Despite eight arrests for the shootings that took place at Martin Drive and Vic's Bar on Seymour Road in recent weeks, the RCIPS are still appealing for witnesses to come forward and give clear and concise evidence as to what they saw and then be prepared to give that evidence in a court of law. Witnesses should not be afraid to give evidence as the RCIPS would be able to protect them, if need be. Putting the gun men away would

Parliamentary Congratulation

*The Most Honourable Andrew Holness, ON, PC, MP, Prime Minister.
Office of the Prime Minister,
Kingston, Jamaica.*

Dear Prime Minister,
As a personal friend and as the Speaker of the House of Parliament and on behalf of the Representatives, it gives me great pride and distinct pleasure to learn of your installment by the Queen to the Privy Council.

It was commendable to have read that Her Majesty The Queen has been graciously pleased to approve that you be appointed a member of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council. Undoubtedly, this sends a strong and convincing message that the evidence is clear of the caliber and erudite mind which the Privy Council seeks and will rely on for your guidance and advice.

Obviously, you are a stalwart and a nation builder who will be able to analyse, distil and deliberate on difficult issues which the Committee may face and make cogent and rational decisions for the better good of governance. It is worthy to mention that it has been an inordinate and protracted time since a Prime Minister of the Caribbean has been appointed.

It's a magnanimous and significant achievement as you are now deemed an active member and participant of the body of officials and dignitaries chosen by the British monarch as an advisory council to the Crown. Your influence and decisions will be far reaching and has international impact and global effect. I am confident you will serve judiciously and fairly.

As the Prime Minister of Jamaica and as the representative of your people, you are highly respected and sought after in the Caribbean Region, the wider diaspora and the throughout the Commonwealth. To that end, this appointment is a clear indication of your value and contribution to society and influencing authorities to govern various jurisdictions. ## Tradeview Markets makes major commitment as the title sponsor of Women’s Rugby in the Cayman Islands

Women’s rugby has been soaring in popularity, growing in leaps and bounds in recent years. We should note, however, that the game has a long history with female players first taking up the sport over 130 years ago.

Like many clubs and leagues around the world, Cayman’s Women’s Rugby has created a welcoming culture where everyone is appreciated and celebrated. A wonderful aspect of rugby is that there really is a position for everyone. Smaller agile players make the perfect wingers, stronger and more powerful players have lots of fun at the forward positions, and a range of athletes find a fit and success playing as backs.

World Rugby estimates that there are well over 2 million women currently playing the sport. Rugby is more than a game or sport. Club and team structures make for a strong sense of family and community among players and the social bonds formed often last a lifetime.

Tradeview Markets strongly believes that rugby is empowers women and girls and we want to not only support the game on the pitch, but to help women in the sport grow on and off the pitch in Cayman.

The rugby culture in the Cayman Islands emphasizes sportsmanship, safety, leadership and camaraderie. Women who play the game realize that any player who is dedicated and diligent can succeed. The confidence, power and leadership developed through the sport help women to become unstoppable. We witness their experience and their incredible feeling of being part of a team. This collective spirit builds up players every day. The way women develop through rugby transcends the pitch and spills over into their social, family and working lives.

UCCI Nursing Students ACE Exams

Nursing students at the University College of the Cayman Islands have continued a winning streak tradition. Nine graduates, representing the fourth cohort of the program, all passed their Regional Examination for Nurse Registration, or RENR. The 100-percent pass rate was something no other participating school accomplished, and it was the second time UCCI's nursing students have pulled off the feat.

"This really shows the quality of our nursing education program and the dedication of our students, and faculty" said Nursing Director Terica Larmond. "To do this once is an accomplishment. To have it happen a second time truly indicates we are on the right track, and it elevates the profile of our nursing school."

She said the perfect pass rate was particularly impressive this year.

"These students were faced with delay and the many challenges brought on by the COVID-19 pandemic," she said. "However, they were not deterred. They took comfort in the concept that 'out of evil comes good.' Hence, the No-nonsense Nine nailed the RENR – 100 percent."

UCCI President and CEO Stacy McAfee said the continued success is an example of what is possible in local higher education.

"Our nursing program is stellar," McAfee said. "The student pass rates have shown this consistently. We also have other similarly strong programmes at UCCI. We have a dedicated faculty and staff that are all working hard to produce job-ready students who are capable of contributing great things to Cayman's economy and its future."

The nursing program was launched in 2013 and has produced five graduating cohorts of nurses. The fifth cohort participated in commencement in April will complete the nursing programme on Friday (July 16). Those students will take the regional exam in October.

Many of UCCI's nursing graduates are now working in Cayman hospitals, clinics and other healthcare facilities.

"Our program is building a legacy of locally trained nurses, Caymanians helping Caymanians, that will serve the nation well into our future," Larmond said.

SMB one of world's top 30 beaches

The global travel site Big 7 has just named its annual top 50 beaches in the world and Grand Cayman's Seven Mile Beach comes in at a healthy 29th place. While Cayman residents might be a bit biased and feel it should be top of the list, Seven Mile does stand in their top 30 alongside other impressive beaches, including Vaeroy Beach in Norway, which took the top spot, Whitehaven Beach in Australia's Whitsunday Islands which placed second, and Fig Tree Bay, located in Protaras, Cyprus, which took the third spot.

Closer to home, Jamaica's Negril beach came in at 30th place, South Beach in Miami was placed just in front of Seven Mile at 27th place, while Pig Beach in the Bahamas took tenth place and Grace Bay in the Turks and Caicos came in at fourth place.

The website said as one of the most famous beaches in the world, Seven Mile Beach was among the many reasons why Cayman was considered an ideal tropical destination. With sparkling waters and coral sands, it's so perfect it almost doesn't look real, the website said.

Placing was decided using aggregated scores from previous media results, official Blue Flag locations and contributions from the Big 7 Travel editorial team.

Seven Mile Beach is no stranger to international accolades, as last year it was voted the sixth best beach in the world in Tripadvisor's 2020 rankings in its annual Travelers' Choice Awards. In 2015 Seven Mile Beach was designated the world's top beach vacation spot by the U.S. News & World Report.

CG Britcay Launches Online Insurance Portal

In the wake of COVID-19, companies have been adapting to a new digital way of life and assessing how to better serve their clients. British Caymanian Insurance Company Limited (CG Britcay), has developed an online insurance portal that will allow their clients to access and pay for their policies on-line.

"We recognize that our clients need convenience more than ever," said Personal Lines Manager Toney Davis, "So we're evolving our services to provide exactly what they need."

The new insurance portal will allow direct clients, those who access CG BritCay's services directly through the insurer rather than a broker, to renew and pay for home and motor policies online with a debit or credit card. Clients will be able to access and view policy documents whenever they need to, and ask questions about their policy.

Mr. Davis explains, "to help with this transition, we are automatically entering every client who registers and logs into the portal in a draw to win various prizes. The prizes range from $100 gas and grocery vouchers to $500 utility vouchers, and RING Stick-up indoor/outdoor cameras. We're planning for more than 50 winners throughout the next 10 months, and feel that the automatic entry to win prizes along with the portal's ease of use is a win-win for all our clients."

The long-term goal is to have all CG Britcay direct clients using the portal and for personal insurance representatives to be on hand to answer questions. Davis notes, "We are excited for our clients to enjoy the ease and simplicity of this online portal, and will continue to develop and provide other convenient ways to do business."

Government supports local farmers

During a recent visit meeting with farmers on Cayman Brac, Jay Ebanks, Minister of Planning, Agriculture, Housing and Infrastructure, confirmed that it was his intention to support Cayman farmers and help them build a strong agricultural sector.

The MP made the visit in early July, accompanied by Parliamentary Secretary Isaac Rankine, Acting Chief Officer Leyda Nicholson-Makasare, Director of Agriculture Adrian Estwick, Vice President of the Cayman Islands Agricultural Society Geoffrey Ebanks and other members from the Ministry.

The visitors met with staff at the Department of Agriculture and toured the agricultural grounds, as well as a goat, pig and cattle farms. During the tour, he informed some of the farmers about the plans for the resuscitation of the Cayman Brac stud bull programme which is expected to provide natural insemination for cattle and improve and diversify the genetics of stock over the next four years.

Farmers were also updated on the new livestock development plan that is set to include a cattle breeding programme to include natural insemination and embryo transplant technology, which will be carried out across the Cayman Islands.

Minister Ebanks said he was particularly impressed by the efforts of Cayman's farmers and the quality of the animals.

"The visits to the farms provided an opportunity to engage and learn first-hand what is happening in the sector and the resources Government needs to provide to support the industry to implement modern practices. Part of our strategic approach, for the cattle industry is to increase herd size and improve local genetics," he advised. "This will result in high quality beef production and ultimately enhance food security for our Islands."

During the visit to Cayman Brac, the Minister and the Parliamentary Secretary also met with staff at the Department of Planning and were introduced to other employees at the Government Administration Building by District Commissioner Mark Tibbetts and Minister for District Administration Hon. Juliana O'Connor-Conolly.

Later this month, the Minister is set to have discussions with his counterparts in Jamaica about key priority areas in agriculture. The invitation has also been extended to the programme leads for agriculture at the Caribbean Agriculture Research and Development Institute and the Caribbean Community.

Youth Services Unit's Summer Offerings: Spaces Limited

The Youth Services Unit will keep students engaged this summer with its annual Teen Summit open to youth aged 13 – 17 years old. The two-week immersive summer experience taking place from July 19 – 30, will keep campers fully engaged in a range of interesting activities, interactive tours, games and learning opportunities.

The Summit at the University College of the Cayman Islands will be delivered in two parts. The first week entitled 'Beloved Isle' will focus on Cayman's culture, heritage and traditions. The focus of the second week called 'Onwards' will shift to youth development, training in leadership, citizenship and teamwork. The Teen Summit will run daily from 8 am to 3 pm.

Aimed at providing a structured outlet to keep students energetic and occupied over the summer; the Summit will feature a mixture of indoor and outdoor activities to promote Cayman's culture and to prepare youth for leadership capacities at school, a part-time job or a youth group.

Activities include kickball, dominoes, Beach Olympics, special guest speakers, cultural-historical tours, and a community service project.

Designate Head of the Youth Services Unit, Mr. James Myles notes: "We want to appeal to a wider cross-section of youth by offering two distinct summer programmes. 'Beloved Isle' is an activity-packed exploration of Cayman's unique heritage. 'Onwards' will improve their interpersonal skills. These camps are great when combined, or youth can attend one or the other depending on their interests."

"Spaces for the Teen Summit are limited. Parents and guardians can contact the Youth Services Unit to complete a registration form for one or both weeks. 'Beloved Isle' and 'Onwards' are competitively priced at $100 a week," he added.

"The Youth Services Unit is at the forefront of developing our nation's youth with enrichment opportunities. We want our youth experiences to be affordable, particularly because of the challenging year young people have faced. This is why it's essential for us to offer summer experiences that can give them a chance to relax, have fun, and still use the summertime constructively by learning about their own leadership potential and the community they are a part of," Mr. Myles concluded.

PACT PROJECTS 'OPTIMISM' IN 10-POINT STRATEGIC POLICY PLAN

By Staff Writer

A ten-point plan has formed the foundation of the first Strategic Policy Statement (SPS) of the PACT (People-driven, Accountable, Competent and Transparent) government presented in Parliament on Wednesday by Hon. Minister for Finance and Economic Development Chris Saunders.

Built on a philosophy of prudent fiscal management, Mr Saunders said the SPS is based on improving the lives of the people of the Cayman Islands.

The actual budget will be presented in November but outlining the key points of the revenue and expenditure projections, Mr Saunders painted a picture of stable government finances with growth projected over the period of the SPA from 2022 to 2024.

"The PACT government has crafted this SPS on strengthening our pillar industry of financial services, rebuilding and improving our tourism industry following the devastating impact of COVID-19 and diversifying our economy through new and developing industries," the Finance Minister and Deputy Premier stated.

Outlining the priorities over the next four years, Mr Saunders listed ten areas that they will focus on.

These are; improving education to promote lifelong learning and greater economic mobility, ensuring and equitable and sustainable healthcare system, providing solution to improve the wellbeing of the people of the Cayman islands "so that they can achieve their true potential."

He also spoke about strengthening good governance, supporting climate change resilience and sustainable development, increasing social justice in the workforce, utilising sports to enhance the lives of the people, building a modern infrastructure, and improving the financial services and tourism sectors as key pillars of the economy.

OPTIMISTIC OUTLOOK

Mr Saunders presented an optimistic recovery and growth outlook for the jurisdiction initially over the next fiscal year spreading through to the four year span of the SPS.

He said there were no plans of any additional taxes or fees as the government looking to be expansion of the construction industry with a number of major private and public sector projects coming on stream from which to derive import duties alongside consumer demand.

He said the construction industry will be a main economic driver in the coming period for both government finances and providing employment especially for Caymanians.

"This government has made it a policy priority to ensure that Caymanians have meaningful participation in the workforce and expect that this policy will shift the labour market dynamics."

The Finance Minister anticipates that in addition to more Caymanians being employed, the government's approach "will result in an overall unemployment rate moving from a forecast of five per cent in 2021 to 4.4 per cent in 2022 and then averaging 3.5 per cent in the remaining three years."

Mr Saunders also shared correspondence from the UK's Foreign Commonwealth and Development Office (FCDO) which he saw as an endorsement of the government's fiscal management in its first three months in office.

The letter from Paul Chandler, Director of British Government's Overseas Territories Office, said in part: "I am content that the Cayman Islands Government (CIG) can present the SPS to the Parliament and proceed with the proposed borrowing plans as the SPS forecast will remain in compliance with the borrowing limits set out in the Framework for Fiscal Responsibility. These would not require formal approval from the British government."

It goes on to state: "Despite the fiscal challenges that COVID-19 has brought the SPS demonstrates a commitment to sound financial management and shows the CIG's (Cayman Islands Governments) public finances in a strong position. It is particularly noticeable that you have maintained a high level of reserves and anticipate returning to an operating surplus by 2022 under these difficult circumstances."

Mr Saunders termed it as "an important and significant endorsement of the government's plan."

With the government now embarking on implementing its policies, Mr Saunders said their focus is on "the safety of the people of the Cayman Islands and the recovery of this economy are the top priorities of the PACT government."

PREMIER WARNS CRIME SURGE AND VACCINATION DELAYS COULD SET BACK RECOVERY

Speaking in support of the Strategic Policy Plan (SPS), Hon. Premier Wayne Panton, who just a few days ago gave a detailed overview of the PACT government's policies to the Chamber of Commerce, noted that Wednesday's presentation came three months to the day since his PACT coalition government was sworn into office.

"We have hit the ground running. As a team we are growing from strength to strength on a daily basis."

► Hon. Minister for Finance and Economic Development Chris Saunders

In expanding on the detail of what is contained in the SPS, Mr Panton was however mindful of two pressing issues facing the Cayman Islands; the vaccination campaign that's key to reopening the borders and the recent string of gun crimes - issue which he has addressed extensively recently.

He particularly lamented the recent shootings in which two young men were killed.

"If we do not address the crime problem," the Premier warned, "there'll be nothing here for visitors to want come to be enjoyed."

Cayman's attraction as a preferred holiday destination is also linked to reopening the borders, which in turn is linked to the success of the ongoing vaccination programme.

Mr Panton said that was the second major challenge facing Cayman and again urged those persons who have not yet had their vaccine to ignore what he called "misinformation and mischief" about the vaccines.

He said the government was still aiming for its target 80 per cent of the revised population number of 71,100 to safely open the borders to international visitors.

Premier Panton pointed to a worsening situation and sympathised with sister UK overseas territory the British Virgin Islands currently in the grips of a community spread of COVID-19 with over 1,000 cases in just a matter of weeks.

OPPOSITION REACTION

At press time Hon. Leader of the Opposition Roy McTaggart, leader of the Progressives was unpicking many elements of the SPS presented by the PACT coalition, pointing out that in part that they had inherited stable government finances left by his former government.

The former finance minister challenged the policies of the PACT coalition in part accusing them of "cancelling Christmas" by scaling back or dismantling policies left by the Progressives which he said were benefiting Caymanians.

While he acknowledged that the SPS package did contain some credible initiatives Mr McTaggart said they lacked detail.

"We in the Opposition were expecting more than what we heard from the Finance Minister and the Premier," he stated.

SPEAKERS REFLECTS ON CUBA AND HAITI

At the start of the meeting Hon. Speaker McKeeva Bush reflected on current development in Cuba and Haiti.

Cuba is being rocked by a waves of nationwide anti-government protests over food shortages, power outages and rising COVID-19 cases. Mr Bush said a Cayman aid package was being coordinated for the people of Cuba who are facing food shortages, increasing power outages and rising cases of COVID-19.

In Haiti, tensions are spreading following the assassination of its President Jovenel Moise and the attempted murder of his wife.

The Speaker expressed concern about the situation in the country and its wider implications.

► Young Gentlemen's Club – necktie competition

► Saying the pledge

Young Gentlemen's Club end of year awards

By Christopher Tobutt

The Young Gentlemen's Club shows young boys how to be young gentlemen, by showing good manners and being considerate and respectful of others, as they grow in a sense of self-esteem. It was started by founder members Pastor Winslow Johnson and his wife Diana Johnson in September 2020, and has quickly become very successful, with more than half of Cayman's primary schools already taking part. On Tuesday 6 July, Prospect Primary School Hall was filled with club members from Theoline L. McCoy Prospect, George Town primary, Sir John A. Cumber Primary for their very first End of Year Awards presentations. Present too were dignitaries from the government, including Acting Director of Youth James Myles and Minister of Youth Hon Bernie Bush, who each gave some tips to the younger ones about their own pathways to becoming gentlemen, and why it is so important.

After opening in prayer came a moment Pastor Johnson said he had been looking forward to since the club's inception: the time when all the young gentlemen would stand to recite the club pledge: "Today I pledge to be the best me I can be, to display honesty in all that I do, to treat others with respect, remembering always that I must respect myself first.. I pledge to show manners, that will help me grow, be grateful for life, I will dream for the impossible and reach what I felt was unreachable. With God's help, I will make it."

"Wow, what a year we have had," Pastor Johnson said, after the boys were finished, "Over the last few months, our YGC boys were engaged in a number of enlightening and fun activities. They have learned that it is important to acknowledge a person when they are walking into a room, and they learned how to introduce themselves to a person when they are meeting them for the first time. We also talked about dangerous drugs, keeping safe, and the importance of good hygiene habits. I have seen some of our YGC members begin the transformation into focused, empowered boys who are learning to work together, support each other and be their brother's keeper. If this is what we can accomplish in the YGC program in 10 months, I am excited about the future. Will you join us?"

There was a 'show and tell' where some of the young gentlemen demonstrated the art of introducing yourself properly to a new friend: "My name is Alec, nice to meet you, what is yours?" "My name is Cameron," "What is your favorite colour?..."

Next, there was a Best Necktie Competition with boys representing each of the schools coming up onstage. They took their time tying it, but that is OK because it's quite difficult and its best to get it just right. Some of them were helped by Hon. Bernie Bush, who later admitted that he hadn't got around to tying a necktie until quite a bit later in life. Addressing the young gentlemen he said, "Everything in your pledge says it. It's a gentlemen's club, and when you leave here, open doors for the ladies, and pull out chairs for the ladies. When they call you a 'gentleman,' it's an awesome thing, it's a nice thing. ...please remember what you have been taught. Do not be afraid to ask for guidance."

Acting Director of Youth, Mr. James Myles also had some words of advice: "23 years ago I took a pledge as part of the National Youth Task Force, and that ignited my passion to do more and to become more," he said.

Ombudsman issues data protection enforcement order against Department of Agriculture

The Ombudsman has ordered the Department of Agriculture (DoA) to stop collecting personal data from customers purchasing retail goods and to delete any personal data collected without a legal basis. The DoA must also provide a privacy notice when collecting personal data.

A member of the public submitted a complaint stating that the DoA was unnecessarily collecting personal data from individuals purchasing retail goods such as plants and trees. The information collected included the person's name, street address, postal address, email address and telephone contact.

The Ombudsman found the DoA had no privacy notification process to inform its customers who was processing the information or the specific purposes for which that information was being processed. She also found the DoA had no legal basis for processing the personal data of its customers and that collecting the data listed above for a simple retail purchase was unnecessary and excessive. The full text of the order can be found here: https://ombudsman.ky/images/pdf/decisions/dp\_decisions/DP\_Enforcement\_Order\_DoA\_202000892.pdf

The DoA was given 30 days to action the required changes. As with all enforcement orders made under the Data Protection Act, the entity against which the order is made has 45 days to comply or seek judicial review of the Ombudsman's decision.

In every transaction, whether in the public or private sector, a data controller should collect only the minimum personal data needed for a specified purpose. Customers have a right to know who is processing their information, for what purpose, and all processing must be conducted fairly and legally.

Anyone with questions about Cayman's Data Protection Act, should go to our website www.ombudsman.ky for further information. Data protection complaints can be made to the Ombudsman's office at 946-6283 or via email at info@ombudsman.ky.

BLUE IGUANA GARDENS

Blue Iguana Conservation (BIC) is excited to announce their Blue Iguana Gardens initiative. Individuals, families, schools, local businesses and developers can sign up and identify areas within private land and gardens in order to grow and maintain supplemental food sources for the blue iguanas housed at the conservation breeding facility. Plants identified as food suitable for blue iguanas may already exist in your garden or on your land. In addition, participants are encouraged to grow native plants in their home gardens to benefit the endangered flora of Cayman and support other local wildlife, biodiversity as well as providing a food source/food collection location for our precious blues.

Operations Manager (BIC), Luke Harding said "Supporting the conservation of blue iguanas is not solely a task for BIC but a responsibility for everyone. The only way that we achieve long term sustainability is to work as a collective. This exciting initiative allows everyone to be involved and make a difference from local businesses, schools, landowners, right up to an individual with a balcony and a flowerpot. It's a community effort"

The driving force behind this unique opportunity to engage the community in supporting the Blue Iguana Gardens initiative is due to the loss of habitat and food sources for our blues. Sadly, we have lost nineteen out of thirty-two identified food sites due to change in landscape, and development pressures. The loss of these wild spaces impacts not only blue iguana food collection sources, but also habitats and food sources for butterflies, birds, insects and other native wildlife that are dependent on these environmental areas.

By empowering the general public to become involved in growing food plants the pressure on wild food collection sites will be eased and Cayman will become better engaged with this incredible species that is not found anywhere else in the world! Moreover, it reaches a wider aim which is to restore and protect native plant species and wild habitats for the overall benefit of the environment. Creating a Blue Iguana Garden does not mean that you will have blue iguanas in your garden or encourage the presence of the invasive green iguana.

"This initiative goes far beyond feeding iguanas, it is a way to help encourage engagement with the environment on all levels. It increases the immersion for people into Cayman's natural beauty and the understanding of the island fauna and flora for all ages" explained Luke.

If you are interested in joining the Blue Iguana Garden initiative you can sign up online via our website <https://national-trust.org.ky/blue-iguana-gardens/> Here you will find additional resources such as a Blue Iguana Garden Plant List and Blue Iguana Garden Pack. Contact bic@nationaltrust.org.ky for more details on how to become involved in this programme or to make a donation in support of Blue Iguana Conservation.

Police plea for gun violence witnesses

make Cayman the safe and secure place the public has always known, the RCIPS said.

Talking to the Caymanian Times, Peter Lansdown, Detective Superintendent, Major Crime, with the RCIPS, conceded it had been an extremely busy two weeks for the police, starting with the tragic shooting on Martin Drive, followed by the next shooting at Vic's Bar on Seymour Drive. Police were working non-stop, having set up two separate teams working in one incident room to track down the perpetrators, he advised.

"We are totally committed to stopping these incidents and catching the people responsible," he said. "We've had some successes. We're hoping we have managed to slow these incidents down to and trying to prevent future events."

Det Supt Lansdown said the RCIPS had received a lot of intelligence but not enough of the right type of evidence they needed to ensure the perpetrators were successfully prosecuted and punished.

"We've got a lot of information. We've got a lot of people who want to tell us what happened or what they heard has happened, so we are confident that we've got the information. The problem is we've got very few people willing to stand up and be witnesses and give evidence," he stated.

Although eight people had been arrested and some evidence had been recovered, without witness evidence telling the police what happened and be willing to do that in a court of law meant the police had problems charging people and getting them through the court process.

"We will protect witnesses. To convince them, we have got systems in place that work and they've worked over a number of years. We can protect witnesses, if they need to be," he said.

He pleaded with witnesses to trust the RCIPS.

"We can do the right thing. We can protect the communities of Cayman if people come forward and do the right thing for themselves, for their friends, their colleagues and for the community. If people stand up against these gunmen, we can stop this from continuing," he confirmed.

Det Supt Lansdown said that there had been a "dramatic escalation" in the type of violent weapons that had been used in these incidences.

"Without doubt, we think the Seymour Road shooting involved a fully automatic weapon. We think it's probably a hand gun that allows for automatic capability. We've recovered 9mm cases from virtually all of the scenes. We've got forensic analysis of those on going," he said.

While there had definitely been an escalation in gun violence in recent weeks, Det Supt Lansdown felt the problem was a cyclical one.

"When I came here six years ago, we had a similar problem, not quite as bad, but we managed to stop it. We reduced gun crime by 50-60% for a number of years and we recovered a number of firearms a few years ago over a period. I'm confident we are going to do the same again, but there has obviously been a route, a method of getting new firearms into the country," he warned.

Some of the firearms that had been used in these recent instances did not appear on the RCIPS's used database of firearms so they would not have come up in other crimes, so it would appear there were new weapons, but he said he was confident they would find them eventually.

"We need the public's help. If anyone has information anyone knows who these people are who are messing around with guns, they need to tell us good reliable information and we will recover those guns and make the islands safer again," he said.

People were at risk by doing nothing, the detective superintendent said.

"If they do something, we can protect them if we have to and we are very well versed at managing risk. If we know there's a risk, we can put protective measures in place. We can stop this spiral of violence; we can protect people, but we have to catch the people responsible and get the information and the evidence. Letting these people stay on the streets increases the risk against everybody, so it just isn't the answer to not doing anything. The answer is, to come to us and trust us that we can protect you. We've done it for years we will continue to do it."

There would be an increased police presence in the coming days, including firearms, uniform and covert teams covering what he termed the "hotpots" and covering all the difficult, challenging areas where the incidents occurred. People should not be scared and should still go out but should avoid the areas and establishments which attracted the wrong sort of people, he confirmed.

Det Supt Lansdown concluded:

"I appeal to the public to do the right thing, stand up and be counted and let us protect you if you need it. If you do the right thing and take these people off the streets, we will return to peace and normality."

Cayman Art Week boosts local art

artists participate. Studio bus tours took interested people around art studios in George Town and along Seven Mile Beach, while private tours gave art aficionados the chance to have one-to-one with artists and delve a bit more deeply into what makes the artists tick.

One such artist who found participation in Cayman Art Week highly beneficial was Julie Corsetti, who runs Deep Blue Images. Julie is a photographer whose artwork adorns homes and offices across the islands, while her commercial photography is featured in many locally produced magazines. Since Covid, however, Julie said she has explored new areas of opportunity, and Cayman Art Week helped her to do just that.

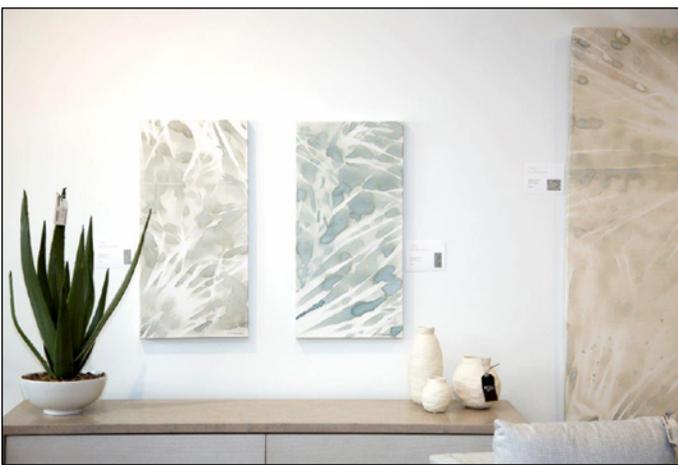

Julie's artwork for this event was displayed at a pop-up art exhibition at furniture store IDG, which she co-hosted with artists Carlos Garcia and Tracy McMenemy. It featured somewhat of a new and exciting direction for Julie's work, with photographs being printed on metal and an abstract feel to the content, displaying close-ups of ocean ripples and stark black and white palm fronds.

"As an artist, especially since Covid, I have had to go out more on the creative side and push out some images that haven't been seen before," Julie confirmed.

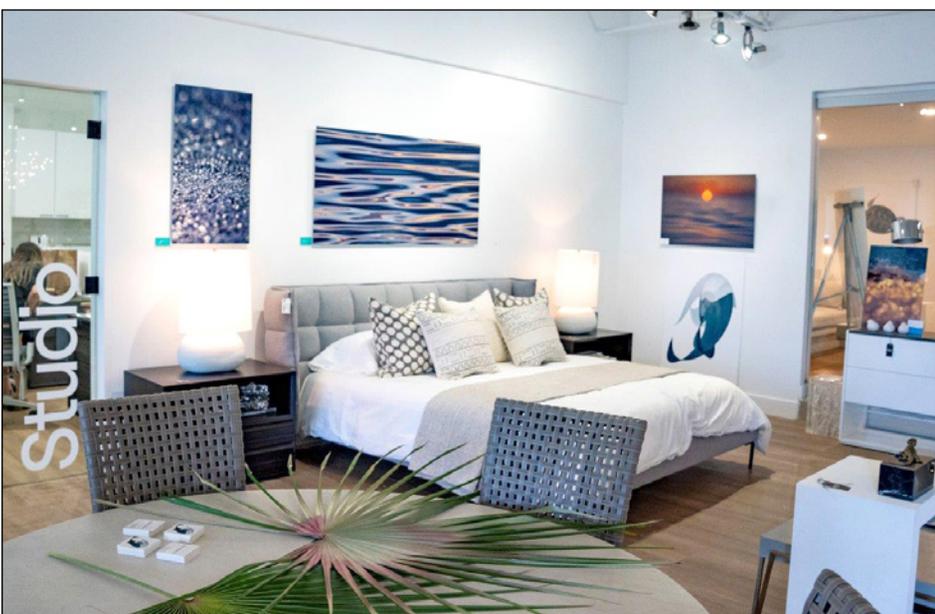

With so much competition in the photography field currently, Julie said experimenting with this edgier type of artwork required a certain level of skill which is acquired over time.

"Every time I do these shows I just try and show that I am growing as an artist and maybe take some risks," she said. "For some reason this year, creatively, I have so many visions in my head. The shoots that I am doing locally mean I have to come up with new ideas to make sure everyone does not look the same."

Julie said Instagram gave her lots of inspiration for her work, but generally she was simply inspired by anything to do with the sea. At the moment, she said she was loving photographing black and white palms, bringing in some negative space and toning down the bright colours in her work.

Opening up art

Cayman Art Week, organised by the National Gallery's Director Natalie Urquhart, had been a fantastic way to open up local art to the community in a really meaningful way, she confirmed.

"Everyone has been amazingly supportive about featuring the local artists and they did a great job in marketing the events," Julie stated. "Most of the people who usually come to my art shows are friends or extended friends or repeat customers, but this brought in a different crowd of people who I didn't know. It enabled me to meet a lot of new faces."

From this event, Julie said she picked up a couple of commission pieces, while some people wanted her to come and do home consults.

"A lot of people know I am a photographer but I don't think they realise that I'm doing so much of the printing now," she said.

One such person who was instrumental in the success of the art show was Tracy McMenemy, wife of the director of the Nicholas Cage movie that was recently shot in Cayman, who Julie had met while she was shooting stills on set. Tracy had brought in a whole new set of people who were enjoying local artwork and Julie was grateful for her support.

New perspective

At the same time, Julie said visiting other art shows gave her a new perspective and real insight into the work of her fellow local artists.

"I had never been in Al Ebanks studio," she said. "It was amazing to be able to pop from one studio to the next. It enabled me to see what other people are doing as well. You get so focused on your own work," she confirmed.

Up until this point, Julie said she felt local art has almost been underground, with many people going off island to source artwork. She said Cayman Art Week had really made an effort to support local artists by giving them a venue to showcase their work as they had been struggling a lot, relying on sales from cruise ship passengers in particular.

"I am more in touch now with artists than I have ever been. The result has been much more collaboration, much more respect for each other and trying to help each other out," she said. "Cayman Art Week came at a perfect time to feature local artists and hopefully some of the refurb and the building people will reach out to them instead of bringing everything in from overseas."

3 ways to snack smarter

What are you eating for your snacks and small meals? <== This is SUPER important!

If you're eating the wrong thing every 2-3 hours then it's easy to gain weight quickly, rather than the result that you want ==> which is to drop fat and clothes sizes.

Check out the following 3 ways to snack smarter, to keep you on track and burning fat all day long...

Snack smarter tip #1: quit sugar

Sugar is a huge problem! Snack on sugar and you WILL gain weight. So when it comes to snacks, this needs to be the number one nutrient that you check. Your frequent snacks should contain very little, or zero, added sugars.

WARNING: many 'health' foods have massive amounts of added sugars, which will destroy your results. Items like protein bars, jerky, dried fruit, green juice, and trail mix often have added sugars and preservatives that you need to watch out for and avoid.

Instead of added sugars, your snacks should be a nice blend of protein, fiber and complex carbohydrates.

Snack smarter tip #2: keep it portioned

What is the size of your snack? It's got to be petite in order to stoke our metabolism without adding too many calories.

A sneaky thing about packaged foods is that often it gives the nutritional facts for 2 or even 2.5 servings on a package that you will likely polish off the entire package.

If the servings are more than just one then you'll need to do some quick math. Calculate the total calories, sugar, carbs, fat and protein. Make sure that the numbers line up with your target nutrition sums.

Always be aware of how many servings you are eating in a single sitting. Do the math if you're eating more than one serving - be honest with yourself!

Snack smarter tip #3: choose real

Sure, packaged snacks are convenient. But know that you will always see better results by eating whole foods found in nature, or snacks that you've made with real food ingredients. Even the healthiest packaged protein bar from the store is going to contain preservatives and additives that are completely avoided in homemade foods.

A handful of raw nuts, a piece of fruit with fresh nut butter, a hard boiled egg, a homemade fitness muffin, some chicken breast on veggies or chopped flank steak on a salad are all better options than any packaged snack.

When possible, stick with whole foods found in nature and snacks and meals that you make at home.

I'm here to help you transform your body (and your whole life!) through the power of fitness.

FAITHFULNESS Daniel 6:3

By now Daniel is and old man. He had lived in Babylon from a youth and served in various positions for a succession of Kings. Darius the Mead had recently ascended the throne. He appointed 3 presidents and 120 princes to oversee his affairs. Apparently suspecting dishonesty amongst his officials and seeing Daniel's trustworthiness, he thought to place, "him over the whole realm. To have an old Hebrew over then was just plain intolerable. Therefore, the presidents and princes conspired against him, but Daniel's record proved unblemished. He hadn't embezzled money nor took bribes. Finding no fault there, they now conspired to attack his faith. "We will never find any charge against him unless we find something against him as it relates to the law of his God. Scientists revile our belief that God created all things. Some so-called Bible scholars scoff at our believing that Jesus Christ is our only hope of salvation. Let us remain ever faithful to God because He is faithful to us.

Uniting the World in Faith!

Jehovah's Witnesses Hold Global Virtual Event in 240 Lands, 500+ Languages

Breaking a century-old tradition in the name of health and safety, the largest convention organization in the world has moved its annual in-person event to a virtual format for the second time in as many years, canceling nearly 6,000 conventions in 240 lands.

For 24 consecutive years, the summers in Long Beach featured Jehovah's Witnesses streaming into the city to take over hotels and fill restaurants as they held their conventions at the Long Beach Convention Center. In 2020, the pandemic unexpectedly interrupted that tradition moving the international religious organization to cancel in-person conventions throughout the world and launch a global virtual event. This was a first for Jehovah's Witnesses, who have held public conventions in stadiums, arenas, convention centers, and theaters around the world since 1897.

"Powerful by Faith!" is the theme of the 2021 global event, which will be delivered in more than 500 languages to households throughout the globe over six weekends during July and August 2021, uniting some 15-20 million people in 240 countries. Since the convention is typically held from Friday through Sunday, the program will be available in six installments corresponding to morning and afternoon sessions. "Friday" morning's session will be available for streaming or download beginning June 28, 2021.

LOCAL FAMILY, CONGREGATION, CONVENTION VENUE EXPERIENCE, INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION EXPERIENCE, ETC...]

The continued risk of bringing thousands of people together in cities around the world prompted the organization to opt for a virtual platform for the second consecutive year.

However, the move has not curbed the enthusiasm for the annual event. Congregations around the world are inviting the public to join them in this historic occasion.

"Faith has helped our global brotherhood to continue to thrive even during a pandemic," said Robert Hendriks, U.S. spokesman for Jehovah's Witnesses. "Our faith will continue to unite us in worship—even virtually—as millions gather in private homes around the world to enjoy a powerful and inspiring spiritual program."

All are invited to attend the event by going to www.jw.org on the web or JW Broadcasting on the free JW Library app available for iOS or Android, or on streaming platforms like ROKU TV, Apple TV, and others. The program is free and accessible to all. The schedule for download and global streaming is listed below.

Flag Presentation to CI Olympic Committee Ahead of Tokyo Games

► The Cayman flag, with local straw hat and this year's Olympic pin were part of the flag presentation. The Cayman Islands Olympic pin traditionally incorporates Caymanian and host country elements, the turtle is therefore covered in cherry blossoms

With the XXXII Olympics opening ceremony less than two weeks away, Cayman's national delegation will march behind the national flag gifted by the Cayman Islands Government. Minister of Youth, Sport, Culture and Heritage, Hon. Bernie Bush presented that flag to the Cayman Islands Olympic Committee on Saturday (10 July 2021).

Given to the committee's Chef de Mission, Janet Sairsingh, the handover at the Westin Hotel was attended by the Ministry's Chief Officer Teresa Echenique, CIOC President Lori Powell, its Secretary General Carson Ebanks and Digicel (Cayman) Chief Executive Officer Diane McAuliffe.

Minister Bush said: "Having previously been an Olympic Committee executive committee member for many years, I understand the importance of having the athletes know that the Minister of Sports and their government are one hundred per cent behind them. We congratulate and wish them every success in what will probably be one of the greatest sporting events of their careers."

"I also want to extend a very special thanks to our Olympic Committee and its staff for all the work they have done in getting our athletes ready for the games."

Following the presentation, CIOC President said: "We are extremely proud of this Olympic Team. Each and every athlete has shown focus, determination and commitment, in these uncertain times, to qualify for these games. Our athletes have also dedicated themselves to the Olympic values of friendship, respect and excellence in their sport and lives. And their reward is a well-deserved spot on Cayman's Olympic Team in Tokyo."

She added, "The CIOC would also like to thank the Ministry of Sport for their support to us and all the sporting federations on Island and looks forward to working very closely with the new Minister of Sport, Mr. Bernie Bush, to bring sports to its highest level."

Olympic hopefuls: Jillian Crooks, 15, (100m freestyle); Brett Fraser, 31, (50m freestyle); Kemar Hyman Oly, 31, (100m); Raegan Ruty, 19, (gymnastics), and Shalya Wray, 22, (400m), will shortly meet up with the Chef de Mission Sairsingh in Miami. The 11-person delegation, including coaches and support staff, will then undergo two rounds of COVID-19 testing before flying to Tokyo.

Digicel's Ms McAuliffe said: "On behalf of all of us at Digicel, we wish the five Caymanian athletes a tremendous experience at the Olympics, proudly representing Cayman. Additionally, we wish all the athletes across all our countries much success at this world-class event and as the Caribbean Official Broadcaster everyone can enjoy this global event on the SportsMax (SMAX) app."

In a new tradition, according to official reports, national teams will be led out at the opening ceremony (Friday, 23 July) in the Japan National Stadium by both a male and female flag bearer.

CUBANS STAGE RARE ANTI-GOVERNMENT PROTESTS

By Michael Jarvis

Despite the hope of a home-grown vaccine, a combination of rising COVID-19 cases and worsening economic conditions have seen Cubans in their thousands taking to the street to vent their frustrations against the government.

In a situation where the pandemic, the economy and politics have collided, what is seen as an unusual show of discontent against the government has rocked the Communist nation.

Cuba is struggling to cope with a surge in COVID-19 infections, hospitalisations and deaths at the same time the economy is taking a severe battering both from a slowdown in tourism caused by the pandemic, coupled with crippling economic sanctions by the United States.

Protests which have spread across the country include demands for President Miguel Diaz-Canel to step down.

They have been chanting anti-government slogans, criticising the government for its handling of the economy, complaining about food shortages and worsening power blackouts while at the same time insisting that the government roll out coronavirus vaccines as the pandemic deepens.

ECONOMIC PRESSURES

The President has responded by calling on his supporters to stage counter-protests in the spirit of the Castro-era Cuban revolution.

The Cuban government is blaming the shortage of food mostly on the continuing sanctions imposed by the United States which were relaxed under President Obama but reinstated by the Trump administration.

Experts familiar with the Cuba situation point out that since 2001 the US sanctions have exempted food, but note that current President Joe Biden is yet to state a clear policy on Cuba, including or whether or not he will overturn the sanctions re-imposed by ex-President Trump.

Other external factors are also said to have affected the food supply in Cuba such as the global surge in food prices which has made food imports prohibitively expensive for the country.

Another problem cited is the government's lack of hard currency due to the decline in tourism resulting from the pandemic, and a falloff in vital remittances especially by Cubans living in the United States.

Tough measures instituted by the government to secure foreign exchange reserves such as restricting residents from depositing dollars into their bank accounts for an undisclosed amount of time have angered many Cubans.

COVID CHALLENGES AND VACCINE HOPES

With COVID-19 now spreading across the country, hope is pinned on getting its anxiously-awaited Abdala and Soberana/Sovereign-1 and 2 vaccines approved.

A record 6,900 cases have been reported and 47 deaths attributed to the disease were reported this past Saturday alone.

A national vaccination trial is continuing with over six and a half million doses administered and more than 2.8 million people receiving their first shot.

The population of Cuba is 11.2 million.

The Cuban authorities claim that the Abdala vaccine is over 92 per cent effective after three doses, putting it on par with the Pfizer-BioNTech and Moderna medications.

Ongoing trials of the Soberana (or Sovereign) 02, are reported to be showing an efficacy rate of 62% with two doses with plans for a third dose to volunteers to see if the rate improves.

TENSE SITUATION

However, indications are that demonstrations are gaining momentum and could snowball into a bigger crisis for the Cuban government.

President Diaz-Canel has said some of the protesters were being manipulated by social media campaigns coordinated out of the United States, and by what he called "mercenaries" in Cuba.

He has warned that further "provocations" would not be tolerated.

In a statement on Monday, the Biden administration denied any US involvement.

President Biden himself said, "The Cuban people are demanding their freedom from an authoritarian regime. The US stands firmly with the people of Cuba as they assert their universal rights."

In what is seen as a direct response to the warning to the demonstrators by President Diaz-Canel, Mr Biden stated: "We call on the government of Cuba to refrain from violence in their attempt to silence the voices of the people of Cuba."
