provider of institutional governance, risk and compliance services to the asset management industry, in the top tier of company valuation and investment capitalisation in the jurisdiction.

Waystone was formed out of the DMS Group founded over 20 years ago by Caymanian entrepreneur Don Seymour.

DMS has since then partnered with institutional investors, investment funds and asset managers worldwide extending to its new branding, Waystone, set up in March this year.

A statement from the company says the investment by Montagu Private Equity "represents a significant opportunity for Waystone to build upon its current expansion plans and continue to invest in offering its clients an extensive set of global solutions and unrivalled quality of service".

The investment, which is subject to regulatory approval, will see Montagu take a strategic stake in the business and support the next phase of Waystone's growth.

It will also conclude Waystone's successful partnership with another firm, MML Capital Partners (MML), following their investment in 2019.

The company release says Waystone has grown organically and through corporate transactions to become the leading institutional global governance, compliance and third-party management company.

Formed from the merger between MontLake, MDO and DMS, Waystone launched in March 2021 to create the first truly institutional global governance and third-party management company with a unique portfolio of services and talent. Following the investment by Montagu, Waystone's leadership team will remain unchanged and all existing management shareholders will remain in place.

Derek Delaney, Global CEO at Waystone commented, "This investment takes the merger of MDO, MontLake and DMS to the next level of value for our clients and it validates the merits of our decision to come together. As we continue to scale this business globally, our clients can now appoint a management company on the same institutional footing as their administrators and auditors."

He also said: "Waystone has always been responsive to its clients' needs and that is based on the recognition that there is a desire for more than a single service management company. Our clients want a comprehensive regulatory solution across all core markets and domiciles. We have met this demand and we will continue to listen to our clients as we evolve. We are grateful to all of our clients for their continual support."

Richard Mayers, Partner, MML Capital added, "The Waystone transaction is a blueprint for MML's partnership investment philosophy."

Describing Waystone as "a talented team", Mr Mayers added that MML have "thoroughly enjoyed our involvement in such a fast-growing business."

Tobias Weltin, Director, at Montagu commented, "As a private equity partner, we recognise the huge growth opportunity in the financial services sector and specifically a third-party management company with Waystone's global reach and competitive strength. Our investment and partnership will enable Waystone to further accelerate the development of its leading products and services."

Waystone's shareholders were advised by Baird (John Sun), Squire Patton Boggs (Julian Ciecierski-Burns), Grant Thornton (Dara Kelly, Brian Murphy, Dwayne Price), Oliver Wyman (Sean Farrar), Lockton (Calvin Barnes) and EY (Ari Constantinou).

Management was advised by Matheson (Padraic Roche) and Liberty Corporate Finance (Tim Thomas).

New Health City clinic opens at Camana Bay

By Christopher Tobutt

Business After Hours, the Chamber of Commerce's networking event, hosted the opening of the new Health City clinic at Forum Lane in Camana Bay on Thursday 1 July. The new clinic is the forerunner of a much bigger Camana Bay presence from Health City, a 70 bed, 100 million dollar hospital, scheduled for an opening next year. But it is a significant contribution to Cayman's health offerings in its own right, with an initial offering of services in the areas of cardiology, neurology, pulmonology, urology, gynecology, gastroenterology, internal medicine and medical oncology.

Just before the ribbon-cutting, Hon. Wayne Panton, Premier, commented: "I find it refreshing because this opening is proof that covid-19 has not beat us, but we are continuing our march with life, even though we are still in a pandemic, the opening of a new business is proof that investors still see the Cayman Islands as a safe and stable business environment."

Mr. Panton suggested that, while Health City's initial vision was aimed at medical when the East End campus opened in 2014, it has since proved an invaluable health resource for local residents, too: "Just as much as Health City has needed the local market, the government and our people have needed Health City. In the seven years since the hospital has been operating in East End, healthcare expenses in the country have been reduced because the local patients have been referred to Health City," he said.

Hon Sabrina Turner, Minister for Health and Wellness, welcomed the addition of the new clinic: "Whilst the largest health crisis we have witnessed in our lifetime still rages around the world, with all lights finally being focused on health, healthcare professionals, employment and career opportunities and even science, it is even more important for us here in the Cayman Islands to keep our sights on making health a top priority," she said.

"Locally, Health City Cayman Islands has been a magnet for medical tourists from the surrounding region, so today, I would like to take a moment to celebrate the greater accessibility to the advanced tertiary care today, and the trend to greater accessibility to a wider range of health care services continues with the opening of this clinic."

Ms Turner said that the situation of the new clinic would, "Alleviate some stress...for the shortened travel times for persons on the western end of Grand Cayman...and allow people ease of access which is indeed a holistic approach to health and optimal wellness." Ms. Turner also praised Health City's significant commitment to providing educational opportunities for Cayman's school and university students.

DR. Binoy Chattuparambil, clinical director, and Senior Consultant of Cardiovascular & Thoracic Surgery Health City Cayman Islands, spoke about the need to provide health services that put patient needs first: "We celebrate seven years when we have saved many hundreds of lives, and immeasurably improved the quality of life for countless more. We have done this by putting our patients at the centre of everything that we do," he said.

After the ribbon-cutting, senior Health City doctors took the Premier, the Health Minister, and several other members of government for a guided tour around the new facility.

Dart Real Estate wins Gold at Citywealth's 2021 Brand Management and Reputation Awards

BRAND MANAGEMENT & REPUTATION AWARDS

Overall Marketing Campaign
2021 GOLD

Dart Real Estate

Citywealth #BMRWARDS

Dart Real Estate is proud to announce its team has won the Overall Marketing Campaign category at Citywealth's 2021 Brand Management and Reputation Awards held on 22 June, 2021 in Mayfair, London.

Dart's multi-channel marketing campaign was launched with the objective of showcasing the Cayman Islands as a jurisdiction of choice for international family offices. The campaign tactics included independently commissioned research, website design, collateral design, digital display advertising, social content and advertising, PR, in-person and virtual events and a global speaking and sponsorship programme.

Dart Real Estate's marketing campaign to launch and promote the release of "The Cayman Islands; a jurisdiction of choice for family offices" secured top spot in the Overall Marketing Campaign category, ahead of Barclays Private Bank, who took Silver with their "Smarter Succession" campaign, and Mischnon Academy who took Bronze. A copy of the report can be requested here: <https://familyofficereport.dartrealestate.com>.

Sue Nickason, vice president real estate marketing and sales at Dart, said: "We are delighted to be recognised for our marketing and business development team's performance over the past year. We repositioned our efforts in response to the impact of COVID-19 in mid-2020 to provide valuable thought leadership content to our key target audience of private wealth advisors and influencers digitally. Our aim was to position the Cayman Islands as a premier locale and emerging global leader in the family office sector and to engage, build credibility and position Dart Real Estate as trusted advisors and thought leaders amidst the COVID-19 crisis."

Citywealth's Brand Management and Reputation Awards are now in their sixth year and highlight the best brands emerging in the international private wealth industry. They also recognise business services functions, such as marketing and business development teams, who support business profit and navigate reputational risk for their organisations in an ever-changing digital world.

The private wealth industry awards attract over a hundred marketing and PR professionals from more than 30 companies within the wealth management industry who attend the annual in-person awards reception in London. The contest received more than 200 submissions this year that were reviewed by an independent judging panel including representatives from JTC Group, Zedra, Rathbones, Schroders Wealth Management, Mischnon de Reya LLP, Equiom and Citywealth.

Karen Jones, editor of Citywealth, commented: "Brands came under scrutiny and strain over the last year as the global population moved to their phones, making them able to comment publicly through apps such as Twitter about worker decisions. It was a testing time for companies and individuals as the world found its voice. Our 2021 winners demonstrated strength and leadership over this time of global health crisis. They helped keep teams together and really brought home the meaning of brand values for clients and staff. Congratulations to our 2021 winners who had to be concise in their communication strategies and comprehensive in their internal branding."

demic. Rather than being intimidated by the challenges the pandemic and subsequent Cayman Islands border closures posed for the hospitality industry, Fayette and Vincentini seized the opportunity to expand.

"We decided to take that time to adapt our business model, taking on additional space next door with a view to creating a classic, speakeasy-style bar that will be the venue in which everyone wants to start or end their night," said Fayette.

Agua bartenders Matt Fitzgerald and Corey Scruggs will be at the bar's helm and create an inventive menu of cocktails that celebrate Cayman's traditions. The restaurant group's new Operations Manager Wayne Epple explained the influence that Caymanian bush medicine has had on the menu.

"Traditionally Caymanians used herbs and passed-down recipes to heal a number of ailments," he said. "We are going to use those same herbs and spices with some local fruits in our cocktails. We are excited to launch a menu that is community-driven, inclusive and very much of Cayman."

In addition to the Cayman-inspired cocktail menu will be a bar bites menu created by Agua's executive chef Jon Herzog, providing ideal bites explained by Epple as "elegant bar food", to complement the bar's drinks offerings. The décor of the bar will add to the ambience, whether guests are enjoying a lively outdoor lounge furnished with items brought in from Italy, or the modern interiors that offer eclectically designed, low-lit booths, Chesterfield sofas and pocketed seating spots, partially inspired by Prohibition-era watering holes.

"Next Door is designed to offer an experience from start to finish," added Epple. "From an interactive, social food delivery with our staff and a conversational space to a satisfying menu of shared plates, the bar will be ideal for those going to or coming from a date night at the movies or a company hosting a social with clients or their team members."

London Office Hosts Networking 101 Workshop

Over 30 aspiring Caymanian professionals gained special insights into the art of navigating business social events at a development event on Wednesday evening (30 June 2021).

The unique networking event was organised by the Cayman Islands Government Office in the United Kingdom (CIGO-UK), and took place at Abacus Restaurant in Camana Bay. A principal aim, organisers say, was to help participants maintain their poise at any corporate social networking event they might attend in their professional careers.

Hosted by the new Cayman Islands Representative to the UK, Dr. Tasha Ebanks-Garcia, and the new Cultural Attaché for CIGO-UK, Ms Jessica Bodden, the event brought together young men and women, 21 years and up, with 14 local coaches who generously donated their time and expertise for the afternoon's activities.

Dr. Garcia and Ms Bodden organised the event as one of their first tasks for CIGO-UK.

The attendees included young professionals, a number of students who will be studying overseas from September this year as well as nine contestants vying for the Miss Cayman Islands crown at the annual pageant on 8 September.

Divided into groups, the participants spent equal time among five different stations that were coached by 14 business stalwarts and community leaders on several networking and social skill topics such as business etiquette, the art of introduction and the ability to talk interestingly about oneself. All the coaches generously donated their time and expertise for the workshop.

Dr. Garcia elaborated, "This was a development opportunity that targeted young professionals seeking to learn the soft skills necessary to be comfortable and confident at any business social event."

The event was delivered in two sections. During the first section (3-5.30 p.m.), participants worked in small groups with coaches who covered a range of topics related to business social events. The second section (5.30-7p.m.) allowed participants to practice their new skills at a cocktail reception attended by esteemed persons from the community.

At the reception, the young persons could put into practise everything they had learned during the workshop, including basic small talk which covered conversation starters about topics other than the weather, Dr. Garcia said. Abacus partnered with CIGO for the event and provided the venue at no charge. Additionally, all the drinks provided at the "cocktail" reception were non-alcoholic or "mocktails" and included only produce provided by local growers such as limes, sorrel, honey and watermelons, explained Ms Bodden.

She commented, "We thank all supporters and coaches for making the effort. We are overwhelmed by the support of the young Caymanian participants and the coaches alike. This purpose of this event was to empower any young Caymanian professional to be on par with the rest of the world. We hope that this continues and that we will see further support from Caymanians, the private sector and residents all working together to encourage our young people."

She believes there is potential to do more with this finishing school approach, including focusing on topics such as mortgage 101, how to balance a chequebook and how to invest. "I see it as a series on how to win at life," Ms Bodden added.

Attending the reception to encourage the participants and thank the volunteers were the Deputy Governor, Hon. Franz Manderson, Minister for Financial Services and Commerce, and Investment, Innovation and Social Development, Hon. Andre Ebanks and Cabinet Secretary, Mr. Samuel Rose.

Commenting on the event, participant Ryan Frick said, "It was incredibly Informative and covered a wide variety of topics that anyone, anywhere could benefit from." Devin Jeffers said, "This was an extremely well thought out event that would be beneficial for all individuals."

Morgan Ebanks noted, "The 'Perfecting the Elevator Pitch' session helped to test my confidence, and I thought the diversity of professionals was very beneficial as it provided various perspectives." Added Zoey Conolly Basdeo, "This was a fantastic opportunity for young professionals to learn new and essentials skills relevant to wherever you are in the world."

Commenting on the whole event, the Deputy Governor said, "I am delighted that CIG, led by the London Office, and along with the generosity of local volunteers and businesses could bring this much needed event to the direct benefit of young Caymanians. I hope there will be more organised for larger and more diverse groups of our young persons."

Cabinet Secretary Mr. Rose commented, "I am happy that our young people, even the most academically accomplished ones, now have the requisite social and networking skills to develop their personalities and their confidence levels, in business settings or when their public presence is required."

MCTAGGART REJECTS SAUNDERS' CLAIMS OVER STATE OF GOVERNMENT FINANCES

Hon. Leader of the Opposition and Political Leader of the Progressives, Roy McTaggart has hit back at accusations from Hon. Finance Minister Chris Saunders over the state of the government's finances the PACT coalition inherited from the former Progressives-led administration.

Mr McTaggart who held that position in the previous government who said he found the assertions of Mr Saunders "curious", stated that: "Either way, I will help set him right."

Mr Saunders has been questioning the calculations and projections of the previous government saying "one of the first challenges we had as a new government was getting the "correct" information."

According to him the actual deficit for 2020 was $87m – a difference of $49m which was more than double the $38m forecast.

The PACT (People-driven, Accountable, Competent and Transparent) Finance Minister has also estimated that the government's projected deficit for 2021 would be $200 million - more than double their predecessor's government's forecast deficit of $98m.

But Progressives leader McTaggart has now countered that it's Mr Saunders whose sums are wrong and claims that his successor might lack an understanding of how government works or is playing political games.

"Looked at in one light, it could be that the Minister may not understand how government truly works and is simply wrong. Or perhaps, as some have suggested, the Minister wishes to create doubt in the minds of the public regarding my stewardship as Finance Minister," Mr McTaggart retorted to the claims by his predecessor as finance minister.

Mr McTaggart gave a detailed outline of how under his stewardship the previous government arrived at its conclusions with the involvement of senior civil servants.

"I will tell the Finance Minister that I trust the Financial Secretary, the Accountant General, and the Ministry staff who prepared the 2020 year-end financial results back in March. I have some difficulty believing that they would have gotten their March figures that wrong. The change looks to have occurred under the Minister's watch but hopefully not under his direction."

He also challenged Mr Saunders on how he arrived at the new population estimate of 71,100, 6,000 more than the often-referenced Cayman Islands population figure of 65,000.

(Preparations are underway for the next census which will be carried out this year).

"I eagerly await the Minister's explanation as to what accounted for this supposed increase in the 2020 fiscal year-end deficit. I hope, though, that he has a better rationale for this increase than the one he offered for the increase in the estimated population numbers," he stated.

Former finance minister McTaggart also challenged Mr Saunders on the issue of the COVID-relief tourism stipend put in place by the Progressives government and which is being continued but reviewed by the current PACT administration.

"My government quite correctly provided funding for the stipend until only a month or so after the election, bearing in mind the principle that a government leaving office should not financially bind a new government. This would have allowed time for a new Government to increase the funding and continue the programme if it so wished," Mr McTaggart explained.

According to the Progressives leader, "There was nothing sinister in this – we acted responsibly.

► Hon. Leader of the Opposition and Political Leader of the Progressives, Roy McTaggart

The Minister was right about the funding period, but he is wrong that we would not have continued the stipend. As we said during the campaign, we would have increased the monthly stipend from $1,500 to $2,000."

Commenting on Mr Saunders' references to the Pre-Election Economic and Financial Update (PREFU), Mr McTaggart rejected the accusation that the previous government "was hypocritical for saying we supported continuing the programme yet only provided partial funding."

He said Mr Saunders "is either unaware of how the process works or is deliberately misleading."

In defending his government's achievements while in office, Mr McTaggart threw the ball back in the court of the PACT coalition of independents.

"I suspect that the real challenges that the Minister has are disagreements amongst the PACT team about what plans and policies to support. This disagreement was highlighted by a recent online news site that many believe has a direct line to the Premier. I suggest the Minister stick with putting together his SPS rather than spending time on innuendo."

Mr McTaggart said the Progressives-led coalition governments have left behind a solid foundation and successful policies on which the PACT government can build.

He concluded by challenging the PACT government on its record in office since it took over the reigns of power on April 21st.

"I await the Minister's explanation as to what caused the Ministry to increase the 2020 year-end deficit since he took office. I also look forward to hearing the government's strategic policy statement. Of course, those of us in the Opposition will support any sensible policies proposed by the government. And we will provide alternatives solutions to those policies we believe are not in the interest of these beloved Cayman Islands."

The new PACT government presents its Strategic Policy Statement (SPS) and the national budget on July 14th, at the first formal business session of the parliament since it was sworn in.

Home schooling Programmes Experience Significant Growth

Homeschooling in the Cayman Islands has seen exponential growth in recent times following the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic. Since the start of the 2020-2021 academic year, the Department of Education Services (DES) has approved one hundred and seventy applications, compared to the one hundred and four approved for the 2019 -2020 academic year.

DES Acting Customer Service Manager, Mrs. Gloria Bell, outlined some of the reasons why parents are opting to homeschool their children.

“People choose to homeschool their children for a variety of reasons. Home-school programs can be customised to help students excel further in areas of strength and provide tailored support where students are weak. Scheduling flexibility, fewer distractions, and no time spent on commuting or waiting for other students to finish tasks before moving on make homeschooling efficient,” Mrs. Bell commented.

Member of the Home Schoolers Association (HSA), Ms. Kathleen Spencer added, “Homeschooling can provide a high-quality educational experience, customised

During the 2020-2021 academic year, homeschoolers participated in field trips to several locations. These included the Airport Fire Station, Airport Control Tower, Pedro St. James, Radio Cayman, National Art Gallery, National Museum, Cayman Turtle Centre, Shark Talk (GHOF), and travel to Little Cayman to visit the Central Caribbean Marine Institute (CCMI).

Homeschools have also been quite active in local competitions, with some reaching high levels of achievement, in the Sea Perch Competition, Interschool Chess Tournament, Rotary Club Science Fair, and Interschool Maths Competition. One homeschooler was a 2021 Rubis Top Student Finalist, and another placed first in her category at the Rotary Science Fair. Homeschoolers also participated in the Annual Royal Bank Primary Spelling Bee competition, The National Children’s Festival of the Arts, and the Inter-primary and Inter-secondary Athletics competitions.

Numerous resources exist for homeschoolers in the Cayman Islands. The website, <https://homeschoolcayman.ky/>, provides information, lists curriculum options, resources for special needs, outlines the Cayman homeschool application process, helps with report writing, and much more.

DES Senior School Improvement Officers (SSIOs) recently began to conduct home visits in order to ensure that persons adhere to the programme and students are making progress.

“DES Officials were pleased with the overall Implementation of the programmes across all the homes that have been visited,” Mrs. Bell further stated. She also noted the high level of organisation and time management demonstrated by many homeschoolers who were able to articulate their progress over the course of the year and took ownership of their learning.

Mrs. Nicki Samuels, DES Senior Customer Service Officer, also commented on the high level of enthusiasm displayed by parents, who played a critical and integral role in monitoring and facilitating the learning. She also commended parents for the camaraderie displayed in collaborating their efforts and activities for school trips and overall guidance on the various programmes.

Award Ceremony

On Friday, June 18, 2021, the Home Schoolers Association (HSA) hosted its first award ceremony to celebrate and applaud students for their hard work.

Over one hundred parents and students gathered for the event held at the Dart Park Amphitheater and organised by Mrs. Kathleen Spencer and President of the (HSA) Mrs. Jamie McLaughlin.

Students were presented with certificates and gifts donated by Next Chapter, Strike Zone House of Fun, the Cayman Turtle Centre, ice cream from Cayman Ice Dream’s truck, popcorn from Cayman Corn pops, and finger foods.

CHANGING OF THE GUARD ON TWO KEY GOVERNMENT BOARDS

Sweeping changes have been made to the composition of two prominent government boards.

The PACT (People-driven, Accountable, Competent and Transparent) coalition Cabinet has overhauled the board membership of the Central Planning Authority (CPA) and the National Roads Authority (NRA).

The changes on the CPA in particular reflect a commitment by Hon. Premier Wayne Panton to diversify the boards with the inclusion of more women.

He recently referred to a review which he said has shown that previous and current membership of government-appointed bodies "is not equitable in terms of gender representation."

"We have a tremendous opportunity to create a new normal; one in which women are equally represented at some of the highest levels of decision making in our Islands," the Premier stated.

In that vein, five of the members of the new CPA board are now women.

The new 14-member board which makes key decisions on approving development projects and other aspects of the built infrastructure has been almost completely overhauled and comprises 12 new members.

Ian Pairadeau has assumed the role of chairman replacing longstanding predecessor A.L. Thompson with Handel Whittaker replacing Robert Watler Jr. as deputy chairman.

The four female members are; Christine Maltman, Celecia Bancroft, Shakina Bush and Danette McLaughlin.

Gillard McLaughlin, Joshua Bernard, Charles Russell Jr, Kenneth Ebanks, Windel Scott and Peter Campbell are the other new faces with Ashton Bodden, the only returning member from the previous board.

Previous CPA members were Alfred L. Thompson as chairman, Robert Walter Jr - deputy chairman, Kris Bergstrom, Peterkin Berry,

▶ Alric Lindsey is the NRA's new chairman

▶ Ian Pairadeau, is the CPA's new chairman

Ashton Bodden, Roland Bodden, Joseph Coe, Ray Hydes, Jaron Leslie, Trent McCoy, Selvin Richardson, Fred Whittaker, Christina McTaggart-Pineda - the sole female member then, and Haroon Pandohie, the Director of Planning.

The appointment term for the new CPA board members is two years.

On its website, the CPA describes its role as determining whether to support or not support an application for Development and dictates any conditions of approval if applicable based on reviews and recommendations provided by the Department of Planning and other Government Agencies.

The CPA is at the core of decision-making in the fine balance between development and sustainability in the Cayman Islands.

Meanwhile, a new board has been installed for the National Roads Authority.

It has a new chairman in the person of Alric Lindsey and includes six other new faces on the 11-member board.

Other members are; Stanley Panton - Deputy Director, Kelvin Dixon, Barry Martinez, Troy Whittaker, Anna Peccarino, Heidi Hunte-Webster, with Paul Andrew Bodden Jr (Andy), and Dane Walton as reappointments.

Also on the NRA board as the Chief Officer or designate and the Financial Secretary or designate.

Their appointments are for three years except for Ms Peccarino who will serve one year.

The NRA states its mission as contributing to sustainable transport and land development in the Cayman Islands by building and maintaining a safe and efficient network of roads.

It has a massive task on its hands in unclogging the gridlock on Cayman's congested road network which has been a recurring complaint.

OFREG LAUNCHES CUSTOMER SERVICE SURVEY

The Utility Regulation and Competition Office ('OfReg') has launched two online customer service surveys that will run through the month of July.

OfReg Chief Executive Officer Malike Cummings, said one of the surveys is intended for businesses operating in the industry sectors regulated by OfReg, whilst the other survey is directed to members of the public.

"Although some of the questions in both surveys are the same, they are designed to reflect the different ways in which OfReg interact with our distinct sets of stakeholders," Mr. Cummings said.

The link to the survey for the public will be available online at www.ofreg.gov.ky.

ky/survey. Links for the industry survey will be emailed to entities related to the sectors regulated by OfReg, which includes businesses operating in the information and communications technology ('ICT'), energy, fuel and water sectors.

After the survey ends on 31 July, results will be tabulated and analysed, and key takeaways will be made public at OfReg's website in August.

"The goal of these surveys is for us to better understand how well — or not well — we're meeting the needs and expectations of the community, whether they are industry-related stakeholders or members of the public." Mr. Cummings said. "If we're not meeting their needs in terms of customer service and accessibility to information, we would like to know why so that we can improve and better serve our stakeholders."

The insight and feedback from the public as well as from the industries we regulate will inform targeted improvement interventions. These surveys will be an annual feature, as part of OfReg's strategic imperative of continuous improvement, stakeholder engagement and improved service delivery.

Respondents can take the survey anonymously.

Housing Minister Visits NHDT Project Sites

Housing Minister Hon. Jay Ebanks, Parliamentary Secretary Hon. Isaac Rankine, Board members and staff from the National Housing Development Trust (NHDT) recently visited a number of housing projects being undertaken in Bodden Town and East End as well as a site in North Side that is currently planned for development.

The affordable home sites toured in North Side are located off North Side Road, East End at Will Jackson Drive and Bodden Town off Lake Destiny Drive and Sitwell Road.

Minister Ebanks said the team used the opportunity to discuss the current projects and highlight approaches to keeping the developments within cost while maintaining the houses affordable to Caymanian families. "The Government plans to empower the NHDT to increase the number of houses across districts and ensure that they build energy efficient sustainable units. I am particularly pleased to see that a housing development is moving forward in North Side and we are committed to having it completed in the near future so that affordable homes are available to the constituents", emphasised Minister Ebanks.

He further stated, "We want to take a multi-sector approach to address the growing housing needs across our Islands, while encouraging private developers and the banking industry to work with us to offer better options for Caymanians".

NHDT Chairman Mr. George Powell stated that he was pleased that the Trust and the approved contractors have committed to complete the contracted works within cost despite the high cost in construction material due to the global pandemic. "We are mindful that the formulated approach to maintaining cost and keeping houses affordable can be challenging. However, we are driven by the fact that the quality of houses that we are delivering is for prospective Caymanians to realise their dream and pride of homeownership," he noted.

Commenting on upcoming NHDT developments, Project Committee Chairman Mr Gary Berry said, "The NHDT will be coordinating and implementing new designs for our next upcoming projects, starting with West Bay and moving to North Side. We want to move away from the ideology of low income housing which has a negative stigma. We are currently in the planning stage for further projects and want to encourage young Caymanians to stop by the National Housing Development Trust office to collect application forms and sign up".

Since this year, the NHDT has started the construction of ten affordable houses, with seven in East End and three at the Bodden Town site. The Trust is currently in the planning phase with earthworks as well as infrastructure preliminary works set to commence in the coming weeks at the North Side site.

HSA Summer Internship Programme relaunches with 80 interns

After a one-year hiatus due to COVID-19, the Health Service Authority (HSA) relaunched their annual summer internship programme for 2021, providing approximately 80 college and high school students the opportunity to get hands-on experience in a variety of departments in the medical care field.

Those who were interested in the internship programme applied either online or in-person. Students had the option to choose what most aligned with their interest from over 16 departments, which include Nursing Administration, Physician Services, Biomed and Information Technology. Placements are set to last between 4 to 6 weeks, each with a different starting and ending date.

The purpose of the HSA Summer Internship is to help guide young Caymanians with the knowledge and training they would need before entering the world of work. Eye Clinic intern Kimberly Sterling, who attends Glasgow Caledonian University, shared why she decided to return to HSA for an internship.

"HSA has the best ophthalmologists and ophthalmic technicians and I have learnt a lot from them. This is the reason I've decided to return to the eye clinic since my first summer internship experience with them in 2019," she said. "I am an optometry student in my third year and working at the eye clinic has taught me so much. I plan on applying my knowledge."

The internship programme has also provided others such as Dayger Martinez-Taylor with an understanding of the importance of non-clinical departments to the Authority. "I've learned so much since starting my internship in Marketing and Communications. It gave me the chance to see how important marketing is for any business or hospital. Being here has also helped me develop my creative and critical thinking skills, which is essential for any field. I've received great advice and support from the staff in my department and would definitely love to work here in the future," he shared.

The HSA has made it their responsibility that each intern has an interactive but safe experience within the duration of the programme. "This summer, we are making sure that all of our interns are placed in a safe environment with adequate opportunities within their departments for their educational growth," said Chief Human Resources Officer Samantha Bennett. "We at HSA are determined to offer our professional guidance in any way possible and are thoroughly pleased with this year's interns display on achieving their goals."

Former British overseas territory First Minister groomed and sexually abused five girls

By UK National Crime Agency

A former First Minister of the British overseas territory of Montserrat has been convicted of sexually exploiting five girls including two 13 year olds.

(David Brandt, a prominent attorney, also served as Chief Minister of Montserrat from 1997 to 2001 - Caymanian Times)

David Brandt, aged 78, groomed the girls by giving them money, phone credit and used one girl, aged 15, to recruit others to abuse.

A joint investigation by the Royal Montserrat Police and National Crime Agency uncovered evidence that he sent his victims thousands of Eastern Caribbean Dollars to have sex with him and send him indecent images of themselves.

Yesterday (30 June 2021), Brandt, who led the Montserrat government between 1997 and 2001, was convicted of six counts of dealing in people under 18 for sexual exploitation and one charge of perverting the course of justice.

The jury failed to reach a verdict in respect of a seventh count of dealing in people under 18 for sexual exploitation.

Brandt's offences were carried out between September 2013 and June 2018.

He met one girl, aged 15, through his work as a lawyer. He groomed her and used her as a channel to other vulnerable young girls including two 13-year-olds.

He told the 15-year-old he wanted to abuse her and one of the 13-year-olds together and sent her 500 Eastern Caribbean dollars to arrange for him to abuse the younger girl.

Speaking of the 13-year-old, he told the older girl: "If she treat me good, I will treat she very good."

The disgraced lawyer obtained indecent images of both 13-year-olds, one of whom he first saw when she was 12 and said he wanted "to be with her".

Brandt was first arrested in September 2015. Officers searched his office and discovered sex toys, sexual enhancement medication, condoms and an unused mobile phone.

After he was charged with sex offences, he made five payments to one 16-year-old girl totalling over 2,000 Eastern Caribbean Dollars so she would not talk to investigators.

The case took so long to come to court because Brandt sought to delay the trial by appealing the decisions made by the numerous Judges that have been appointed to deal with the case.

He also attempted to have the data which was downloaded from his mobile phone excluded as evidence, which led to a significant number of Appeal Court Hearings and Privy Council Appeals on the matter.

NCA investigators built a case against Brandt from extensive phone records and text messages.

He promised to give a mobile phone and money in exchange for sex with a 17-year-old, whom records showed he paid a total of 3,000 Eastern Caribbean Dollars.

Phone evidence also suggested he had groomed this girl and the 15-year-old to have sex together while he watched.

He obtained two indecent images from another 16-year-old who introduced him to a girl who Brandt sexually abused between the ages of 15 and 17.

He paid both of these girls 1,900 Eastern Caribbean Dollars so he could abuse them together in his office.

NCA senior investigating officer Anne Farrelly, said: "David Brandt clearly posed a huge risk to children over many years.

"Evidence shows he did everything he could to groom and sexually abuse girls as young as 13 on several occasions.

"He plotted, paid money and relentlessly pursued these vulnerable young girls for his own sick gratification.

"He abused his position as an eminent lawyer and is also guilty of a huge betrayal of trust."

Tony Cook, Head of Child Sexual Abuse Operations at the NCA, said:

"This is an outstanding result. Our investigation into Brandt's offending has been both tenacious and painstaking in order to ensure he stood trial for some horrible crimes against local children.

"When he was arrested he made it quite clear to us he thought he would escape prosecution. He did everything in his power to delay and disrupt the criminal justice process, including appealing many of the judicial rulings and attempting to get key evidence excluded.

"He also made the victims give evidence and relive their abuse in court.

"His attempts were thwarted through a determination to seek justice for the victims and he will now serve a long sentence in prison where he no longer poses a risk to children.

"I sincerely hope this case sends a clear message to any other victims of child sexual abuse that they can have complete trust and confidence in the criminal justice process and law enforcement.

"Victims will always be fully supported, and we are determined to arrest and see prosecuted anyone who commits these atrocious offences, no matter who they are."

Brandt has been remanded in custody and will return to Montserrat High Court on 14 July 2021 to be sentenced.

UK TERRITORIES CONNECTION

By Michael Jarvis, London UK

BVI: CLAIMS OF NON-EXISTENT FARMS RECEIVING STIPENDS

As the British Virgin Islands Commission of Inquiry winds down its hearings, startling accusations have been made by the territory's Auditor General against the government.

Testifying before the UK-backed Commission, Auditor General Sonia Webster claimed that the government of Premier Andrew Fahie attempted to block her office from carrying out an audit of a COVID-19 stimulus funding scheme for farmers.

► British Virgin Islands Premier Andrew Fahie

She accused the government of failing to follow protocol and of engaging in persistent efforts to thwart her review by blocking access or otherwise refusing to present documentation and files about the scheme.

The Auditor General also questioned the way funds were given out and further stated that an on-site inspection of farms failed to show any evidence of farming... or farms.

The government has rejected the allegations.

In a radio broadcast, Premier Fahie said the audit was only a "snapshot picture at a given point in time...therefore, at a different point in time, the picture can change as the information changes."

He argued that "the validity and accuracy of an audit report also depend on the data that is analysed to come to the findings and conclusion."

Mr Fahie rationalised that "if all the data was not analysed or all of the data was not available to be analysed ... then the conclusion of the report has to be approached with caution because the analysis is not based on all the data."

The UK-funded and installed commission is wrapping its hearings and a preliminary report is expected by this month.

The Commission was installed in January at the request of the former Governor, Gus Jaspert into allegations of widespread corruption.

TCI: NO FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED IN 'COFFIN BOAT' INVESTIGATION

Authorities in the Turks and Caicos Islands have ruled out foul play on the case of a boat found in its territorial waters off Grand Turk with 20 dead people on board.

The nationalities of the deceased, who include two children, are still not known, nor the circumstances surrounding the origins of the boat although it is believed to be a human trafficking operation that has had terrible consequences.

Officials say investigations are continuing.

TCI Police Commissioner Trevor Botting said the boat appeared to have come from outside the Caribbean and authorities did not think it was destined for the Turks and Caicos Islands.

The craft was spotted by fishermen about two weeks ago who notified the authorities in the Turks and Caicos Islands.

The territory has an ongoing illegal immigration challenge with illegal refugees arriving by boat mainly from Haiti and the Dominican Republic.

The islands have also been used as a transshipment point by human traffickers trying to smuggle people into the United States.

► Gibraltar abortion referendum was hotly contested

GIBRALTAR RELAXES ABORTION LAWS

Voters in Gibraltar have backed a change in the law clearing the way for abortions.

A referendum on the issue this past Thursday, won by a two-thirds majority with 62 per cent in favour of the change and 36 per cent opposing it.

The changes would allow abortion up to the 12th week if the pregnant woman's physical or mental health is deemed to be at risk, or if there is a substantial risk of a fatal foetal abnormality.

Predominantly Catholic Gibraltar has some of the most stringent abortion laws in the Western world with penalties of life imprisonment still on the books.

Women in the British overseas territory seeking to have an abortion need to travel to Britain or cross the border into Spain.

BERMUDA AGREES TO CONCEPT OF G7 CORPORATE TAX

Bermuda has joined several other countries in agreeing to the concept of a global corporate tax structure being implemented by the G7 group of leading industrial nations.

At their recent meetings in London, the G7 countries have agreed to push ahead with the implementation of a global corporate tax rate of 15 per cent on multinational companies.

They say it's intended to curb the practice of large corporations banking their profits in low tax jurisdictions.

Bermuda's Premier David Burt, calling for fairness in how the tax is ultimately implemented, said the island was adhering to existing international agreements on tax compliance and anti-money laundering initiatives.

"The G7, the G20, the OECD and all the rest, they are going to keep coming. Our resilience is what has taken us through each and every single time they have done it. We are going to continue to do that, because we have demonstrated to the world that we are a high-quality jurisdiction."

However, Mr Burt said there were some technical aspects of the plan which his government has reservations about and would like to see addressed before the tax is applied.

In a statement following a preparatory meeting last week on the implementation of the tax, the Bermuda government said:

► Bermuda's Premier David Burt

"We remain committed to working collaboratively with partners in the public and private sector to maximise benefits which can be achieved as a result of this initiative."

It also stated, "Bermuda has been actively involved in ongoing discussions relating to this initiative to present positions that reflect the national interest and that of our various stakeholders."

Technical discussions on implementing the global corporate tax are continuing ahead of the meeting of G20 Finance Ministers in October when the details will be further fine-tuned. The law is planned to be in place by 2023.

The Cayman Islands, Gibraltar and the British Virgin Islands have also accepted the broad outline of the plan.

George's moniker fuels his trolls

Paul George was probably in the best form of his career until the LA Clippers ran out of steam last week, but he still has to deal with constant criticism.

George played possibly the best game of his career as the Clippers staved off elimination by defeating the Phoenix Suns 116-102 in Game 5 of the Western Conference finals last Monday. George posted 41 points, 13 rebounds, six assists and three steals on 15-of-20 shooting. That is one of the greatest NBA postseason stats. Yet it still hasn't appeased his detractors.

Soon after, the Suns began celebrating, George wondered "what if" Kawhi Leonard had been healthy.

The Clippers ran out of gas and comebacks as their resilient playoff run came to an end with Wednesday's 130-103 loss in Game 6.

Had Leonard not sprained his right knee in Game 4 in the previous round against the Utah Jazz, George is adamant the Clippers would have eclipsed the Suns.

"We'd be going on," George said when asked about Leonard's absence. "This series would be a lot different. Talk about one of the best players in the league being out, yet we were inches away from getting to the next round.

"So, definitely it's a 'what if' on this. Fact of the matter is we didn't do enough to win, and that's the reason we're going home."

Injuries, a fixture congestion and sheer fatigue caught up with the Clippers. So the trolls and haters will continue.

Maybe George created the disproportionate negativity after anointing himself "Playoff P". That was in 2018 and he's disappointed since. It now feels like he's on the verge of a breakthrough that actually seemed within his grasp nearly a decade ago.

In 2013, George was 23, a member of the Indiana Pacers and on the wrong end

But then George failed to get past the first round in each of his next four postseason appearances with the Pacers and Oklahoma City Thunder. Last season, the Clippers infamously blew a 3-1 lead over the Denver Nuggets. In the closeout game of that series, he shot 4-of-16 from the field and 2-of-11 from three.

Pocket Rocket jetting for glory

Shelly-Ann Fraser-Pryce looks certain to be the one to beat for women's gold in the sprints at the Tokyo Olympics later this month.

Fraser-Pryce established a lifetime best 21.79 seconds to win the 200 metres final and wrap up the sprint double at the Jamaica National Championships at the National Stadium last Sunday.

The two-time Olympic Games 100m gold medallist, who romped home in the 100m final in 10.71 seconds, won ahead of Shericka Jackson (21.82 secs) and defending Olympic Games 200m gold medallist Elaine Thompson-Herah (22.02 secs) in an identical repeat of the 100m placing.

Only a month ago, at the same venue the 34-year-old "Pocket Rocket" became the fastest woman alive when she posted a magnificent 10.63 secs in the 100m at the Jamaica Destiny Series.

"We have two other amazing ladies for Jamaica and the pool and the depth in sprinting that we have you can't focus on one person, you have to go out there and work hard. You have to stay committed and dedicated," Fraser-Pryce said.

Tank rolls on but stays selective

Gervonta "Tank" Davis confirmed his superstar status with a world title at a third weight in impressive fashion.

The 26-year-old super-featherweight (130lbs) world champion moved up two divisions to super-lightweight (140lbs) and knocked out a solid unbeaten fighter in Mario Barrios last Saturday in Las Vegas in the eleventh round.

The fight was staged by Floyd Mayweather's Mayweather Promotions and Al Haymon's PBC – with both fighters represented by Haymon.

This is the pattern Mayweather wants Davis to follow for the time being. He said at the post-fight press conference when Gervonta was asked about his next fight: "His team are gonna take care of that."

"Our thing is this, we work smarter, not harder. So we keep everything in-house.

Mayweather Promotions/PBC, we're all one family. We're not gonna go away and make another company great.

"We've got plenty at 140lbs, 135lbs, 130lbs. We're gonna continue to fight the fighters that we've got to fight."

This news will come as a blow to purists as the majority of the best fighters in those divisions are not in the PBC stable.

McLaughlin is new 400m hurdle queen

Sydney McLaughlin is not well known but by the way she shattered the women's 400 metres world record she will be one of the biggest names after the Tokyo Olympics.

McLaughlin finally outraced Dalilah Muhammad to earn victory, and improve that world record, at the US Olympic trials last week.

The 21-year-old's time of 51.90 seconds shattered the record by 0.26 seconds and beat Muhammad on the night by 0.52 seconds. It was a sensational victory in what had been touted as potentially the best race of the 10-day meet in Eugene, but it also set up what could be the best race in Tokyo. Barring something unexpected, the rematch will come on Aug. 4 with the Olympic gold medal on the line.

"Truly just faith and trusting the process," McLaughlin said when asked to explain her breakthrough.

McLaughlin burst on to the scene five years ago while still a teenager, telling stories about her multiple talents, which included juggling and riding a unicycle – and doing both at the same time.

Her 51.90 secs broke the record Muhammad set two years ago when they raced at the world championships. A few weeks before that, Muhammad set the world record by beating McLaughlin at the US nationals, too.

McLaughlin joined Bobby Kersee, the coach who mentored Allyson Felix, Jackie Joyner-Kersey and Florence Griffith Joyner, to see if he could help her surpass Muhammad. He put McLaughlin on a new plan, getting her focused on form and running shorter hurdles courses.

"It was trusting the process, and a lot of things you can't really see coming," McLaughlin said. "But just having the childlike faith in trusting everything is going to work out. Bobby's really good at that."

"She definitely pushes me," Muhammad said of her rival.

► Sydney McLaughlin set a new world record

Then, she turned to McLaughlin and said: "Congratulations, you world-record holder. It's going to be a battle in Tokyo for sure."
