

"This is the annual hurricane exercise of Hazard Management, where we test the activation and operation of the National Emergency Operations Centre," explained Hazard Management's Director, Danielle Coleman. "Unlike previous years, this year is very much focused on the aftermath, so the response and recovery of the disaster, as opposed to the alert, watch and warning phase of the disaster."

The first of the two-day sessions was the council briefing, and involving the Chairman of the Council and the heads of government departments, council groups and emergency support teams and chief officers. The next day included much more of the private sector as well. It involved a 'table top' exercise with the full activation of the National Emergency Centre and the Policy Group, and the Governor and Premier. The table top exercise explores various scenarios of what might be expected in the aftermath of a hurricane, such as what would happen if the roof blew off a shelter, Ms Coleman explained.

Effective response in any big emergency depends on organization of the different group involved, and knowing exactly what each group's role is, so that if a disaster strikes, no time is lost in confusion or duplication of effort. "We have four 'cluster groups' for emergency response, human concerns, infrastructure and sports services and of these cluster groups we have seventeen emergency support groups," Ms Coleman added. "We have changed somewhat this year to having a much more informal discussion about what everyone else is doing. We usually feed it into the electronic emergency operating system. But this year it is more of a facilitative discussion about what each emergency support unit is doing and when."

Crisis Hub is the name for a new missing person software application which Hazard Management has been working on, and wished to introduce during the sessions. Important topics for discussion also included shelter capacity, as well as the introduction two new animal shelters.

One of the many participants in the exercise included Edward Tinling-Miller, Red Cross Disaster Manager. "Cayman Islands Red Cross is an auxiliary to Government we also play an essential role in disaster relief and management. Our current shelter holds 95 people, so it's important that its ready to go. The point of the exercise is to make sure that that we are all aligned, on the same page and we have every representative from every key government agency. We have a staff base of seven members of staff, and we have a volunteer base of 200 volunteers. They play a key role in our community especially with our container project." The strategically-place containers in the community have such as tarpaulins for the roofs of properties, sanitation cleaning kits generators, cots, tools and agricultural equipment which are useful in the aftermath of a hurricane, Mr. Tinling-Miller explained.

► All the government stakeholders got together around a long table for the hurricane exercise

The Supervisor of Elections met with the Cruise Port Referendum group on Tuesday, 29 May 2019 to discuss the process of the People Initiative Referendum according to the Cayman Islands Constitution Order 2009. It should be noted that whilst the process was discussed no signatures were provided to the Elections Office.

Mr. Wesley Howell was also in attendance at a public meeting on Thursday, 30 May 2019, at George Town, Town Hall from 6 to 7 p.m. to speak more on the matter.

The process towards the People Initiated Referendum involves the following stages:

- The staff of the Elections Office will conduct an independent verification of the petition signatures, in accordance with constitutional requirements under Section 90 and Section 70 (1) (b) of the referendum.

- * Election Office officials will ensure the provided referendum signatures corresponds with the current electoral register
- * As part of the verification method under the law, manual checks will also be conducted by Election Office officials with each petitioner to ensure signature validity.

If the verification process confirms that the level of signatures meets or exceeds the required 25% (5,289) of persons registered as electors (21,155) in accordance with section 90:

- Pursuant to Section 70, the Cabinet will consider constitutional provisions, and if Cabinet is satisfied that those requirements are met a bill will be drafted to support the Referendum, setting out the terms and requirements of the referendum.

- Once a bill is passed in the LA, and gazetted, His Excellency the Governor will appoint Returning Officers and issue the WRIT of the Referendum.

The Referendum voting and counting process will follow a similar process to that of a General Election, including the following:

- Postal Voting
- Mobile Voting
- Polling Day (Referendum Day)
- Voting in all 19 Electoral Districts (7 a.m. to 6 p.m.)
- Constitutionally only registered voters are allowed to vote in a referendum.

From the issuance of the WRIT, based on previous referendums, the process is expected to take approximately 10 weeks, which will allow the Elections Office time to prepare staff, materials and carry out the referendum process including postal ballots.

The Cayman Islands Aircraft Registry featured prominently at European business aviation tradeshow

The Civil Aviation Authority of the Cayman Islands (CAACI) recently exhibited at the 19th annual European Business Aviation Convention & Exhibition (EBACE) tradeshow, which is held annually at the Palexpo Centre in Geneva, Switzerland to promote the Cayman Islands Aircraft Registry as the offshore registry of choice for discerning owners and operators. As EBACE concluded on 23rd May, show organizers reported that there were over 400 exhibitors showcasing the latest products and services in aviation from across the world. The sold-out static display featured 58 aircraft on the ramp at Geneva Airport, ranging from intercontinental business jets, to turboprop and piston aircraft, to helicopters. The exhibition brings together business leaders, government officials, manufacturers, flight department personnel, avionics firms, fractional providers, charter/lease companies and all sectors of people involved in nearly every aspect of business aviation.

With over 13,000 business aviation professionals in attendance, EBACE was the perfect location for the CAACI to announce the issuance of the first Air Operators Certificate (AOC) for fixed wing commercial operations to be registered in the Cayman Islands' Special Economic Zone - Cayman Enterprise City (CEC), to Cayman Bellawings, an affiliate of Hong Kong Bellawings business jet management company. The official announcement took place on the opening day of the show with an official presentation of the Cayman Bellawings' AOC to the President of HK Bellawings, Mr. Zhang who accepted the AOC framed cert from the Director-General with the CEO of Cayman Enterprise City, Mr. Charles Kirkconnell in attendance as well. In addition, the DGCA presented Mr. Zhang with a stingray carved out of Caymanite.

HK Bellawings is the third largest fleet operator in Hong Kong and provides a diverse array of professional, highly efficient and comprehensive business aviation services and solutions to their clients, which include business jet management, aircraft maintenance, travel concierge service, aircraft acquisition service, and business aviation consultancy. "We are very pleased to announce this milestone development for the Cayman Islands Aircraft Registry. Caribbean Journal names Cayman Airways "Best Airline"

The National Airline of the Cayman Islands, Cayman Airways Limited (CAL), has racked up another "Best Airline" award, this time by the Caribbean Journal (CJ).

The award follows on the heels of Cayman Airways recently being named TripAdvisor's "Best Airline in the Caribbean" and a top "Specialty and Leisure Airline" within the entire North America region.

On Tuesday May 28, 2019, Caribbean Journal, the world's largest website covering the Caribbean, announced the winners of its Traveler's Choice Awards 2019, which included a category for Best Airline. The company said that thousands of Caribbean Journal subscribers voted in this year's Awards, selecting from a highly competitive field of nominees chosen by CJ's editorial staff.

Cayman Airways President and CEO, Fabian Whorms, said: "Having recently celebrated our 50th anniversary as the National Airline of the Cayman Islands, it has truly been a very exciting time for our dedicated Cayman Airways family, as well as for our loyal customers. Generations of Cayman Airways employees have dedicated much of their lives to building our national airline to where it is today, many of them for their entire careers, and these international and regional awards are testament to the steadfast foundation that has been built, and to the ongoing hard work and commitment of approximately 400 employees with us today."

Mr. Whorms added that Cayman Airways' success to date would also not have been possible without its loyal customers. "Cayman Airways has transported millions of passengers over the years, and we are deeply appreciative of their continued support and loyalty," he said.

Caribbean Journal is the world's largest website covering the Caribbean, with original content and video focusing on travel and tourism across the entire Caribbean Basin. The company's website says Caribbean Journal is the global leader in covering Caribbean travel and trade news — from new flights to luxury resorts to secret vacation escapes.

In a press release announcing the award winners, editor and publisher of Caribbean Journal, Alexander Britell, said: "The Caribbean travel industry has never been more competitive, from its luxury hotels to its airlines, and the bar continues to rise. The world's largest community of travelers to the Caribbean has spoken, and spoken passionately, and we are proud to announce this year's winners — in other words, the best of the Caribbean." 🌐

CAYMAN ISLANDS GOVERNMENT TO RECEIVE BERTHING FACILITY BIDS

and more information regarding the cost and exact positioning of the piers will be available and shared," said Hon. Moses Kirkconnell, Minister for Tourism. "I have repeatedly advised that it was necessary to arrive at this final stage in the process in order to have final designs in hand and having reached this point I look forward to publicly unveiling the plans as soon as the successful bidder has been identified."

Speaking specifically about the project's six-year timeline, Minister Kirkconnell recounted that the information and data gathering aspects of the cruise berthing project started in 2013 and was followed by the procurement process which has been ongoing since 2017. That process commenced with a Pre-qualification Stage which invited interested parties to demonstrate their ability to design, build, finance, and maintain the proposed berthing facility.

Once bidders were pre-qualified, the procurement process entered the second phase, which sought more detailed information from pre-qualified bidders regarding their ability to deliver on the technical specifications of the project. This was the Invitation to Submit Outline Solution or ISOS phase of the procurement process.

The third and final phase in the lengthy and complex procurement process kicked off in November 2018, with the Request For Proposals (RFP) issued by the Cayman Islands Government inviting bidders to submit final proposals for the development of a two finger pier cruise berthing facility and enhanced cargo port facility under a design, build, finance and maintain (DBFM) framework.

"Internationally, DBFM has proven to be the best structure for this type of project and is by far the best financing model for our country because it means that no public funding will be required to build the cruise piers and enhanced cargo facility. As the Premier and I have both previously stated a number of times, this project will be financed from funding which cruise lines have committed to provide and from the remaining balance provided by the winning bidder. These will be repaid from passenger fees which would otherwise have been used for ferrying passengers to and from the cruise ships and not from the public purse," the Minister said.

To date, Royal Caribbean, Carnival Corporation, Disney Cruise Line and MSC Cruises have all signed formal funding agreements.

"The financial commitments provide the assurance that cruise lines will continue bringing passengers to our shores for the next 25 years and are a strong endorsement for the future of the Cayman Islands cruise industry," the Minister continued. "Their long-term commitment to the Cayman Islands will help to create more jobs and commercial opportunities particularly for small businesses and will inject millions of dollars into our economy."

► Hon. Moses Kirkconnell, Minister for Tourism

To stay informed on all of the latest news and information on the cruise berthing project the public is encouraged to visit the cruise berthing facility website at www.SupportOurTourism.com and to check the project's Facebook page for daily updates.

Highly talented youth footballers from the Caribbean, Central America, and the United States will be on showcase during the Cayman Islands Invitational U15 Youth Football Cup starting Tuesday.

The June 4-8 tournament hosted by the West Bay Sports Foundation (WBSF) and the Cayman Islands Football Association (CIFA) will feature eight teams playing at two venues: Ed Bush Sports Complex in West Bay and the Cayman Brac Sports Field.

Participating teams include the Cayman Islands National U15 Team and the Cuba National U15 Team, both of which are preparing for the CONCACAF U15 Championships in Florida this summer. Other teams include Cavalier FC (Jamaica), CD Victoria (Honduras), DC United (United States), Mt Pleasant Academy (Jamaica), Portmore United (Jamaica), and Tobago All Stars (Trinidad and Tobago).

CIFA President Alfredo Whittaker added: "To work with the West Bay Sports Foundation team to host a tournament like this shows what can happen when people come together. "Leadership Decisions in Tough Times" - Focus of Ministry Retreat

Navigating tough decisions with strong leadership was the theme of the Ministry of Commerce, Planning and Infrastructure (CPI)'s recent biannual mini-retreat.

The retreat began with a welcome message from the Minister of Commerce, Planning and Infrastructure, Hon. Joey Hew. Mr. Hew spoke to the day's theme, reminding attendees of the importance of side-lining your emotions when taking tough decisions. He cited the proposed cruise berthing facility as an instance when strong leadership was required, in order to get past a knee-jerk emotional response and make the difficult decision.

Chief HR Officer for the Ministry of CPI Melinda Montemayor facilitated the retreat. Ms. Montemayor explained these events motivate, inform and bring staff together. She said: "I think our staff appreciate these events and enjoy engaging with our Hon. Minister, staff and senior leadership across our Ministry. It has been a pleasure working with Minister on these initiatives."

She was joined by co-host Racquel Duhaney of the Family Resource Centre, who moderated the panel discussion. This Q&A focused on the decision-making processes behind Cayman Airways' decision to ground its new Boeing 737 Max 8 fleet after the fatal Ethiopian Airlines crash in March 2019.

The panel consisted of: Richard Smith, Director-General of the Civil Aviation Authority; Paul Tibbetts, Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer at Cayman Airways; Captain Dave Scott, Vice President, Flight Operations at Cayman Airways and Ivan Forbes, Vice President, Airport Operations at Cayman Airways.

Ms. Montemayor described the panel members as "true heroes. As leaders, they work under tremendous pressure every day and the stakes are always high for them if they don't get it right. They were able to tell us about their leadership, analysis, accountability and lessons learned during a real-life crisis, which resonated with our staff. I would like to thank the executive leadership teams at CAL and CIAA for their service and for joining us at our retreat for this very important discussion."

The panellists were challenged on the leadership strategy underpinning the swift decision to ground the Cayman Airways Max 8 fleet; many other large national carriers soon followed the CAL example. Ultimately, the panel concluded that a decision taken with the highest public safety justification can always be defensible.

There followed lively interaction from Ministry staff and Heads of Departments. Questions ranged from the viability of Boeing's fix for the jets to challenges for the aviation industry when
