Concern over 10-storey GT hotel

By Staff Writer

Ahead of a second meeting by the Central Planning Authority scheduled for 21st July to look at development of a 10-storey hotel in central George Town, concerns have been raised with the Director of Planning, Mr Haroon Pandohie, as to the initial approval of the development.

In a letter to the Director, copied to Planning Officer Marco Whittaker, the complainant wrote in detail about their

Health Screening Required for New Students

A mandatory health screening programme for students entering government schools in the Cayman Islands for the first time will run from 19 July-23 August.

The annual school screening programme is starting later than usual this year due to the Health Services Authority's ongoing commitments to providing testing and vaccination services during the global COVID-19 pandemic.

Noting that screenings are required even for students entering reception programmes, School Health Coordinator Nurse Carvell Bailey-Able adds that the Education Department requires that the process must be completed before the new school year begins in September.

The screening includes a growth and development assessment, screening for vision and hearing, a dental assessment, the administration of necessary immunisations, and obtaining a student's personal medical history.

For those children entering school in West Bay, screenings will be conducted at the Sir John A. Cumber Primary School. Meanwhile those headed to the Eastern districts, should visit Bodden Town Primary School.

For all other government primary school students (i.e George Town, Prospect and Red Bay Primaries), health screenings will take place in the nurse's office at the John Gray High School Medical Centre.

Parents and guardians alike are reminded that appointments can also be made at the school the child will be attending, and that they must be in attendance for the screening exercise. To expedite the screening process there, government primary school administration offices have already begun contacting students' families to make appointments. Parents must also remember to bring the child's immunisation record.

"Vaccines will be offered to children whose immunisations are not up-to-date. A health screening certificate will then be issued, which must be taken to the child's school," Nurse Carvell Bailey-Able explained.

Parents may also have their child's health screenings done by a private doctor, as long as that doctor completes the school health screening forms provided by the Public Health Department.

Completed forms for students from all schools should be handed in to the nurse's office at the John Gray High School Medical Centre between 19 July and 23 August, from 8.30 a.m. and 4p.m. Outside of these dates, the forms can be taken to the Cayman Islands Hospital's Public Health Clinic at the Cayman Islands Hospital.

Once they receive the record, school health officials will issue a health screening certificate. Prior to the start of the school year this must be taken to the school the child will enter in September.

Health screenings will also continue during September and October for any children who could not be screened during the summer. This phase will include children who are entering private schools for the first time.

In Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, appointments for school entry screenings can be made by contacting Public Health Nurse Kedine Hyde at Faith Hospital on 948-2243/244-7643.

Detailed information sheets for parents and guardians are available at the schools. For more information, please contact Nurse Carvell Bailey-Able on 244-2734 and 244-2648.

Cubans Protest on GT Waterfront

By Staff Writer

Members of the Cuban diaspora community in the Cayman Islands gathered on the George Town Waterfront on Saturday, 17th July for a peaceful protest to highlight the recent unrest in the Island Nation.

"We are here to join other human rights activists around the world to highlight the social injustice and the civil unrest that is sadly happening in Cuba. Our country is fighting for freedom," noted Lianet Hydes; one of the protest's organizers.

The anti-government demonstrations in Cuba began when thousands took to the streets in protest over food and medicine shortages, price hikes and the government's handling of Covid-19.

Starting with a demonstration in the city of San Antonio de los Baños, southwest of Havana, the unrest has now spread throughout the country.

Posts on social media showed people overturning police cars and looting state-owned shops that price their goods in foreign currencies.

Some of the participants Mrs. Hydes' group point out that for many Cubans, these shops are the only way they can buy basic necessities but prices are high.

Cuban President Miguel Díaz-Canel has called the demonstrators "counter-revolutionaries".

His government has blamed the United States, and its economic sanctions, for both the protests and Cuba's wider problems.

US sanctions have restricted trade with Cuba since 1962. They were tightened under former US President Donald Trump, who also imposed sanctions on Venezuela, which is Cuba's main supplier of oil.

Cuba's foreign minister called the restrictions a, "policy of economic suffocation to provoke social unrest in the country".

Speaking on Monday, President Joe Biden said the US "stands firmly with the people of Cuba as they assert their universal rights".

Cayman has Five Olympians

The Cayman Islands Olympic team has five athletes from three sports in Tokyo, Japan for the Summer Olympic Games which start on Friday Athletes Kemar Hyman and Shalysa Wray, swimmers Brett Fraser and Jillian Crooks and gymnast Raegan Ruty are representing Cayman at the world's biggest sporting event.

Kemar Hyman, 31, 100m

Hyman is the national record holder in the 100 and 200 metres. He also holds the 60m record with Olympian Kareem Streete-Thompson in 6.56 seconds. He graduated from Florida State University with an economics degree where he also won many track honours.

This is the third Olympics for the George Town resident. "It's a relief and a long time coming," he said.

Qualifying almost two years ago, Hyman, like many others, has been contemplating whether the Tokyo Games would actually happen. (Even at press time there was speculation it could still be cancelled).

Hyman qualified for the Games in 2019 after running the 100m in 10.02 seconds at the Johnny Loaring Classic in Canada. The global pandemic kicked in 18 months ago.

"It was definitely a mental roller-coaster. There were hardly any competitions last year due to COVID, and there were a lot of cancellations for track meets. And, I do think that altered the shape I was in, prior pre-COVID."

Although Hyman's training slowed down, he was able to work alongside Cayman's athletics coach Kenrick Williams for over a year.

"I know things won't be 100 percent at these Games, but I can say I am better prepared mentally in 2021 as opposed to 2020. As always, I do feel my goal in any competition, big or small, is to get through the rounds and execute the best race possible, like my performance at the 2018 Commonwealth Games."

Shalysa Wray, 22, 400m

Wray is no stranger to the international stage, having recently competed at the 2021 under-18 and under-23 North America, Central America, and Caribbean (NACAC) championships in Costa Rica, taking fourth place in the 400m finals. She is an outstanding athlete at the Kansas State University.

"My goal for this Olympics is really just to finish healthy and run a personal record," she said. "I'm also hoping that this experience will teach and prepare me for future games and even the World Championships next year. I've been training very hard for the Games and training is going very well so I'm hoping to run a PR."

"I'm looking forward to the experience of being and getting to compete at the Olympic Games."

► Kemar Hyman

► Shalysa Wray

Despite the strict Covid-19 protocols, Wray is still expecting it to be a great experience.

Brett Fraser, 31, 50m freestyle

Fraser is gearing up for his third Olympic performance at #Tokyo2020. Although qualifying more than a year ago, he continued to train meticulously despite the global pandemic.

"The COVID delay provided [me with a] longer preparation period which I have found to be beneficial," he said. It allowed him to "focus on strength training and refine race relative techniques".

Fraser qualified for the Games at the 2020 Geneva International Challenge Meet with a B-standard Olympic time of 22.54 seconds in the 50m free.

His goal is to make the final of the 50m freestyle. Fraser, having previously competed at Beijing 2008 and London 2012, like other Olympians, will be accustomed to packed stadiums and roars from excited spectators. But there will be absolutely no fans.

Despite the limitations, Fraser is just as eager to be competing at #Tokyo2020

"This is my first time competing in Japan, and I have confidence the Games and competition will still be great, given the limitations."

Jillian Crooks, 15, 50m free

Crooks is still at high school but the precocious teenager's exceptional ability in the pool sees her in Tokyo competing with the world's best. No wonder she says: "It is a remarkable feeling!"

Crooks, has already represented Cayman internationally at six meets and holds more than 100 Cayman Islands swimming records at many levels.

"It feels like I have made my seven-year-old self-proud. Becoming an Olympian has motivated me to work and challenge myself harder than I have ever done before."

"I am looking forward to representing the Cayman Islands on the world stage. Competing at the Games will be a good opportunity for me to race against new and faster competitors."

She has broken many barriers, not only becoming the first female to swim under 29 seconds in the 50m butterfly but also smashing the senior national record to become Cayman's fastest female with a mark of 28.72 secs at the UANA Olympic Qualifier in Clermont, Florida.

"My goals for the 2021 Olympic Games are to make a personal best time in the 100m freestyle and hopefully, make a semi-final."

Crooks credits the Lord. "I would like to thank God for giving me this talent and providing me with the opportunity to use it; my family, my church family, my friends and coaches: coach Caleb Miller, coach Bailey Weathers, coach Grant Ferguson. I have been blessed to be surrounded by so many beautiful people who wish me well, and to you, I say, thank you! I hope to use my journey to inspire younger local athletes."

Gymnast Raegan Ruty, 19

Ruty was introduced to gymnastics aged four since her sister was already in the sport and 15 years later is now a proud Olympian.

Ruty will be the first gymnast and only the ninth woman from the Cayman Islands to compete at the Olympics, and she looks to inspire athletes of all disciplines.

"I really want, even if they're not gymnasts, just because Cayman Islands is a small island doesn't mean we can't achieve anything," she said. "If we come together, we're an amazing country. We can make big strides forward in the world of sports or anything. I want kids to realise that if you have a dream to go after it because you never know how far it could take you."

Ruty only secured her Olympic berth a few weeks ago, but she was already training flat out in anticipation. She has also added more difficult skills in her routines where possible.

"It's quite hard you know," she said. "Sometimes I cry because just I'm so happy and grateful. Other times I can't sleep at night because it's just finally here. I've got everything I wanted. I try and contain it, but I do scream a little bit inside all the time."

Ruty expects one of her biggest challenges at the Olympics to be competing without an audience.

"I know that everyone's still supporting me," she said. "I just know I have to keep up that energy that a crowd would usually give off and just keep myself almost hyped and pumped, and I know I'm at the Olympic Games and make the most of the experience."

For some years, Ruty has lived in Katy, Texas to get higher level coaching and use of excellent facilities. The wrench has been difficult but for her, utterly worthwhile.

CONCERN OVER NEW GLOBAL SURGE IN COVID CASES

By Michael Jarvis,
London UK

COVID-19 cases are rising across the United Kingdom, the United States, the European Union, and elsewhere including several Caribbean countries.

The World Health Organisation (WHO) is warning of a new global wave on the back of the rapid spread of the Delta variant which first emerged in India.

WHO Director-General Dr Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus said they expect the Delta variant to be the dominant strain circulating worldwide - if it isn't already.

It is now responsible for the current rise in cases in the UK and the US while a new Beta variant in France is the cause of a current surge there.

Countries are struggling to find a balance between economic recovery and safeguarding public health as cases rise at the same time, with the UK among a handful relaxing or completely removing lockdown restrictions.

In the United Kingdom, the British government removed practically all of the COVID-19 restrictions in England this week, putting the emphasis on public and corporate responsibility to act safely. But Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland have taken a more cautious stance insisting that mask-wearing remains legally required.

At the same time, the restrictions were loosened in the controversially labelled 'Freedom Day', COVID cases in the UK were shooting up by over 40 per cent from the previous week.

The government based its decision on the vaccination uptake to date, with around 88 per cent of UK adults getting their first dose of a COVID-19 vaccine, and nearly 68% receiving both doses.

The UK has had one of the highest death tolls globally from COVID-19, but a higher vaccination rate than its European counterparts - although the vaccination rates have recently started increasing in many of the EU countries.

In the United States, unvaccinated people are leading the numbers of hospitalisations and deaths from COVID-19 by an average 97 per cent, leading some officials to term the present situation as 'a pandemic of the unvaccinated'.

Vaccination campaigns have started to slow in many nations even as the new surge of the virus, driven by the Delta variant threatens to derail the progress made to date.

There's also growing concern over the level of vaccination hesitation by certain groups on cultural, religious, or grounds of misinformation.

A positive note in all this is that while COVID-19 cases are rising, the severity of illness warranting hospital care has decreased compared to the previous waves. This has been credited to the vaccines so far.

Meanwhile, protests - some against the vaccines - but mainly objecting to lockdown measures are gaining traction in some places, including the Caribbean.

In French St Martin this weekend a protest is planned against restrictions being imposed by the local government which the protest organisers say violate their civil rights.

In the Netherlands recently, riots broke out after the Dutch government put emergency measures in place on some cities. It was overruled by a court on the basis that the emergency 'wasn't serious enough' to warrant curbs on public movement.

The subsequent 'unlocking', including holding music events with thousands of people, was followed by a surge in COVID-19 cases forcing the Dutch Prime Minister, Mark Rutte, to apologise for what he called 'a miscalculation'.

The Tokyo 'no-crowds' Olympics due to start this weekend has also been the target of massive protests, especially as several athletes and event staff have tested positive since arriving at the venue.

Japan is also in the grips of another COVID-19 wave. A state of emergency has been declared as cases are soaring again.

Other events with huge crowds such as the recent Euros football championships held in London and other EU capitals are regarded by many health experts as potential COVID-19 super-spreaders.

The global situation is further complicated with conflicting national policies on managing the crisis, including immigration and travel, public gatherings, opening up businesses and government offices, and mask-wearing.

This is now causing growing political and social tensions both at home and between countries.

It has also led to an increase in calls for an urgent summit of world leaders - to be held remotely dedicated solely to coordinating current and future policy for dealing with the pandemic.

Premier's Vaccination Appeal

Premier Wayne Panton urges the community to "roll up its sleeves and protect the vulnerable community and get vaccinated".

"It's about the community and the interests of our country" he said in a statement to Parliament.

The Premier said he had to make a "clear and firm stance against the wave of misinformation, selfish behavior and apathy that is placing us all at risk".

He went on to say as COVID-19 is not going away anytime soon, we all had to exist in a world alongside COVID-19.

The people who get sick are those who had not been vaccinated, the most vulnerable and children, he said, adding that healthy young people around the world were getting sick if they hadn't been vaccinated, so he urged them to get vaccinated also.

The Premier also said the government was considering the requirement of a health pass to permit access to cinemas, bars, restaurants, hospitals, planes and other forms of transportation.

"I can assure you that this Government will be prepared to take all of the measures needed - some may call them Draconian if you will - to protect every single living soul in the islands" he said.

The Premier urged the Opposition to support the government's decision to open later in September than the Opposition had called for and not to politicise the situation.

Cement importation now allowed from additional countries

Three countries have been added to the Cayman Islands' list of approved cement providers to help ease shortages suffered by the local construction industry amidst rising global demand.

The Customs & Border Control (Prohibited Goods) (Amendment) Order, 2021, came into effect on 14 July 2021, adding Colombia, Cuba and Panama as authorised countries for the purposes of importing cement to the Cayman Islands.

Deputy Premier and Minister for Finance, Economic Development, Border Control & Labour Hon. Chris Saunders said, "The PACT Government is committed to supporting sustainable development, lowering construction costs and encouraging increased Caymanian home ownership. Adding to the list of countries approved for cement importation will provide much-needed cement supplies to the local construction industry and help prevent building delays."

Deputy Premier Saunders noted that cement shortages have affected local homeowners needing to make urgent home repairs as well as impacting larger-scale commercial construction projects.

He said, "The shortage of cement has hit hard across the board, with cement regularly selling out before ships carrying new supplies arrive in port. Companies are now able to source additional supplies of cement from new markets, allowing greater supply to meet the increasing local demand."

The global demand for cement is projected to continue rising over the next two to three years due to increased construction activity in developing countries around the world.

Deputy Premier Saunders said, "It is imperative for the Government to take swift decisions and timely action to mitigate against construction supply shortages that could negatively impact Cayman's economic growth and infrastructure development. We have seen other countries across the region affected, and acted to curtail and limit the local impact."

The Department of Customs and Border Control Service, in conjunction with other local enforcement agencies, will ensure that robust inspection and monitoring mechanisms are established with regard to the cement importation from new markets to ensure quality control and guard against any risks.

UKOT Speakers Meet Virtually

The Speaker of the Parliament, Hon. McKeeva Bush and the Deputy Speaker Hon. Katherine Ebanks-Wilks attended a virtual meeting recently where they interacted with Speakers of other UK Overseas Territories (OTs).

Called and chaired by the UK House of Commons Speaker, Sir Lindsay H. Hoyle, the first-ever "meet and greet" event was also the venue to discuss the first OTs Speakers' Conference planned by the UK Speaker for 2022, as well as other future collaborative endeavours.

According to the UK office, the conference aims to:

- Foster contacts, coordination, and the exchange of experience among Speakers of the UK House of Commons and Overseas Territories;
- Consider questions of interest and express non-party-political views on such issues.
- Promotion of knowledge and understanding of parliamentary democracy in its various forms and the development of parliamentary institutions.

OTs participants attending the virtual meet were from Anguilla, Bermuda, British Virgin Islands, Cayman Islands, Falkland Islands, Gibraltar, Montserrat, St Helena, Tristan da Cunha and Turks and Caicos Islands.

At the meeting, Hon. Bush and Hon. Ebanks-Wilks highlighted the CI Parliament's brief history and working, as well as challenges arising from the COVID-19 pandemic. "The meeting also served as an opportunity for the UK Speaker to underscore his aim to foster and develop relationships with the UKOTs and their people's representatives," Speaker Bush noted.

In a release after the event, the UK Speaker said "For too long I have felt the British Overseas Territories have been overlooked, yet so many of the decisions we make here in the UK have a huge impact on their futures.

"This is why it is so important to me that during my term as Speaker, we engage with and learn from all of the British Overseas Territories, so I am really pleased we have been able to make history and connect..."

Sir Lindsay hopes the new forum, entitled Speakers of the House of Commons and Overseas Territories Conference, will help its membership foster contacts, share information and experiences, the release states. It is also aimed at the Speaker "fostering productive and collaborative relations with all the OTs Speakers and moving forward to building lasting bonds between the UK Parliament and all OTs".

Welcoming the establishment of the conference, Speaker Bush said: "I wholeheartedly endorse the initiative of the Speaker of UK's House of Commons, in which he is developing an outreach which sits well with my intentions that I envision for our first-class Parliament.

"This engenders convening Lecture Series including international and local presenters of topical or current issues, among other things. All with the purpose of raising the status and image of our autonomous Parliament and serving a multiplicity of useful functions and role in our society on a whole."

The Speaker added, "Noteworthy and importantly for continuity of service, I took the liberty and opportunity to invite the Deputy Speaker to sit in this inaugural meeting to have her present and involved in the process as we work and serve as a team."

concerns over the development of a Hotel One, a 268,173 sq ft development that includes a hotel, two restaurants/bars and two pools, as detailed in a Planning Decision P21-0363 HPW INVESTMENTS LTD that was made at a CPA meeting on 23rd June and posted on 13th July 2021.

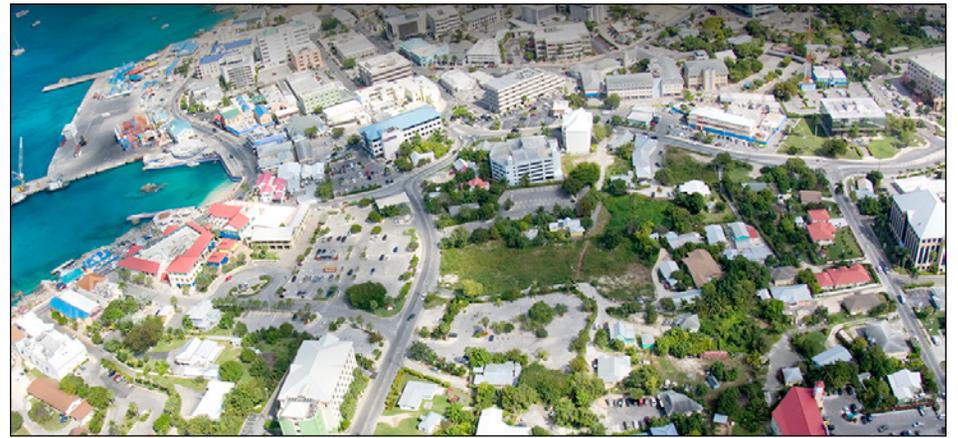

In particular, they noted, that, according to the notes they had from the CPA meeting, the Department of Environmental Health did not recommend the hotel for approval.

"This was highlighted and it is unclear why the meeting commenced in contradiction to the request," the letter to the Director stated. "Concerns about lack of infrastructure to support the impact of development growth do not appear to have been discussed in the context of the hotel and are a key component missing from this approval process, as are population trends, capacity studies and land availability covered in the 1997 Development Plan as well as for part of the recent debate surrounding the Cruise Port Referendum."

The letter stated that one of the reasons the development had been approved by the CPA was because it was: "in keeping with the existing commercial character of the area which includes many multi-storey commercial buildings".

The letter writer, who was acting on behalf of the complainant, Ms. Catherine Frazier, and supported by Amplify Cay-man, gave a detailed response to this assertion, stating: "Excluding South Church Street, there are as many as 30 small modest single storey dwellings spread out over approx. 100 acres around the proposed site area with just one modern office block (Citrus Grove). The remaining commercial buildings on Goring Avenue are either car parks, vacant lots or small commercial buildings that complement the historic architecture preserved in the area."

The writer also complained to Mr Pandohie that while the Development and Planning Regulations were recently amended to allow buildings with a height of 10 storeys/130' in the area where the development has been proposed, the zoning in the area was only approved in February of this year and with little consultation and without an overall area plan.

They went on to say that the CPA had determined that there was no historic overlay in George Town therefore the provisions of Regulation 16 of the Development and Planning Regulation (2021 Revision) did not apply. To this point, the writer outlined examples of the historical and cultural significance of the location, noting it was home to one of the earliest settlements in George Town, dating back to the late 1790s. A list of historic homes and sites documented on the National Heritage Register were recommended by Ms. Frazier to the CPA for review at the last meeting but no consultation was undertaken with Ms. Frazier nor the Cayman Islands National Trust by either the applicant or the CPA to review the cultural heritage of George Town and specifically the district in and around Goring Ave which to their knowledge was not part of the George Town Revitalisation Plan.

"My cousin has no objection to development on the said property, but it should not be more than 5-7 stories and should be designed in such a way that it complements the local architecture and cultural heritage of George Town. To deviate would be destructful," they wrote.

"This hotel is not in character with the local architectural heritage or Caribbean design, it does not celebrate the Island's rich cultural heritage (as set out in the National Tourism Plan) and it does not align with the seafaring heritage theme adopted by the George Town Revitalisation Plan," they said.

To ensure transparency of the 23rd June decision, and the subsequent concerns, Amplify Cayman sent the letter to the Governor Martyn Roper, the Premier Wayne Panton, and other members of the parliament, as well as the media.

Amplify Cayman stated: "We support the outpouring of concern. We ask that as the proposal is brought again before the Central Planning Authority scheduled for July 21st that representatives take all the issues into consideration and provide clarity for the community and the wider public."

Provenance Properties joins all-female Caymanian team to develop and sell new residential development, The Bentley

Provenance Properties' Sales Specialist April McIntosh has joined the first all-female development team in the Cayman Islands to represent the team's new project, The Bentley, an enclave of 13 townhomes featuring a contemporary design and energy-efficient construction. Provenance Properties is the exclusive Christie's International Real Estate affiliate in the Cayman Islands.

Sisters Shelley DoVale and Theresa DaCosta have combined their expertise in business and law with a shared passion for quality residential construction at an affordable price in this new development. They have also met local demand for mid-market priced housing in convenient locations.

Located on Crewe Road, The Bentley provides easy access to public transit and is a short drive from schools, hospitals, the Owen Roberts International Airport, and George Town.

The two and three-storey townhomes provide a choice of two bedrooms with ensuite bathrooms or a two-bedroom plus den floor plan, with the master bedroom and an ideal work-from-home space located on the third floor. The main floor of the townhomes has been designed with an open-concept kitchen/dining/living floor plan ideal for entertaining, and also features generously sized terraces.

Bringing a genuinely local focus to the project, the Caymanian developers have used on-island suppliers to source their building materials and Caymanian realtor McIntosh to assist with sales. McIntosh notes that she is excited to be part of the all-female Caymanian team at The Bentley.

"This mid-range development offers high-end fixtures, finishings and appliances at prices starting from CI $420,000. The anticipated completion date is for the summer of 2022 and buyers can reserve their townhomes with 10% down. For a beautiful, brand-new townhouse in such a convenient location, this is an incredible offering."

Other perks included in the price of the townhomes are smart wiring, which can be paired with Alexa, and Ring doorbells. In addition to high-end fixtures and finishes, Bentley's amenities include an outdoor swimming pool with a cabana and grill and a gated coded entry system.

"We planned this development based on five important principles that we believe residents are seeking without compromising on the quality of construction or finishes," says Shelley DoVale. "Convenient location, energy efficiency and sustainable design, security, low strata fees and seamless indoor-outdoor living.

"We believe we have achieved these principles at a competitive price. And of course, we are very proud that this is a locally developed and resourced project by our all-female team!"

The Cayman Islands Football Association ("CIFA") takes this opportunity to inform the public in relation to the article published by the Cayman Compass on 11 June 2021 ("Article")

As per our previous press release, we confirm that we have now received the official reports from the management team and met with both the management and the players of the Senior National Men's Team ("SNMT") and we feel it was a productive meeting. The players spoke, CIFA listened, and we can assure them that going forward there will be more frequent dialog between them and CIFA. We have to say that having this meeting was very informative as CIFA was given the opportunity to clear up a lot of misunderstandings and misconceptions with the players and now they are more informed as to how CIFA funding works in relation to the funds allotted to CIFA by FIFA.

Just to highlight a few areas mentioned in the Article and give some insights on the facts:

1. Funding not properly allocated and lack of financial support from CIFA: CIFA provided everything needed for the two World Cup Qualifier trips, and this included and not limited to an increase of daily and quarantine allowances, charter flights, best available hotels, stadium rentals, meals, medical assistance, etc. Here is just a very quick and rough estimate breakdown of expenses paid to the SMNT players from January to June 2021. CIFA paid players travel stipends of CI$100.00 per day (per player), quarantine allowances of CI$100.00 per day (per player), training allowances of CI$30 per training session (for each player that attended training), and a bonus of CI$7,500 that was split equally amongst the 23 players for the draw against Bermuda. To be very explicit, each player received about CI$5,500 (at CI$100 per day) just for the two trips to represent the country (and meals and accommodation paid for separately). The total figure that CIFA spent was more than CI$127,000 on per diem alone just to players (as staff allowances for the trips were different). These exceptional payments were basically related to Covid-19 protocols and assistance. There is a lot more that goes on behind the scenes and the figures are even bigger as we have not even mentioned uniforms, chartered flights, paying full time coaches, staff, medics, etc. CIFA, just like any other Member Association around the world receives funding from FIFA for national programs at all levels, not only for the SNMT, and CIFA has the duty and responsibility to allocate these funds accordingly for all the other national teams (women's, under 20s, under 17s, under 15s, for both male and female, etc.).

2. In relation to lack of support from management - dysfunction, officials interfering with selection, arguments with coaches, etc. - not mentioned at the meeting but CIFA believes that after the players were better informed as to how CIFA works, this was no more an issue.

3. President's interference in Executive Committee, managers, coaches not allowing them to do their jobs - players did not say anything about this at the meeting, again CIFA believes that the information given was very informative to the players and there was no need to further discuss this point.

4. Biased approach to players' selection - the Head Coach was present at the meeting via telephone, but he did not mention anything at the meeting in relation to this point. However, to be very clear, player selection is the responsibility of the Head Coach and his/her supporting technical staff and it is the policy of CIFA not to allow anyone to interfere with this process.

5. There was mention from a player about CIFA's intention to facilitate the players becoming professional players

- This obviously is not feasible at this time in CIFA's budget. For illustrative purposes, a semi-pro league by way of a very brief calculation just to pay players involves a lot more than just salaries to pay players. We have to secure the future of up-and-coming youth and we have learned the hard way as this will stop the possibilities of overseas scholarships for our youth to get into universities. This approach would deem them to be professionals and universities/collages worldwide will not accept professionals as students into their programs. This is an unreasonable request of any player to demand this of CIFA. Addi-

Summer Reading – Grab a Local Book

By Stephanie Fullerton-Cooper

Summer for me has long been linked with reading! As a child, my friends would anticipate the long, hot, lazy days of summer for beach trips, to travel to other countries, to hang out with friends, or to indulge in a favoured activity that the demands of school had kept them from. I fell into that latter category. I had always been surrounded by books, could hardly fall asleep until I had done some reading – a fact that still haunts my adult years – but school always prevented me from indulging in the all-consuming way I wanted to. Then came summer, and the promise of sleeping late, then waking up to read for at minimum two hours while still being in bed. Hunger would be what likely pushed me away from the books, but shortly after breakfast, I would find a tranquil, shaded area at home to continue this reading. Hours would fly by, my actual surroundings would be forgotten, and I would be transported to phenomenal places as I would read, and read, and read.

Phenomenal places - that is the theme for The Cayman Islands Public Library Service's 2021 Summer Reading Challenge. As I read their website and note the colorful banners as I drive around the island, I wish I were that carefree teen again who could indulge and be part of this exciting challenge! I sincerely hope the Public Library is inundated with Cayman's youth who have taken on this challenge, anxious to have new, vicarious experiences through the characters they meet on multiple pages. The public library is using this opportunity to promote lifelong learning through reading, and the online welcome to challengers refers to "so many amazing books with descriptions of phenomenal places including fantasy locations". The information includes a listing of possibilities like Narnia and the Great Wall of China. It urges readers to "Visit temples, palaces, cities; stroll through forests and mountains; delve into the deep seas or even fly above the clouds."

I also hope the readers will be challenged to visit many local phenomenal places through reading local books. Some believe it's ridiculous to have the readers focus on Cayman writings as the aim is to transport them to new places. But, how many of us really know everything about where we call home? And even if by chance we do, do we know the imaginary, phenomenal places that local writers also invite us to explore? Do we know the advantages to promoting and indulging in the literature we produce?

Several other countries promote their own literature. For example, authors Fuller and Bingham report that Canada views its literature as essential at every level of the education system as "a literature is lasting evidence of a nation's growth and sense of destiny". They examine how Canadian students benefit from studying their literature and how exporting Canadian writings influences the outsiders' view of Canada. In the USA, author Sean Griffin posits that teachers use American literature to help their adolescent students in their search for self as, by looking at fictional characters, students ultimately see a reflection of themselves, and then identify and challenge their personal ethics. Clearly then, reading about their own phenomenal places brings about phenomenal results.

A few weeks ago, I referenced the Brac fable Quest on the Marl Road by Kathleen Bodden-Harris and suggested that Cayman's school-age children all read it. I was part of a group that judged local writings in a literary awards event years ago, and this work emerged winner. The other judges and I were impressed by the phenomenal places that this work transported us to. Though set in the Brac, the reader was transported not just to this place we all know and love, but to a fantasy-based, phenomenal place that framed the reality for Bodden-Harris' crab, iguana, and other animal characters. It was a fascinating read! Similarly, local poets like Nasaria Suckoo Chollette and Roy Bodden transport readers to the phenomenal place that Cayman of old was, as their works evoke memories and celebrate traditions. Today's Cayman youth would not be familiar with these, but the descriptive power of local poetry, the evocation of long-held beliefs, and the re-presentation of colorful languages, can indeed transport them to a phenomenal place that gives them a glimpse of their past, enables a better understanding of their present, and creates in them a desire to redefine and chart their future.

Recently, Cayman's youth were invited to enter a creative writing competition as staged again by the public library, as well as Friends of the Library, and CLM Publishing. This, coupled with the Summer Reading Challenge, are undoubtedly wonderful opportunities for Cayman's youth as we foster a new generation of local readers and writers. In my humble estimation, only good can come from these activities. What I also like is that the youth were not just asked to write stories, but Karen Chin of CLM Publishing also offered two free workshops on creative writing. This foundation is necessary as it fosters an understanding of the fact that perspiring is part of aspiring to write. Kudos to the organisers for including these sessions so our youth see that creativity comes from effort. Again however, my hope is that those who entered the writing competition also wrote about the phenomenal place we all call home – the Cayman Islands. This island paradise is the perfect catalyst for creativity, and I for one am anxious to hear the results of this competition and to see how our young writers re-present 'home' in their creative expressions.

So, even as you indulge in summer reading, and "let your imagination take you on a journey of discovery and wonder", explore Narnia, Hogwarts, and the Pyramids of Giza, but reach for the local books as well, and similarly enjoy writings that Cayman has produced.

CIFA Response

tionally, a semi pro league that would pay only CI$1,000.00 per month per player for 8 Premier League teams with a 25-player roster would cost CI$2.4 million per year ($1,000 X 25 players X 8 teams X 12 months). Paying less than that would just not make it worthwhile. These numbers do not consider pension, health insurance and other benefits and/or costs, just net salaries. Finally, on this point, it is a known fact around the world that footballers are professionals at a club level, not the national team level.

On the point of making demands on CIFA, until this point, CIFA has not taken any action in relation to the players that breached the CIFA Code of Conduct as it pertains to disciplinary breaches of certain protocols, etc. This does not only reflect badly on football, but also on the entire Cayman Islands. Whenever any national team represents the country, they are ambassadors and we expect them to do so with honour and pride. Therefore, CIFA will be taking appropriate action but we are also cognizant that it could be harmful to the players as opposed to being more helpful. CIFA did not receive any considerations or appreciation for always thinking about the well-being of the players, and how it could affect their future in society.

In relation to the CIFA President's suspension and him being in the USA at the time of the last World Cup Qualifier, the President had travelled ahead of the team on the Wednesday, but CIFA was not informed of the suspension until the Friday of that same week. CIFA Executive took immediate action and appointed Michael Johnson as head of the delegation and the President was instructed to stand down, which he did without hesitation. In addition, in relation to the suspension, the President and CIFA appealed the decision and we are awaiting the outcome from FIFA.

As it relates to the press release of the former Head Coach, Ben Pugh, he sent his resignation by email a few days prior. The President informed the CIFA Executive that Coach Ben told him that his resignation was due to personal issues and nothing related to his employment at CIFA. The President and the entire Executive Committee took this as a surprise as we had bigger plans for him in the future.

In conclusion, players everywhere will always demand as much as they can from their associations, and it is no different here in Cayman. However, we can only do so much and no more. There is the misconception out there in the public that CIFA gets millions of dollars from FIFA to spend at CIFA's discretion and that is not the case. In this current football climate, FIFA STIPULATES AND DICTATES the criteria and provides strict guidelines on how the funds are to be spent that they allocate to us. The fact is, if CIFA does not abide by the rules when it comes on to spending, FIFA will impose sanctions and will even go as far as to suspend funding. Gone are the days where CIFA just gets funds and can spend it as it feels like, there will be consequences. In closing, CIFA will be considering putting in place certain measures to clear all doubts going forward and to minimise such kind of behaviour. While CIFA realises that the vast responsibilities and accountabilities necessary in carrying out its role as the national association responsible for football administration can be at times a thankless job, we still do it for the love of the game and believe that this sport benefits the Cayman community as a whole.

POLICE NEWS

Ombudsman: Police use of force protected suspect's life, preserved evidence

A complainant alleged that he was grabbed by the throat, thrown onto a bed in his home and handcuffed by Royal Cayman Islands Police Service (RCIPS) officers who were in the process of executing a search warrant. The complainant asserted this conduct represented an unreasonable use of force by RCIPS officers.

Ombudsman investigators established that the officers had obtained a lawful warrant for the search. During the search, a police officer saw the complainant picking up a small plate holding an amount of white substance the officer believed was cocaine. RCIPS officers intervened to prevent the complainant from swallowing the substance. The complainant resisted the officers and continued to try to swallow the substance.

Following the struggle, the complainant was taken to hospital and it was determined he had suffered no serious injuries from the incident.

Section 153 of the Police Act allows an officer to use as much force as is reasonably necessary to effect an arrest. In doing so, an officer must have regard to the nature and gravity of the threat, as well as the potential for adverse consequences resulting from the use of force. In this case, it took a considerable amount of effort from RCIPS officers to restrain the complainant to prevent him from swallowing the substance and the Ombudsman found it was reasonable for the officers to believe the complainant would have done so, if not impeded.

The Ombudsman accepted the officers' statements that they were concerned about the complainant's health and safety and that they believed he was attempting to swallow something that appeared to be cocaine. The Ombudsman found that, if the officers had not restrained the complainant, he would likely have ingested the substance which was subsequently identified to be cocaine. The Ombudsman found that the force used was necessary and reasonable in these circumstances.

For more information about our police complaints handling process and how to make a complaint to the Office of the Ombudsman, please see our website at www.ombudsman.ky, call us at 946-6283 or email us at info@ombudsman.ky.

Police Investigate Fatal Collision on Bodden Town Road

At around 11:20AM on Tuesday, 20 July, police and other emergency services were dispatched to a two-vehicle collision on Bodden Town Road, in the vicinity of Governor Russell Beach, involving a dump truck and a silver Toyota Noah.

The dump truck had been travelling westbound and the Toyota eastbound when they collided. The driver of the Toyota was trapped inside the vehicle and was extricated by officers from the Cayman Islands Fire Service, before being transported by ambulance to the Cayman Islands Hospital. The driver, a man age 63 of Bodden Town, was subsequently pronounced dead. The driver of the truck was not injured.

The matter is currently under investigation by the Traffic & Roads Policing Unit.

Three Arrested in Relation to Jet Ski Theft, 20 July

Shortly after 8:00PM on Saturday, 17 July, officers received a report that a jet ski had been stolen from an address on Rum Point Drive. The next day, Sunday, 18 July, officers were informed that the owner had seen the wave runner being trailered by another vehicle, along Frank Sound Road and had followed. Officers responded to the location, where they met the owner. He informed them that he had confronted the occupants of the other vehicle, who had then disconnected the trailer and fled the location, leaving the jet ski behind.

Officers conducted a search for the vehicle based on the description and registration number provided by the jet ski owner, and located it travelling along Sea View

Road shortly afterwards. The vehicle was stopped and all three occupants, two men ages 33 of George Town and 23 of North Side, and a woman aged 24 of North Side, were arrested on suspicion of taking a conveyance without authority. They have been granted bail as investigations continue.

The jet ski was forensically examined and returned to the owner.

Chasing that feeling

Do you have a goal weight?

Or do you have a goal feeling?

IT'S NOT ABOUT REACHING A NUMBER.

A number on the scale is just an idea. How do you get that idea to become reality?

The number that you're hoping to magically be one day doesn't matter one bit, and here's why...

IT'S ABOUT LIVING IN THE MOMENTUM.

Can you remember how it felt the last time that you ate clean, exercised hard and got adequate sleep for a few consecutive days? A feeling of momentum came over you, didn't it? There was a buzzing in your cells and a rhythm in your pace. You felt alive, you felt sexy, and you felt empowered. Never mind that you weren't yet at your goal number, you were headed there!

Getting down to your goal weight, and fitting into your goal size, is the direct result of living in that state of momentum for an extended period of time. You see, the momentum can be felt immediately, once you start eating clean, exercising hard and taking care of your health, whereas that "goal number" simply can't be felt until it is achieved, and so it's not as powerful a motivator.

My challenge and advice to you is to find the joy of living in the momentum, and keep that momentum going until your goal number is achieved.

Focus only on the momentum, not on the number.

Fitness is a way of life. Being lean is a lifestyle. Neither of which can be had by going about it halfheartedly.

You have to become the momentum. Chase that feeling...and you'll find the body of your dreams.

Call Ernest at Body Shapers Fitness Studio 325-8696 or email me at bodyshaperscayman@gmail.com today and we will get your momentum started on the exercise program that will reshape your body once and for all!

MOMENTS OF INSPIRATION

FAITHFULNESS Daniel 6:3

By now Daniel is and old man. He had lived in Babylon from a youth and served in various positions for a succession of Kings. Darius the Mead had recently ascended the throne. He appointed 3 presidents and 120 princes to oversee his affairs. Apparently suspecting dishonesty amongst his officials and seeing Daniel's trustworthiness, he thought to place, "him over the whole realm.

To have an old Hebrew over then was just plain intolerable. Therefore, the presidents and princes conspired against him, but Daniel's record proved unblemished. He hadn't embezzled money nor took bribes. Finding no fault there, they now conspired to attack his faith. "We will never find any charge against him unless we find something against him as it relates to the law of his God.

Scientists revile our belief that God created all things. Some so-called Bible scholars scoff at our believing that Jesus Christ is our only hope of salvation. Let us remain ever faithful to God because He is faithful to us.

Stuart Mailer to lead Introduction to Cayman's Woodlands Guided Tours

The Queen Elizabeth II Botanic Park invites the public to a tour series called Introduction to Cayman's Woodlands with Stuart Mailer.

In his first tour—titled "Tree Identification"—Mr. Mailer will be applying the book Wild Trees of the Cayman Islands written by Fred Burton, as a guide in identifying trees found in Cayman's woodlands.

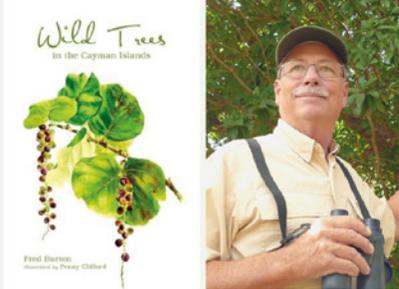

Attendees can bring along a copy of the book or purchase one at the Botanic Park's gift shop. That tour will take place on Sunday 25th July.

The second tour in the two-part series, called "Park and Woodland Walk" will feature Native Trees and Bird Watching. This tour is set for Sunday 8th August.

Both tours will take place at the Queen Elizabeth II Botanic Park from 2:30 pm to 4:30 pm at a cost of CI$25 each or a discounted fee of CI$40 for both.

Interested persons are asked to book spaces for this upcoming series, email admin@botanic-park.ky or call 947-9462.

BVI COVID RATES CONTINUE TO SOAR

The British Virgin Islands continues to reel from a sudden surge in COVID-19 infections.

In the space of a few weeks total confirmed cases have sky-rocketed to over 2,200 with more than 1,600 active cases.

The fatality rates are also increasing, going from three COVID-related deaths since the start of the year to 23 by midweek.

To bring the worrying situation under the control the authorities are intensifying their vaccination drive and urging residents to comply with the current COVID-19 protocols. A curfew remains in place but further restrictions are likely to curb the community spread of the virus.

BVI Health Minister Carvin Malone said, "We need our people to do their part to safeguard themselves to help stop the transmission of this virus."

"This is a difficult time for all of us here in the Territory. We have never seen a situation like this unfold. I pray that God continues to grant us favour and mercy to see us through this very troubling time."

He said the government has met with a team of over 45 doctors, who have pledged their support and they are also calling on active and retired nurses "at home or abroad to lend their services and support at this very important moment".

Acting Chief Medical Officer (CMO), Dr. Ronald Georges, added, "Persons must take COVID-19 more seriously. I cannot stress this enough. Let us help to reduce the outbreak by limiting person to person contact. If you have been asked to quarantine or self-isolate do so. More importantly, adhere to the strict curfew order where all persons are to be indoors from 7:00 p.m. to 5:00 a.m. Persons are also reminded to wear masks; sanitise or wash hands; and stand six feet apart."

The CMO further stated that all unvaccinated persons should get vaccinated. "Two jabs are better than one, and one jab is better than none," he said.

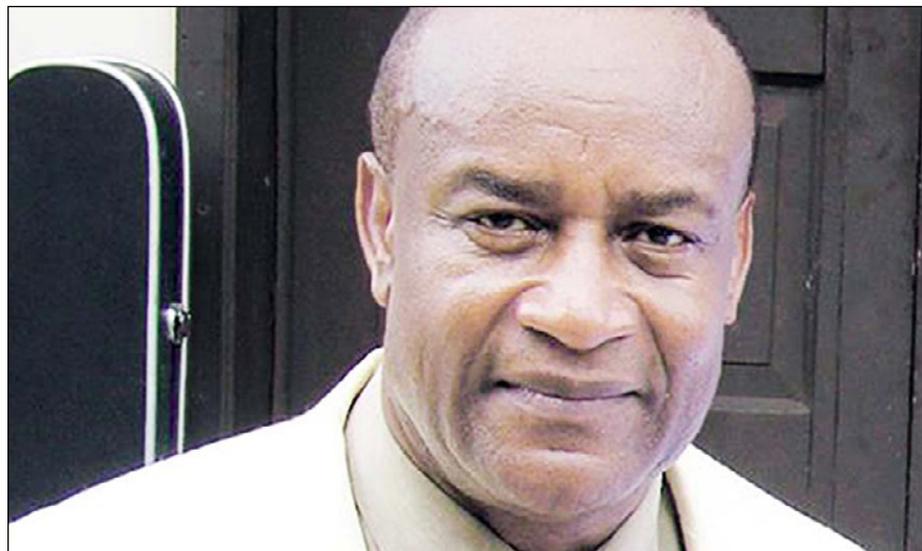

FORMER MONTSERRAT LEADER JAILED FOR 15 YEARS

Former Chief Minister of Montserrat David S. Brandt, a prominent attorney, has been jailed for 15 years after being found guilty last month on six counts of sexual exploitation of under-age girls.

Mr Brandt who served as Chief Minister of Montserrat from 1997 to 2001 was first arrested in September 2015 and had spent a considerable time in prison on pre-trial detention while extensive investigations were carried by local police and the UK's National Crime Agency.

Following the June 30th guilty verdict following a five-week trial, he was sentenced on July 19th to prison terms ranging from seven to nine years on each of the six counts, and 15 years on a charge of perverting the course of justice.

TCI TOUGHENS UP VACCINATION COMPLIANCE

The Turks and Caicos Islands is further toughening up its mandatory vaccination policy for work permits holders and applicants, government stamp holders and persons applying for permanent residency.

They must possess a valid and approved vaccination certificate. If not they will be denied entry, and if in the territory they will be required to leave, or face deportation.

The government says this tougher approach is aligned to its goal of achieving COVID-19 herd immunity as it reopens its economy, especially the critical tourism industry.

"In order to achieve herd immunity in the Turks and Caicos Islands, the Government has decided to implement the mandatory vaccination of all work permit holders, Government Stamp Holders and persons applying for PRC commencing immediately," an official statement said.

A detailed outline of the implementation process places the responsibility on both the individuals and their employer for ensuring that vaccination certificates are in order.

One area of concern in the vaccination drive is the potential for forgery of documents, which has already been noticed in the territory.

In order to curb that, the government says it is putting a strict validation system in place.

Particularly for workers coming from countries where access to the vaccine is limited, once in the territory they will have to be vaccinated within three days of their arrival or the work permit will be automatically rescinded.

In the meantime the TCI government is urging its own citizens eligible to receive this vaccine, to "take the opportunity to get vaccinated so that we can safeguard the health of all residing and work towards the full reopening of the country."

The Turks and Caicos Islands is aiming for a vaccination target of 70 per cent which it says is consistent with global targets and most scientific findings.

BERMUDA PREPARES FOR NEW GLOBAL CORPORATION TAX

After some initial hesitation, Bermuda reports that its falling in line with steps to impose a tax on global corporations.

Finance Minister Curtis Dickson told the Bermuda House of Assembly that the government is expanding the scope of jurisdiction's Tax Reform Commission to include the G7 proposals in its remit and follow-through the final agreement by the wider G20 group of nations in October.

He said Bermuda "will continue to work closely with our industry stakeholders and other strategic partners, to advocate for technical details that are in Bermuda's interests and seek to enhance Bermuda's competitive position."

A Bermuda government statement said: "As a country committed to transparency, co-operation, and high levels of compliance with international standards...it looks forward to supporting its ongoing technical discussions ahead of the meeting of G20 Finance Ministers in October this year."

Already over 130 countries have indicated that they will ratify the eventual agreement to apply a 15 per cent global corporate tax as a response to companies that register their profits in offshore financial centres.

Their home countries have argued that this exploits loopholes in the national tax laws.

The UK and other G7 countries agreed in London recently to proceed with the move at the behest of the United States. Many commentators have said that this is particularly relevant to Bermuda, the Cayman Islands and other UK Overseas Territories with lucrative financial sectors.

Bolt: Our men are too slow

Jamaica's top women sprinters at the Tokyo Olympics look capable of dominating the winners' podium, but Usain Bolt feels the men will struggle to medal. The form books suggests that the American men will battle for the prizes.

Bolt is disappointed with how Jamaican men's sprinting has developed since he retired and predicts his compatriots will find it tough in Tokyo after his glorious domination of the last three Olympics.

With Bolt leading the way in his own inimitable style, Jamaica won all nine men's track sprint finals in Beijing, London and Rio — although they later lost their 2008 4x100m gold medals after Nesta Carter failed a dope test.

While Jamaica's women look very strong going into their Tokyo campaign, triple 100m and 200m Olympic champ Bolt thinks the men will struggle.

"Well, it's really disappointing to see this," Bolt said. "I felt like we had a good crop of [male] athletes for the last couple of Olympics, so for me, it really bothers me to know that this is where we are right now, where most of the world is ahead of us.

Yohan Blake is now Jamaica's standard bearer in the men's sprints but will need to improve massively on his season-best of 9.95 seconds to even challenge for a medal in the 100m in Tokyo.

► Yohan Blake believes he can medal in the 100m

Two-time Olympic champion Shelly-Ann Fraser-Pryce, the fastest woman alive, sped to a 10.71 second win in the women's 100m at Jamaica's national championships.

Rio Olympic 400m bronze medallist Shericka Jackson produced a late burst to take second in 10.82 secs, ahead of reigning Olympic champion Elaine Thompson-Herah with 10.84.

Bolt said: "So going into the men's, it's going to be tough ... I'm just disappointed because I think we do have the talent, it's just to harvest it and people to take the training seriously and get it done."

► Shelly-Ann Fraser-Pryce is the fastest woman alive

Bolt not only inspired Jamaica's Olympic sweep but also their monopoly of the men's sprint world titles from 2009 until 2015, his training partner Blake stepping up to claim 100m gold in 2011 when Bolt was disqualified.

Ato Boldon, who won four sprint medals for Trinidad & Tobago at two Olympics, agrees with Bolt. "It's going to be a little bit of famine now, I know Blake says he's not leaving Tokyo without a medal but I don't have Blake medalling," Boldon, now a TV pundit, remarked.

The Americans have not won the Olympic 100m title since 2004 but national champion Trayvon Brommell leads the world this year with his run of 9.77 seconds.

Boldon said: "At least Jamaica has some prospects on the horizon, but I do not see any medals for Jamaica in the men's 100, 200 or 400m in Tokyo."

Only South African Akani Simbine, whose best run this season was 9.84 seconds, looks capable of stopping an American sweep with Ronnie Baker (9.85) and Fred Kerley (9.86) also in electric form.

"I think the Americans are capable of taking two of the three medals in Tokyo," Boldon added. "I have Ronnie and Trayvon Brommell in the podium in two of those spots.

The American men also look set to dominate the 200m. Noah Lyles, the 2019 world champion, leads the world with 19.74 seconds that won him the US trials last month.

Kenny Bednarek, who has laid down a career-best 19.78, and newly sealed under-20 world record holder Erriyon Knighton with 19.84, will join Lyles in the US team.

Bolt had held that under-20 record since 2004 and singled out Knighton as one of the youngsters to watch in Tokyo and beyond. "The 17-year-old has really impressed me in the US trials, so let's see in the near future what he will do," Bolt said.

Messi's Insta tops Ronaldo

Lionel Messi has always competed with Cristiano Ronaldo and he has just broken the Portuguese's Instagram world record by racking up 20 million likes on his Copa America trophy post.

Ronaldo previously held the record for the most-liked sports photo in the social media app's history. The Juventus forward, 36, has more than 19.8 million likes for his post paying homage to the late Diego Maradona in last November.

But after Messi, 34, helped Argentina win the Copa America by beating Brazil 1-0 in the final, his post-match snap broke the record.

He captioned the post: "What a beautiful madness! This is unbelievable! Thank you, God! We are the champions."

► Lionel Messi has finally won his first international trophy

Messi, who won his first international trophy, is holidaying in Miami with his wife as he looks to finally sign a new Barcelona contract.

It comes only a year after he handed in a shock transfer request in a bid to leave the club.

But now under new president Joan Laporta, the iconic Argentine is close to committing his future to the Nou Camp.

Messi has agreed to take a 50 per cent pay cut but will be offered a five-year deal instead of the two years initially talked about.

A lower salary for Messi is key to keeping him at the Nou Camp because of the club's financial disarray.

Gayle blows them away at 41

Chris Gayle has blasted his way past the 14,000 run mark in T20 cricket which is his favourite format of the game, the first cricketer to do so, even though the veteran Jamaican is 41.

The self-proclaimed 'Universe Boss' did it during the third T20 match between West Indies and Australia recently. Gayle hammered 67 runs off 38 balls which helped secure a six wicket win.

The flamboyant Gayle has not been in great form of late. He had scored only 41 runs in his last five innings. But once he got going, the Aussies did not know where to bowl.

"My main focus now is the World Cup," he said after. "Don't mind the numbers, Chris Gayle not getting the runs, soon to be 42, you guys should be happy to see Chris Gayle on the field still. Just respect the Universe Boss playing some cricket and having some fun. Enjoy the moment with Chris Gayle with a strong West Indies team."

► Chris Gayle is still blasting bowlers at 41

Gayle will be back with the St Kitts & Nevis Patriots, a team he represented in 2017 and 2018 at the Caribbean Premier League next month in St Kitts. He guided the Patriots to their only Hero CPL final in his first year with the franchise.

The Hero CPL starts on Aug. 26 and finish on Sept. 15. All this year's tournament will be played in St Kitts & Nevis with all 33 matches at Warner Park.

Joshua faces unbeaten Usyk next

Anthony Joshua's world heavyweight title defence against Oleksandr Usyk is at Tottenham Hotspur Stadium on Sept. 25.

► Oleksandr Usyk is a dangerous opponent

Joshua, 31, will risk his IBF, WBA and WBO belts against the Ukrainian, his mandatory challenger. Usyk, 34, has not fought for a heavyweight title but held all four belts a division lower at cruiserweight where he was undefeated in 18 bouts.

Joshua was ordered to defend his WBO title after the collapse of his bout with fellow Briton Tyson Fury.

"We are two Olympic gold medallists who have fought our way to the top and never avoided challenges," Joshua said. "The venue is exceptional, the atmosphere will be electric, I'm honoured to be the first person to fight in such an awe-inspiring venue. The stage is set and I am ready to handle business."

Despite months of negotiations a fight between Joshua and WBC world champion Fury for all four belts failed to materialise.

Joshua called Fury "a fraud" after their proposed meeting on Aug. 14 in Saudi Arabia was called off.

Fury will face American Deontay Wilder, who he defeated to become a two-time world heavyweight champion in his most recent bout in February 2020, for a third time in Las Vegas in October.

The Tottenham Hotspur Stadium has a capacity of over 60,000, although vaccination proof may be required to attend sports events of about 20,000 or more capacity by the end of September.

► Anthony Joshua is confident of retaining his belts
