Cayman Heart Fund promotes health and wellness

On Saturday 17 July 2021, the staff and volunteers of the Cayman Heart Fund (CHF) transformed the Teacher Redley Powery Library in West Bay into a healthy heart clinic for their first Health Screening Event of 2021. Over 70 persons were checked for their risk for heart disease and other serious health complications.

Indigenizing Christianity

Caribbean scholars have long realized the potential of religion in helping to decolonize and indigenize, making way for a Caribbean theology, appropriate to the history and the peculiar narrative of Caribbean peoples. I believe this is especially urgent now as many young people are exposed to the full thrust of post-modern ideas with their grounding in relativism and the resultant lack of moral compass. Many even question the utility of the religious life.

The call for the indigenization process is not new. The black power movement and its critique of Christianity is well known. In the 1960's, one of the leaders at the time, Walter Rodney, in his Groundings with My Brothers, wrote of the language used in regular conversation such as good hair, good complexion, reflecting European standards. There was respect for all the white symbols in the Christian religion- to quote him, 'God the father is white, God the son is white and presumably also the Holy Ghost, the disciples and saints, cherubim and seraphim, excepting for Lucifer. The argument from Black Power was the need for religion to adapt and for people to be able to see God in their 'own image'. Marcus Garvey had made a similar point. The call was for us to construct, from what we received, our own epistemologies and ontologies, reflecting ourselves.

Some of the best Caribbean theologians have written extensively about the continuing need to adjust our practice of Christianity to fit our historical and socio-cultural contexts- to be relevant and empowering. Much has been done, but much more is needed. Caribbean theologians such as David Mitchell, first challenged Caribbean church leaders to produce Caribbean Christian literature to meet the needs of the church, of the people and of the fledgling Caribbean nations.

The Reverend Ashley Smith, himself a leading Caribbean theologian of his time, wrote highly of Idris Hamid, another such Caribbean theologian, who he said sought to 'contextualize God launching a writing of theology characterized by self-affirmation, protest against universalism, and everything else that makes received theology into an instrument of the self-determined development of the people of the region.' Hamad, says Smith, knew 'the difference between learning other people's theology and being a party to the falsification of reality and like the erstwhile oppressed of the Bible re-politicizing ourselves and thereby sharing in the creation of the kind of future we can proudly call our home.'

Smith writes of a Caribbean theology that assists Caribbean people out of shame and self-doubt, to a people who know themselves as full persons, a decolonization theology, contextualized and made in the Caribbean and for the Caribbean. The work of decolonizing Caribbean theology which was so valiantly moving ahead in the 1970's, does not appear to be much of a focus anymore. Instead, the heated discussion in my churches is on such 'weighty matters' as hat wearing or the extent to which women are allowed to take part in church and to what levels they have Biblical permission.

On the matter of music in the church, for example, many of our churches are still uncomfortable with the use of reggae as a form of Christian musical expression because of its link to the Rastafari religion. The churches that have an issue with reggae gospel, especially because of reggae's association with the Rastafari, must content with the fact that the whole history of Judaism and Christianity which derived from it, has been one of adaptation and continuously making sense of changing human situations. In this context, Rastafari and reggae music are no different.

The history of music in the Jewish and Christian worship demonstrates its vitality and importance. Throughout its history, music in its various forms, has been borrowed, mixed, and syncretized, but when baptized by the Spirit and used for the glory of God, its impact is profound. Irrespective of the genesis of Reggae music, its current use as music for worship and for spreading the gospel, is demonstration of its versatility. Reggae came from the cultural and experiential bowels of ordinary people, marginalized, and oppressed. These are the people who God usually sides with. Their cultural expressions, devoted to his cause, he will not reject.

Gospel reggae can also contribute to the decolonization movement says Robert Beckford, known for his work on theology, music and social change. It is an opportunity, he insists, for gospel reggae be applied to our soteriology, hermeneutics, and identity as creative, lyrical categories. I fully agree. The same can be said of Calypso and other forms of indigenous Caribbean musical expressions.

In his book, Diverse Worship: African-American, Caribbean, and Hispanic Perspectives, Pedrito U. Maynard-Reid advances the thesis that there is a strong correlation between culture and worship styles and that this understanding should inform the attitudes of worshippers to each other and their various worship settings. Much of how worship takes place is due to culture, not Biblical injunction. As the author points out, God can be worshipped beyond 'The narrow confines of our comfort zones.' What one perceives as appropriate worship 'is culturally conditioned and has little to do with Biblical orthodoxy or soteriological morality (Maynard-Reid, p. 4). What is important is that worship practices be wholistic and Christocentric and not narrow, fragmented, compartmentalized, and self-centered. The unmistakable link between culture and worship styles and the fact that God is the creator of cultural variety is a very useful perspective to always bear in mind.

WARNING Preventing Electrical Fires at Home

In the US, home electrical fires account for an estimated 51,000 fires each year, nearly 500 deaths, more than 1,400 injuries and $1.3 billion in property damage. It is important to be aware of the dangers and potential causes of electrical fires in order to learn how to avoid them.

Electrical malfunction is the leading cause of home fires every year. The most common causes of electrical fires are:

- Faulty electrical outlets, appliance cords, receptacles and switches.
- Light fixtures: Installing a bulb with a wattage that is too high for the lamps and light fixtures is a leading cause of electrical fires.
- Worn or frayed extension cords: Check your cords for cracks and if damaged, worn or frayed, replace them immediately. Do not overload extension cords or outlets.
- Outdated Wiring: If a home is over 20 years old, it may not have the wiring capacity to handle the increased amounts of electrical equipment in today's average home such as TVs, video games, microwaves and air conditioners.

If you have any questions on your homes electrical vulnerability, please consult with a qualified electrician. Electrical work should only be done by a qualified electrician.

Grand Hyatt tops $150 million in sales

One of several major residential and tourist developments in Grand Cayman, the Grand Hyatt Grand Cayman 167-residences development at the old Pageant Beach is now more than 75 per cent sold, with sales currently exceeding US$150 million. Making the announcement, Kim Lund, Broker/Owner at RE/MAX Cayman Islands, who is the exclusive listing broker for the residences, outlined why owning one of the condos was a good investment.

"Just to put this in perspective, these Grand Hyatt Residences are pre-selling, right now, at an average sales price for a five-star internationally-branded Seven Mile Beach Resort which is way below current market values," he said. "This is much less than many other popular Seven Mile Beach condominium developments."

The 10-storey resort, which is currently under construction, is located between the Wharf Restaurant and Poinsettia Condominiums on West Bay Road and is being developed by Pageant Beach Hotel Ltd.

"Not only will the Grand Hyatt be Grand Cayman's next five-star internationally branded resort (The Ritz-Carlton is the only other five-star resort), but it will incorporate the most current building styles and cutting-edge interior designs," Mr Lund furthered.

Studio, one, two and three-bedroom residences start in the low US$700,000s. The residences have been one of the fastest selling resorts in the Caribbean, exceeding more than $64 million in sales prior to construction, Mr Lund added.

"Residences will have 10-foot ceilings and nine-foot sliding glass doors across the beachfront of the residence, with an abundance of natural light. The views of the beach, Caribbean Sea, cruise ships, and George Town will be absolutely stunning," he said.

Mr Lund said they expected to sell all residences before construction is complete.

Resort amenities include six restaurants, a 12,000 sq. ft. destination spa and fitness centre, three resort-style swimming pools and jacuzzis, fully serviced beach cabanas, a state-of-the-art screening room, a 25,000 sq. ft. indoor outdoor conference meeting space, beach activities including snorkeling, diving and water sports, Grand Social Clubs, a variety of shopping boutiques, steam and sauna room, five-star concierge service, kids club, 24-hour room service, 24-hour valet, 24-hour front desk and 24-hour security.

Doctors Hospital take legal action against Government

Doctors Hospital has taken legal action against the Government for failing to produce guidelines against which health-care facilities are assessed before being designated as a facility that can employ 'institutionally registered' medical practitioners.

In particular, Doctors Hospital say Government has not created transparent criteria for designating and supervising such facilities so the public could be assured there was adequate supervision of the less qualified and less experienced practitioners they employed. Because of this, Doctors Hospital say Cabinet's power to designate a facility is liable to be exercised arbitrarily and in a way that failed to promote the purpose of institutionally registered practitioners only being permitted to work at certain facilities.

Before the legal action was taken, Doctors Hospital formally asked Government on 23 April 2021, to "identify whether there are any criteria for granting and reviewing designations under s.24A(2)" of the Health Practice Act (2021 Revision). The letter also asked to "confirm CIG commit to publishing criteria within a specified timeframe". The Attorney General's Office replied on 18 May 2021, admitting that there were no such criteria, that Government did not know why the only facilities designated to date (Health City, the Health Services Authority and Total Health Ltd) were granted designations, and that there were no arrangements for supervising the ongoing suitability of those facilities as places institutionally registered practitioners may practice. Doctors Hospital said they gave Government one last chance to respond in June but did not get a reply, so took the legal action.

Doctors Hospital said it accepted that Government could introduce a tier of registration, whereby less qualified and less experienced practitioners were permitted to practice in the Cayman Islands. However, in creating a system where these practitioners could only work at facilities designated by Cabinet, the Legislature must have intended that these facilities would adequately supervise those practitioners, they said.

The legal action also included a reference to the lack of any regulation setting the requirements to be met for institutionally registered practitioners to be registered as specialists in a particular field (such as oncologists or obstetricians).

"This lack of regulation risks patients being treated by insufficiently trained and inexperienced doctors without their knowledge, further risking potential harm to patients and the rising costs of health care via increased insurance premiums," Doctors Hospital said.

Dr Yaron Rado, Board Chairman and Chief Radiologist of Doctors Hospital furthered: "As stated before, we believe in fair and competitive marketplaces. Further, we need this system to be transparent and safe for people engaging in healthcare in Cayman. We understand individuals are being granted institutional list registration for positions without completed residency programmes. This is alarming to us and should be alarming to everyone."

Dr Rado said that to be registered as a specialist on the principal list, a physician needed at least four years post-medical degree specialist training and to successfully sit a board exam to be licensed in Cayman.

"None of this is overseen on the institutional list. So, we will continue to challenge the Government about this. Ultimately, what is at stake is the health and well-being of the people of Cayman and the standard of healthcare that the Islands deliver. To maintain high standards, Doctors Hospital has chosen only to employ fully registered practitioners who are on the principal list," he confirmed.

Practitioners registered on the principal list, deemed the most qualified and experienced, can practice without supervision, while practitioners registered on the provisional list, deemed to be adequately qualified but lacking experience, must practice under the supervision of a practitioner on the principal list. Practitioners registered on the institutional list merely need to have qualified at a medical school listed in the World Directory of Medical Schools. These practitioners may be employed only by a health care facility Cabinet has designated as permitted.

Talent Xposition sets the night alight at the Harquail Theatre

By Christopher Tobutt

The annual Talent Xposition of the Arts is an annual explosion of local talent, live at the Harquail theatre. There was singing, dancing, and music from many different artists, and it is always popular. Run by the New Self-Help Community Foundation and organized by JC Connor for two decades now, and funds raised go to help all kinds of good causes in the community, with a focus for helping young people develop their talent and take it up to the next level. It's a wonderful evening, and it doesn't matter if you are five or fifty-five, there is always room onstage for people with a gift for the performing arts, and everyone who goes there loves it.

MCs for the evening Lloyd Barker and Andrel Harris introduced each of the acts. The very first act was the Williams Quartet, a family of brothers and sisters who sing gospel music in perfect four-part harmony, who sang the National Song.

Harpists Eugenio and Sebastian – a father and son Duet enchanted the audience with "Melody of Harmony," and "I Can't Help Falling in love."

Next was a complete change, with a group from the Centre Pointe Dance Company – "Where ya from?" which was a high-energy, fast-paced dance. Then came Butterfield Young Musician of the Year Gabriella Best who played her violin very beautifully, before singer Zariah Anglin sang a Celine Dion song. The Dream Chasers dance group were next with an up-tempo dance to Proud Mary – "Rolling, Rolling, Rolling on the river."

Reyah Stewart sang "Shallow," by Lady Gaga. It was heartfelt and soulful: "Crash through the surface where they can't hurt us. We're far from the shallow now..." Cayman Arts Festival Elite String Ensemble, with a cello and violins, played a beautiful medley of some classical music favorites – including Beethoven's 'Ode to Joy.

Duncan Anderson took to the stage with his euphonium. He played some classical music, and it was lovely to hear how expressive he was. Jarde Barnes came to the stage next with her guitar, singing a beautiful song, "Ready to Fly," she had written herself. It was all about having the courage to set out from the safety of the nest and fly high in life. "This little bird's grown up to find her blue sky," she sang.

Centre Pointe Dance came back onstage with a dance interpretation of "Cry me a River." Everyone was in for a real treat next when the very youngest of the performers took to the stage. It was the George Town Primary School's Violin Ensemble, with 'Crocodile Medley.' Arianna Anglin sang a beautifully sad ballad next, before the UCCI dancers lifted everyone's spirits with an energetic interpretation of the praise song, Alleluia.

After the intermission JC Connor took to the stage with Eric Clapton's 'Knocking on heaven's door.' Rico Rolando - sang several songs, and Centre Pointe Dance came back onstage with "Only Us and you Will be Found." There were also musical offerings from Capo Fitz, Terry Williams, TEO -Song, and Dequan Smith who played the Cello very beautifully.

Cayman Heart Fund Health Screening Event promotes health and wellness in the community

The mission of the CHF is to improve the cardiovascular health for all in the Cayman Islands. We achieve this through education, training, and by providing medical equipment and services to the public. The free health screenings include family history, height, weight, waist measurement and BMI, blood pressure, and a blood test to show an individual's sugar, cholesterol, HDL ("Good Cholesterol"), triglycerides, and glucose levels.

Persons attending the event commented on how important these free clinics are to the local population – now more than ever. Nigel and Deby Coles travelled all the way from North Side for the event. "I take a statin for high cholesterol and needed an up-to-date cholesterol test so I can get my prescription renewed," said Nigel Coles. "My wife and I have both not worked for more than a year now and we need to be really careful with our pennies. Health is an important priority, so we are really grateful to the Cayman Heart Fund for making this available."

"Despite the enormous advances in medical science and technology, heart and circulatory diseases remain the number one cause of death in the Cayman Islands and around the world." Says Maureen Cubbon, CHF Vice Chairperson. "Our free health screening program provides an opportunity for people, regardless of their status or insurance coverage, to discover their risk of having heart disease or a cardiac event such as heart attack or stroke."

"Knowing your numbers is one of the most important steps you can take to manage your cardiovascular health — even if you think you're healthy," said Suzy Soto, Founder and Chair Emeritus of the Cayman Heart Fund.

The CHF is enormously grateful to Dr Amitabha Basu, Dean of Basic Sciences, and the medical students at St Matthews Medical School as well as the wonderful doctors and nurses who volunteer their time at these events to help people understand their risk and discuss ways they can lead a healthy lifestyle. Thanks go to Dr Gabor Xantus, Dr Nyali Taylor, Dr Michelle Mon Desir, and nurses Kelly Watson and Diane Obana who worked tirelessly on the day.

Studies have shown that individuals with underlying medical conditions such as cardiovascular disease were more vulnerable to the worst outcomes of coronavirus pandemic. Knowing your numbers and being able to talk to a clinician who can help you interpret the results is one way to protect yourself and slow the spread of the disease. Lifestyle changes such as smoking cessation, losing weight, reducing alcohol consumption, moving, or exercising more, limiting stress, visiting your doctor and following a clinician's advice, as well as other positive lifestyle changes can help to reduce cardiac risk.

"Public libraries fulfil an important role in community access to health information" says Allison Olarou, CHF Coordinator. "As centres of community engagement and education, they are a great partner to advance public health. Ms Marcia, Librarian at West Bay Public Library, holds a free Health Symposium every year for patrons.

► SMU Medical Student Andrew Spruce takes a family history

This year she asked the CHF to speak to the community about heart health, so the next logical step was to return to carry out a free health screening. "We hope to team up with the Cayman Islands Public Library Service (CIPLS) for future events so that we can bring our free heart health screening program to every district in Grand Cayman."

2021 Summer Intern Award Celebration

The Portfolio of the Civil Service (PoCS) recognised 80 interns at this year's Intern Celebration at Government Administration Building with seven receiving awards on Wednesday 21 July, 2021.

The recognition and award ceremony attracted interns from across the Civil Service. The event took place in the presence of Deputy Governor and Head of the Civil Service, Hon. Franz Manderson; Minister for Tourism and Transport, Hon. Kenneth Bryan; PoCS Chief Officer, Mrs. Gloria McField-Nixon and heads of department.

Emceed by returning intern Ayanda Jones serving in the Ministry of Investment, Innovation and Social Development; the ceremony included a rendition of the National Song by Shakur Ebanks of Planning, Agriculture, Housing and Infrastructure.

Mrs. McField-Nixon welcomed attendees and shared her story of her start as an intern within the Cayman Islands Government.

"The Civil Service takes great pride in facilitating work experience opportunities for bright, young Caymanians," she said.

"This cohort showcased exceptional talent, with many of our interns quickly adopting and exemplifying our Civil Service Values – Passion, Integrity and Professionalism – while others demonstrated high aptitude for innovation."

► Interns Diondre Wright, Jada Ledgister and Jaymar Myles are presented the Teamwork award by Deputy Governor, Mr. Manderson

In his opening remarks, the Deputy Governor who began his career in the Civil Service when 16 years old, shared two powerful examples of the CI Government assisting Caymanians in exceptional circumstances.

Emphasising the organisation's commitment to being a World-Class-Service, Mr. Manderson said, "What gets us out of bed every morning is that we can make our people's lives better."

Remarks were also given by Director of Communications, Ms Oneisha Richards, and by former CIG intern, Internal Auditor, Briannah Myles.

Ms Richards urged interns to, "Be driven. Show up always, even when you don't feel like it, and even when you don't feel prepared. It's like starting, being driven to succeed will be a big part of your success."

Minister for Tourism and Transport, Hon. Kenneth Bryan was a surprise addition to the programme. Addressing his first-ever Intern Celebration, he told the audience that he too had worked as a civil servant having been a firefighter, and believed that the principles learned in public service were transferable.

The event included a PowerPoint video presentation highlighting interns in action across the ministries.

PoCS HR Management Adviser, Mrs. Charlene Howell-Litchmore, announced the recipients of the Recognition Award Programme in the categories of Passion, Integrity, Professionalism, Innovation and Team Work.

The students honoured were:

- Dimitri Myles for Passion, Youth Services Unit
- Amber Smith for Integrity, Department of Counselling Services
- Marley McCoy for Professionalism, Cabinet Office, Department of Communications; and
- Bryanna Davis for Innovation, Department of Children and Family Services

The team winners were:

- Jada Ledgister, Jaymar Myles and Diondre Wright in the Ministry of Investment, Innovation and Social Development.

The internship event concluded with a vote of thanks by Johnathan Woods and a prayer by Marley McCoy, followed by light refreshments.

► Deputy Governor presents the award for Innovation to intern Bryanna Davis, Department of Children and Family Services

Following the event, Ms Jones said, "All speakers were well prepared and delivered remarks that reminded me of why I keep coming back to the Civil Service."

The event's co-organiser and PoCS intern, Johnathan Woods shared, "As part of the team that made sure the intern appreciation event ran smoothly, I had to give feedback on which candidates should be selected to participate. Furthermore, I made sure we had all the technical equipment and that all the equipment worked adequately."

Joint organiser, Ms McCoy said, "Overall, this internship has been one of the best summer work experiences I have had so far and I am very grateful for the positive and friendly atmosphere."

Residents discuss vaccination concerns

By Christopher Tobutt

With the banner: “Your choice – use your freedom to defend your freedom,” a group of concerned citizens gathered at George Town Hall for what was described as an, “Educational seminar on patient rights, informed consent and the legal position on medical treatments and experiments,” on Saturday 24 July.

The seminar explored the topic of the erosion of the established right in law and in medical ethics to consent surrounding free consent for the Covid 19 vaccine, especially in the light of developments which have made vaccinations for work permit holders mandatory, when permits are up for renewal. Kattina Anglin, who helped organize the meeting, said that although she stayed silent when frontline medical workers were being obligated to have the vaccination, the issue she saw developing surrounding work permit holders’ rights could no longer be ignored. There were three main presentations during the evening. The hall filled up and was packed when the meeting was in full flow, and although there was a strong Christian theme to all the presentations, many different viewpoints, both religious and secular, were represented by those who came.

Pastor Dwayne opened the presentations with a quote from the Book of Revelation, chapter 13 vs 16 & 17, “The beast forced all the people, small and great, to rich and poor, slave and free, to have a mark placed on their right hand or on their foreheads. No one could buy or sell without this mark.” He said that although the vaccine wasn’t the mark of the beast, it showed that the world was heading in that direction, because of all the pressure that was being put on people to receive it, so that it had incentives such as travel and being able work attached to it and the coincidence was too similar to be ignored.

During his presentation Dr. Gideon Barnett said, “We honor our leaders that does not mean we worship our leaders or always obey when they go astray...we want our leaders to empower people with freedom...that means, proper education about key issues.” He quoted at length from established principles of patient consent, both in law and in medical ethics, from the quoting from US, UK and Cayman legal and medical authorities, highlighting as he went the key areas where present practice in the Cayman Islands is leading to a lack of true consent. Part of the framework of true consent is disclosure of information concerning the treatment, including side effects and negative consequences, as well as viable alternative treatments, he said, and this information had been lacking. He also explained at length the accepted stages for the clinical trial of a vaccine, showing that some of the final stages had effectively been skipped because the process has been rushed, effectively leaving the vaccines at the experimental stage. Consent was therefore framed within the context of a medical trial, making elements of coercion even more serious.

► Some of the people who came to the meeting

Ms Anglin explored this theme further, saying that there was presently no FDA approval for the vaccine, and therefore what is being undertaken really comes under the heading of a “clinical trial,” rather than a bona fide established vaccination programme. Ms. Anglin said that for true consent to be achieved, all the promotional material should explain that it is still at the trial stage, as well as informing people of the mounting list of evidence showing adverse and even lethal reactions to the vaccine, which her research had shown included 11,000 vaccine-related deaths and 36 thousand vaccine-related hospitalizations. To date, she said, there were a total of “491,217 Vaccine Adverse Reports.”

Coercion should never be used to get people to take part in a medical trial, she said, and employers mandating vaccination as a condition of employment constituted coercion, as did the Government mandating work permit holders to have the injection as a condition for work permit renewal. In addition, she said, all such incentives such as lottery and prizes should be classified as coercion.

Ms. Anglin likened some of the pressure being put on work permit holders and other selected segments of the population such as the elderly to have the vaccinations to the medical experiments that were done to thousands of people by the Nazis during World War II: “Today what we are seeing is not new...and appears to be the replication of the Nazi approach to the elderly, the disabled and those who were ill through its T4 program,” she said. Ms Anglin listed both the UN declaration on human rights, as well as the European Convention on human rights at length, to show exactly how present practices in the Cayman Islands were contravening these rights.

After the presentations one question concerned the use of human fetal tissue in the development of the vaccines, and the moral implications of taking a vaccine with DNA derived from human fetuses.

ESO Pays Tribute to the late Mr. Howell

The Economics and Statistics Office (ESO) paid tribute to Census 2021 Influencer and the Cayman Islands' oldest citizen, Mr. Wellesley Howell Sr., who passed away last week.

Census Director Mr. Adolphus Laidlow, Census Coordinator Ms Andrelene Royal and Census Supervisor Nicole Emmanuel Jones summarised ESO's respect and appreciation for the enthusiastic involvement of Mr. Howell, 106, in Census publicity and promotion.

Assisted by his colleagues, the Director laid a wreath in tribute Monday, 26 July 2021 at Mr. Howell's billboard, which is beside the CUC Roundabout at the Crewe Road, Linford Pierson Highway junction.

Laying the wreath, Director Laidlow commented, "It has been our great joy to have obtained the services of Mr. Howell in Census 2021 publicity. We continue to value his involvement and cherish his endorsement for Census 2021. And we are proud to continue to honour him through our billboard."

Mr. Laidlow added, "We tender our heartfelt and deepest condolences to his family. May his soul rest in peace."

OUR ORGANISATION'S COMMENTS ON THE RULES AND REGULATIONS INSTITUTED FOR THE UPCOMING "CAYMAN GAY PRIDE" EVENT

Colours Caribbean would like to congratulate Cayman LGBTQ Foundation on organising their first "Cayman Gay Pride" parade scheduled for this Saturday at Seven Mile Beach and recognise the significance that this event holds for so many in our LGBTQIA+ community.

Over the course of the last 24 hours or so, we've received many concerns and questions from members of our LGBTQIA+ community regarding the parade rules and regulations that have been issued by the Cayman LGBTQ Foundation, supposedly based upon rulings of the Cayman Islands Government on 21 July 2021. Amongst those rules and regulations issued by Cayman LGBTQ Foundation, most notably, is a prohibition on "public displays of affection."

We have reviewed the "Prevention, Control And Suppression Of Covid-19 (Cayman Gay Pride Parade) Regulations, 2021" and were only able to corroborate restrictions relating to social distancing with respect to participants and members of the public. We also reached out to the Cayman Islands Government for clarification in order to address the concerns and questions that we have received. In response, it's been confirmed that such a prohibition set forth in Paragraph 5 of the Cayman LGBTQ Foundation's rules and regulations are not derived from any relevant regulations or a Cabinet directive.

While we urge everyone to participate respectfully and with decency, restrictions on public displays of affection among consenting adults of any gender identity or sexual orientation is not something that our organisation can, or should, ever endorse. "Pride" events such as this one are rare and significant opportunities to demonstrate that the LGBTQIA+ community are not ashamed of expressing their identities or sexual orientation in public by showing love for their partners by holding hands and kissing in the parade; they participate in a spirit of pride and respect for each other and the communities in which we all co-exist with one another.

We also note that the organisers have made clear that the RCIPS will enforce Rule 3 of the rules published by the organisers, however, mysteriously, nothing is said about the RCIPS enforcing the prohibition of public display of affection. Hence, Colours Caribbean would like urgent clarification from Cayman LGBTQ Foundation on the legal source used by them to conclude that "public display of affection" is prohibited on Saturday amongst participants and who will enforce such a prohibition.

Failing a legal source that can justify the prohibition instituted by the organisers of "public display of affections," there are no grounds for arrest or fines with regards to behaviour that involves anyone being physically affectionate with their partner, regardless of sexual orientation, provided that such actions aren't explicitly sexual.

This is why your diets don't work

Have you noticed how people jump onboard with a popular fad diet, lose 5, 10 or even 20 pounds...only to gain it all back and then some? Why does this happen? It's actually a simple concept, and once you understand it you will be forever saved from the tortures of yo-yo dieting.

Fad diets saddle you with unsustainable calorie restrictions and some even cut out entire food groups just to produce that short-lived drop in weight — a process that is actually harmful to your long-term metabolism. The fad diets also ignore one major component to shaping up: exercise.

You see, most fad diets operate on one age old premise: cut calories, cut calories, cut calories. By restricting the type and amount of food consumed the fad dieter usually sees an immediate drop in weight. If only it stopped there...

But it doesn't stop there. Life continues, and the fad dieter returns to their pre-diet eating habits — with one major difference in their body due to the sudden drop in pounds. Their calorie requirements have gotten smaller.

In practical terms this means that the dieter will begin gaining weight even though they are eating their normal pre-diet portions. And since exercise hasn't become a part of their routine, the unneeded calories will result in pounds gained. So what's a dieter to do? Find a brand-new diet to follow — right? Wrong.

There is a way to drop pounds and firm your body, but you won't read about it in the next diet book or hear it on the news. The solution to your fad dieting nightmare is a lifestyle change.

What is a lifestyle change? To change your lifestyle means to replace unhealthy habits with healthy ones, and to do so consistently. It isn't something you do for a week or two, only to revert back your old ways — a lifestyle change redefines who you are.

I know this is starting to sound like some heavy stuff but hear me out. Changing your lifestyle from one that is unhealthy to one that is healthy will be the best thing that you ever do for yourself. Trust me, I help people like you make this change every day with amazing results.

Fact: The shape of your body is the direct result of your current lifestyle.

So how do I change my lifestyle? That is a great question, and the answer is actually easier than you might think.

Most people who are unhappy with their bodies are really only holding on to a few bad habits. Once these destructive habits are identified and then replaced with healthy habits their body naturally transforms from one that they loathe to one that they are proud of.

In other words, to get the body that you want simply determine your unhealthy habits and replace them with healthy ones. Here are the most prevalent unhealthy habits:

- The habit of inactivity. Failing to exercise on a consistent basis is one of the most destructive obstacles for your health and figure. (The key word here is consistent. If you aren't exercising at least 3-4 times each week then you own this habit.)

- The habit of overeating. Consuming calories in excess of your daily caloric needs is one of the main reasons that more adults are overweight today than ever before.

- The habit of empty calories. Filling your diet with foods that hold little to no nutritional value is a great way to expand your waist. (Hint: if a food item is made up of mainly sugar and/or fat consider it 'empty' calories.)

You can lose weight and improve both your appearance and your health.

You can look and feel great.

You can transform yourself into the person that you've always wanted to be.

Don't let another day go by that leaves you a slave to unhealthy habits. Take action now. Call or email me today and together we will recreate your lifestyle and redefine your body.

By the way, I should mention another deadly habit that destroys too many people's dreams. The habit of procrastination.

How many times have you told yourself that you will start eating healthy tomorrow? How many times have you promised that you would call me to start your personal training program? Each day that you succumb to the habit of procrastination is a day that pulls you farther and farther from your goals.

Break that nasty habit of procrastination

Some US vaccinations recognised

The expanded list of systems and countries from which vaccination records can be securely verified now includes:

- Issuers who use SMART Health Cards and are a part of the CommonTrust Network. This includes North American issuers, such as:
 - * Walmart Pharmacy
 - * Sam's Club Pharmacy
 - * State of California
 - * State of Louisiana
 - * UC San Diego Health
 - * CVS Health
 - * UC Health
- Vaccination records from the European Union Member States and other countries that meet the EU Digital COVID Certificate standard.

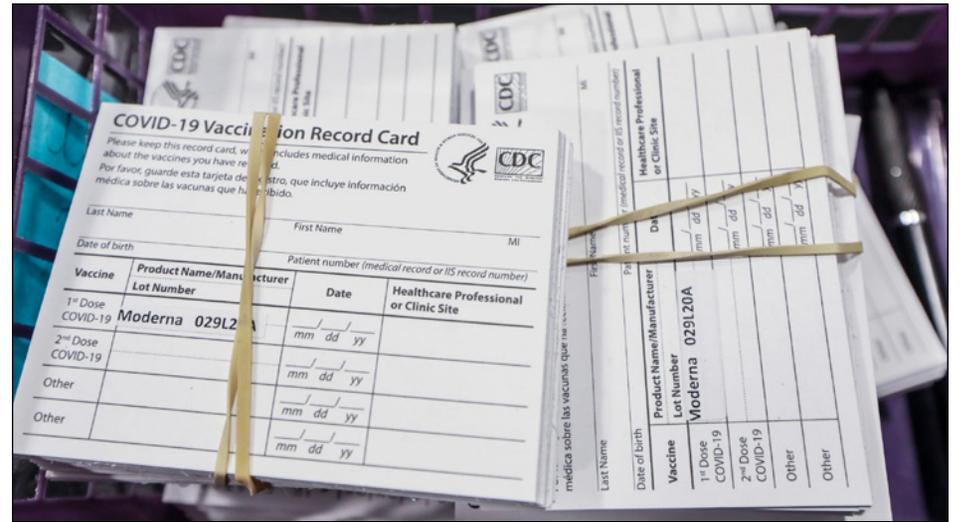

Cayman's ability to now recognise vaccinations from these providers has been developed through a partnership by the Ministry of Health & Wellness and Government's Computer Services Department, which developed technological solutions enabling the scanning of QR codes to securely verify vaccination records. QR codes are electronic data, similar to a barcode, which can be displayed on a smart phone or by presenting a physical paper copy. As these vaccinations can now be recognised, they meet Cayman's standards for secure verification, which means people travelling from countries with vaccinations that meet these criteria can now qualify for a reduced quarantine upon arrival into Cayman.

Health Minister Sabrina Turner said she was proud of the implementation of this new solution to securely verify international vaccination records.

"The Cayman Islands Government continues to put the health and safety of our community first as we make the necessary provisions to reopen our borders. I thank the Civil Service and the HSA for their ongoing hard work to protect our people," she said.

Travellers are considered fully vaccinated if they have received a full course of an approved vaccination at least 14 days prior to their travel date. If the vaccination records meet the criteria for being securely verifiable, the traveller is only required to quarantine for five days (which equates to six by the time the individual is actually released), once all members of the quarantine group also have securely verifiable vaccination records.

Government said the approved list would grow as other vaccination issuers developed ways to produce securely verifiable vaccination records.

For more information on securely verifiable vaccination records, visit: <https://www.explore.gov.ky/faqs/covid-19-travel-reopening#faq-secure-verification>

Caymanians Support Their Olympians

By Staff Writer

The Cayman Islands Olympic Committee (CIOC) held a special watch party at the Westin Grand on the Seven Mile Beach in Grand Cayman to mark the launch of this year's Olympics; held in Japan.

Scores of onlookers showed up to enjoy the Opening Ceremony of the Tokyo 2020 Olympic Games and show their support for the Caymanian athletes who will represent the Islands in the games, as well as the contingent accompanying them.

With 206 countries participating in the Parade of Nations - following the Gojūon order of Japanese strokes, based on the names of countries in Japanese - the Cayman Islands was listed as the 63rd country to march; just before Croatia.

The schedule for Cayman's athletes is as follows:

- Raegan Rutty competed in the Artistic Gymnastics on Sunday, July 25th.

► Supporters abound for Cayman athletes at the summer games

► Caymanians support their Olympians in the Tokyo 2021, Olympic Games

- Jillian Crooks will swim the 100m freestyle on Wednesday, July 28th.
- Brett Fraser swims the 50m freestyle on Friday, July 30th.
- Kemar Hyman will kick off the 100m sprint in his preliminary round on Saturday, July 31st.
- Shalysa Wray starts in the preliminary round for the 400m on Tuesday, August 3rd.

No stranger to the Olympic stage, competitive swimmer and 2011 Pan American gold medalist Brett Fraser is gearing up for his third Olympic performance at Tokyo2020.

"Although qualifying more than a year ago, Fraser has continued to train meticulously despite the global pandemic," according to CIOC officials, who noted that Fraser has been preparing for the OlympicGames since early 2019.

Having stepped away from competitive swimming for more than five years, Fraser qualified for the Games at the 2020 Geneva International Challenge Meet with a B standard Olympic time of 22.54 seconds in the 50m free.

TeamCayman has already broken a handful of barriers for the upcoming Olympic Games, including seeing Cayman's first-ever Olympic Gymnast, Raegan Rutty and Cayman's youngest Olympian, 15-year-old, Jillian Crooks.

One of two swimmers on the Cayman Islands Olympic Team headed to Tokyo2020, Crooks, has already represented Cayman internationally at 6 meets and holds more than 100 Cayman Islands Swimming Records: 16 CIASA and 20 National Girls Long Course (50m); 32 CIASA and 40 National Girls Long Course (25m) records.

She, along with Olympic team members, Shalysa Wray, (athletics) and Raegan Rutty, (gymnastics), received an invitation from the Olympic Games Tripartite Commission to compete at her first Olympics.

► Caymanian come out to the Westin Grand for a special watch party of the opening ceremony of the 2021 Tokyo Olympics

At only 19 years old, Rutty has made history by becoming the Cayman Islands' first EVER Olympic Gymnast.

Rutty has been working towards this Olympic goal since she was 4 years old and in order to obtain that goal, she trains more than 1,00 miles away in Katy, Texas with Grace Gymnastics.

Though her performance will not be seen live by spectators, due to the Global Pandemic, CIOC representatives said she is counting on the energy from her coach, Eddie Umphrey to sustain her during competition.

Kemar Hyman qualified for the Summer Games in 2019 after running the 100 metres in 10.02 seconds at the Johnny Loaring Classic in Canada, whilst Shalysa Wray will be representing the British Territory in the 400 meters.

With no spectators on hand, every precaution has been taken by officials to pre-empt the possible spread of COVID-19 and make this summer's games a success.

CIOC officials noted, "We have ensured that only the necessary personnel from the Cayman Islands will be travelling to attend the Games. Before travelling, all members of the Cayman delegation will receive multiple COVID-19 tests and will be subject to strict protocols to ensure everyone is safe as possible.

"Unlike previous Games, the athletes and officials will immediately have to return to the village once their event is over and then depart to their home country. However, these rules are in place to allow the athletes to compete safely in their respected events."

They added that, "Our athletes may not hear cheers from family, friends and fans in the stadiums, but through screens and heartfelt support, their fantastic performances will be enjoyed by people on the Island and worldwide."

COVID FORCES POLICY CHANGES AS COUNTRIES ADAPT

By Michael Jarvis, London UK

In a major policy reversal, the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) this week revised their previous guidance on mask-wearing.

It's now recommending that even fully vaccinated people should wear a mask indoors in public places in states rated as having "substantial and high" transmission rates.

In May the CDC had relaxed the requirement for indoor mask-wearing by fully vaccinated people.

The new guideline was expected to be endorsed by President Joe Biden who described the CDC position as "another step on our journey to defeating this virus".

This was expected as Mr Biden was also due to announce that all federal employees and contractors, should be vaccinated or submit to regular testing and mitigation requirements.

With the Delta variant spreading across the country and vaccination rates slowing - the current national rate is just 50 per cent - mask-wearing and intensifying the vaccination campaign are said to be priorities for the Biden administration.

He said he would "lay out the next steps in our effort to get more Americans vaccinated" this Thursday.

Already, several states including New York and California are pushing ahead with vaccination requirements for government workers and mask-mandates in public places.

White House chief medical adviser, Dr Anthony Fauci has said that officials were looking into revising the guidance on mask-wearing for Americans who have been vaccinated.

"When you talk to people who run hospitals, in New Orleans or other states, 90% of people in hospital with Delta variant have not been vaccinated," he said in a CNN interview. "That's another signal the vaccine works."

With COVID-19 cases are on the rise again across the United States driven by the "hyper-contagious" Delta variant, there is concern that further restrictions and guidance on mask-wearing and other measures could deter people from returning to work.

There is a concern that this was also likely to throw the government's plans to kick-start the economy off-balance.

Some employers feel that the combined uptick in cases and the reversal of the CDC's previous guidance would make it difficult to get their staff back to work in the coming months especially heading into the autumn and winter when cases are expected to rise further.

Meanwhile, in England, it's no longer a legal requirement to wear face coverings in indoor settings or on public transport.

However, many businesses including the operators of the capital's transport network Transport for London (TfL) run are advising customers in general to wear a mask when on their premises and using their services.

The UK government's own advice also states, "Lifting restrictions does not mean the risks from COVID-19 have disappeared, but at this new phase of the pandemic response we are moving to an approach that enables personal risk-based judgments."

The government has started relaxing restrictions in England, based on a high vaccination rate, but an increase in infections and deaths most of which are linked to the now dominant Delta virus, is a concern that's being closely analysed.

The British government had previously said its strategy to reopen the economy and continuing to relax restrictions was "irreversible".

However, more a cautious tone has been recently been adopted as government officials and health experts monitor the current pattern of infections, with the majority of new cases among unvaccinated people.

It made another adjustment this week to its reopening strategy, announcing that people who have been fully vaccinated in the EU or US will not need to isolate when coming to England from an amber list country.

As well as reopening to the EU and the US, international cruises will also be allowed to restart from England.

The change, which comes into effect from Monday, August 1st however excludes France where COVID-19 cases have been increasing, linked to a new Beta virus of the disease.

At the same time, France and several other EU countries also have an effective ban on travellers from the United Kingdom, as does the US.

THE POLITICAL PENDULUM SWINGS AGAIN IN ST LUCIA

By Michael Jarvis, London UK

Another massive swing of the political pendulum in St Lucia has swept the opposition St Lucia Labour Party (SLP) back into office following a pattern of election outcomes since 1997.

The SLP led by new Prime Minister Philip J Pierre has swept the United Workers Party (UWP) of Allen Chastenet out of office capturing 13 of the 17 seats. In 2016 the UWP won 11 seats to six for the SLP.

In Monday's election, the UWP could only hold on to two of the four seats which will now form the opposition - including that of former prime minister Chastenet - with the other two going to independent candidates.

One of the independents is a former prime minister, Stephenson King, who had quit the UWP over political differences with the Chastenet administration.

Another former prime minister who held on to his seat was the ex-SLP leader Dr Kenny Anthony.

The resounding victory gives the new SLP administration a clear mandate to overhaul the policies of the UWP which had been faced with allegations of corruption and criticisms over its management of the economy and more recently the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic.

The state of the economy - and its related issues including jobs, education, healthcare, social services, and crime - along with the handling of the COVID-19 crisis, have been central election issues.

St Lucia is saddled with one of the highest national debts in the Eastern Caribbean and has been fighting to keep its tourism-dependent economy afloat especially given the impact of the pandemic.

Outgoing prime minister Allen Chastenet was previously the tourism minister.

The country has been hit particularly hard by COVID-19 with over 5,500 cases and more than 90 deaths.

After a serious spike in infections earlier this year, St Lucia went into lockdown but has since been one of the first to reopen its borders to vaccinated travellers.

Local vaccination rates are also comparatively low averaging around 25 per cent. The government had been pushing for a herd-immunity target of 70 per cent but that has been hampered by 'vaccine-hesitancy' by some in the population.

The new St Lucia Prime Minister Pierre, an economist, has pledged that his administration will be "a government of inclusion, a government that will listen to people, a government of tolerance".

"We are hoping to take this country all the way from the division and conflict it is in now...There is a bitter taste in the mouths of the people of the country, so we have to sort that out," he said in interviews after he returned the SLP to power.

Voter turnout in Monday's election was 53.45 per cent also reflecting recent trends in St Lucia where polls are constitutionally due every five years.

This year's poll continues a recent pattern of massive swings of the pendulum in St Lucia's elections especially between the SLP and the UWP, the countries two dominant political forces.

This seesaw pattern has been the trend especially since the dominance of the conservative-oriented UWP under the late prime minister Sir John Compton, St Lucia's first prime minister, started waning in the 1990s.

The SLP is considered to be of a more socialist ideology.

This year's 13-4 victory margin of the SLP follows 2016's 11-6 win by the UWP which was the same margin that the UWP had won the 2011 polls and the SLP in 2006. In the 2001 elections, another significant majority was secured by the SLP when it won 14 of the 17 seats.

► Saint Lucia's Prime Minister Philip J Pierre

In the 1997 elections, the SLP, under then new leader Kenny Anthony, swept into office with a landslide 16 seat victory over the long-ruling, conservative UWP, which had been in power for all but a brief three-year period (1979-1982) since 1964.

Back then the UWP only retained one of the 11 seats it had held in the previous parliament.

A CALL TO TURN TO GOD

In a free and democratic society, we are all privileged to hold individual worldviews. In this context, the Cayman Ministers' Association wishes to call attention to the biblical worldview with respect to public morality and the celebration of what Holy Scripture declares to be sin.

In our National Anthem we sing, "God save our gracious queen". In our national song, "O land of soft fresh breezes, of verdant trees so fair, with the Creator's glory reflected everywhere..."

On our Coat of Arms, we have the words of Psalm 24, "He hath founded it upon the seas".

It is evident in the above quotations, and as reflected in the preamble of the Cayman Islands Constitution, that ours is a nation that acknowledges the supremacy of God and our dependance upon Him. But are we like the nation that Isaiah spoke about when he said "The Lord says, 'These people come near to me with their mouth and honor me with their lips, but their hearts are far from me'" (Is. 29:13)?

Let us be clear, this God is a personal, intelligent God, who is actively involved in human affairs. He did not just leave His creation to manage itself, but He upholds it by the Word of His Power (Heb. 1:3). "For in Him we live and move and have our being" (Acts 17:29).

God has given us His word to direct us – how we should conduct ourselves in every area of life, individually and nationally.

"Blessed is the man who does not walk in the counsel of the wicked, or stand in the way of sinners or sit in the seat of mockers, but His delight is in the law of the Lord" (Ps.1).

"Righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a disgrace to any people" (Prov. 14:20).

Let us note, also, that there is a day of accountability coming. "It is appointed unto man once to die and after death, the judgement" (Heb. 9:27). "The dead were judged according to what they had done as recorded in the books" (Rev. 20:12).

Remember that "God is not willing that any should perish but everyone to come to repentance" (II Pet. 3:9).

Let us remember that "All have sinned and fall short of the glory of God" (Rom. 3:23).

May we further remember that "God did not send His Son into the world to condemn the world, but to save the world through Him" (John 3:17).

As human beings, we have to choose whether or not we will follow the way of God through His Son Jesus Christ. Remember what Jesus said, "But unless you repent, you will all perish" (Luke 13:3).

In our culture today, many expect to live as they please and that all will be well with them when they pass from this life into eternity. Listen to the words of the Apostle Paul, "Do you not know that the wicked will not inherit the kingdom of God? Do not be deceived. Neither the sexually immoral, nor idolators, nor adulterers, nor male prostitutes, nor homosexual offenders nor thieves, nor the greedy, nor drunkards, nor slanderers will inherit the kingdom of God" (I Cor. 6:9&10).

Many in the early church came out of the above lifestyle when they repented and were converted. Paul wrote, "And that is what some of you were. But you were washed, you were sanctified, you were justified in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ and by the Spirit of our God" (I Cor. 6:11).

God gave us our free wills. We can freely choose the way we want to live; but our choices have consequences, both for ourselves and for our society. Popular opinion does not change the Word of God, which He has given to mankind to direct them how to live.

God sets before us life and death, blessing and cursing, but He tells us to choose life (Deut. 30:19). In the time of the Apostle Paul, rebellion against God was great – even as it is in our time. Here is what St. Paul wrote in Romans Chapter 1:

 OLYMPICS UPDATE

Crooks is second and breaks own record

Jillian Crooks is making history as Cayman's youngest ever Olympian and the 15-year-old made her homeland even prouder by placing second in her heat, setting a personal best time of 57.32 seconds in the 100m freestyle in Tokyo, setting a new national record in the process.

It was a stunning performance for the young swimmer which also improved her Cayman Islands Amateur Swimming Association record swimming against seven others, many of whom were much older. Crooks finished second in Heat 2 but it was not fast enough to advance to the semi-finals. However, after such a great performance she is delighted and can build on the experience as she improves in the future.

According to her Facebook page Crooks said that competing "was such an amazing experience that she cried happy tears upon exiting the pool". Brett Fraser, who is the next Cayman Olympian to perform on Friday - cheered her on from poolside.

Bolt's successor could be anyone!

When Usain Bolt hung up his spikes four years ago, he left a huge void. For the first time since 2004, the Olympic gold medal winner in the men's 100m sprint will not be Bolt.

Jamaica's sprint king is now enjoying retirement and there are an array of sprinters sizing up the title in Tokyo in the 100m final on Sunday.

The favourite heading into this summer, Canada's Andre de Grasse, 26, claimed Olympic bronze in Rio, behind Bolt and runner-up Justin Gatlin five years ago. That year, he also won bronze in the 4x100m relay and took silver in the 200m, becoming Canada's first athlete to take medals in all three sprint events.

► Trayvon Bromell has overcome numerous injuries

He has a close relationship with Bolt and the legendary Jamaican has said he sees himself in De Grasse.

With Bolt out the way, and Gatlin now 39, it looks as if De Grasse can succeed as champ. His status has slipped somewhat in recent months, however, as several other contenders have eclipsed him in 2021. Sadly, no Jamaicans are touted of even getting into the final, much less winning it, although Yohan Blake has been in cracking form leading up to the Games.

Potential medallists include South African Akani Simbine and the Americans Trayvon Bromell, Fred Kerley and Ronnie Baker.

Bromell has always been earmarked as a potential 100m gold medal winner but if he fulfils that potential in Tokyo, it will cap an incredible story.

Bromell has had a tough five years since the last Olympics. He injured his Achilles in the 4x100m in Rio and has since needed two surgeries to repair the damage.

He went nearly two years without competing and then, in his comeback in 2019, he hurt his thigh at about the 70m mark. His coach Mike Ford has since admitted to NBC that he feared Bromell might quit racing altogether.

So when Bromell stormed to a win in 9.80 in the US in June, it was no wonder he described it as a "marvellous feeling".

► Andre de Grasse hopes to be 100m champ in Tokyo

Pocket Rocket is fired up for gold

Shelly-Ann "Pocket Rocket" Fraser-Pryce is juggling being the fastest woman alive with motherhood as she bids for a third 100m Olympics gold - 13 years after her first triumph.

The 34-year-old Jamaica, who stands just 1.52 metres (5 feet) tall, is set for a mouth-watering clash in Tokyo with compatriot Elaine Thompson-Herah and Britain's 200m world champion Dina Asher-Smith. Barring poor form and bad luck, all three will be lined up in the women's 100m final on Saturday. Bermuda's Shaunae Miller-Uibo and American Gabby Thomas could also be in the mix.

US sprint star Sha'Carri Richardson was ruled out of the 100m in Japan after testing positive for marijuana at the US Olympic trials.

Fraser-Pryce won the first of her two Olympic 100m titles in Beijing in 2008, becoming the first Jamaican to win the event after previous generations of sprinters including Merlene Ottey and Juliet Cuthbert came up short.

She won her first world championships title in 2009 before her career was disrupted by a six-month ban the following year after she tested positive for banned substance oxycodone, which she said was as a result of medication for toothache.

Fraser-Pryce retained her 100m Olympic crown in London in 2012 but failed in her hat-trick bid at Rio in 2016, taking bronze.

She subsequently took time out to have a baby but returned in style to win a fourth 100m world title in 2019, also taking gold in the 4x100m relay, which was her ninth world championships gold.

She arrived in Tokyo in fine fettle after running a personal best of 10.63 seconds in "super spikes" in June to become the second-fastest woman of all time behind late US sprinter Florence Griffith Joyner, who timed 10.49sec.

Tokyo will be Fraser-Pryce's first Olympics as a mother - she gave birth to her son Zyon in 2017 - and says it has helped her put her life in perspective.

"It doesn't matter what happens on the field, my biggest accomplishment will always be my son and being able to come back to competition after having my son is also a big accomplishment," she said.

Biles overcoming mental issues

Four-time Olympic gold medallist Simone Biles had mental health issues before pulling out of the women's gymnastics team final on Tuesday.

The American left the arena after the vault, but later returned to support her teammates as they claimed silver behind the Russian Olympic Committee. She was expected to compete in the individual disciplines from Thursday.

Biles, 24, scored 13.766 - her lowest Olympic vault score - before withdrawing from the event.

"After the performance I did, I just didn't want to go on," she said. "I have to focus on my mental health. I just think mental health is more prevalent in sports right now."

"We have to protect our minds and our bodies and not just go out and do what the world wants us to do."

Biles is the most successful US gymnast of all time, and winner of four gold medals and a bronze at Rio 2016.

The 30-time Olympic and World Championship medallist needs four podium finishes in Tokyo to become the most decorated gymnast - male or female - in history.

Meanwhile, of Cayman's contingent in Tokyo, Raegan Rutty, 19, was brilliant in gymnastics, swimmer Jillian Crooks, 15, competed in the women's 50 metres freestyle on Wednesday and Brett Fraser is in the men's 50m freestyle on Friday. Sprinter Kemar Hyman is in the men's 100m heats on Saturday and Shalysa Wray runs in the women's 400m on Tuesday.

CARIBBEAN BRIEFS

Hundreds of Cuban protestors missing

Cubans who took to the streets in protest after decades of frustration with the communist government, are feared to be imprisoned or have secretly been killed by security forces.

Three weeks after the largest anti-government demonstrations in Cuba, activist groups say more than 500 protestors are still missing.

Thousands of people across the island marched through the streets in several towns and cities on 11 July, calling for democracy and sweeping economic reform in the country amid major food and medicine shortages.

Scores of people were arrested by plain clothes police officers and many families say they still haven't heard from their loved ones or been informed of their whereabouts.

The lawyers' group Cubalex says hundreds of people, many of them teenagers, have been detained. Scores of Cubans in exile living in Miami say their relatives have not been seen by friends or family on the island since they attended a protest in Guantanamo.

They believe they were arrested shortly afterwards and are now being held at a state security prison although they do not know exactly where.

Jamaica tightens curfew virus rules

Jamaica Prime Minister Andrew Holness is enforcing a new curfew and other Covid containment measures as the government races to slow the third wave of the virus.

Holness said on Monday the government has to act now ahead of the expected Aug. 11 review of the measures. However, he warned that tighter ones will be imposed from next month.

"This is a preliminary step in averting a massive spike that could happen," said Holness. Those measures could, for example, impact travel. Curfews from Monday to Saturday are 8pm-5am, Sundays and Public Holidays it's 3pm-5am.

► Jamaican police on curfew watch

Places of worship, gyms, dining establishments have reduced capacity limits from 70 percent to 50 percent and for small events capacity is reduced from 60 percent to 50 percent. Beaches and river opening hours are reduced too.

Former Montserrat chief jailed

Montserrat's former chief minister David Brandt has been imprisoned for 15 years after being found guilty on six counts of sexual exploitation on teenage girls and one count of perverting the course of justice.

But Brandt immediately indicated that he intends appealing the sentence, insisting that he had no physical contact with the young girls who were aged between 13 and 15 when the crimes were alleged to have taken place.

"I am not broken. I will not be broken. Do I look like a man broken?" said Brandt, who defended himself during the trial. Brandt, 78, who served as chief minister here from 1997 to 2001, insisted he is confident of winning his appeal and having the verdict reversed.

In sentencing Brandt to prison, Justice Stanley John said that because the charges were so "aggravated" and that Brandt had used his position, most notably as a senior lawyer, a wealthy person and a former chief minister, he was adding 18 months to the sentences that had been imposed on the sexual charges.

The judge took into consideration Brandt's age, his various illnesses, being immobile and having other medical challenges as well as the 12 months he had been in prison awaiting trial.

The SLP led by new Prime Minister

The St Lucia Labour Party (SLP) won the general election on Monday as voters showed their frustration and rejected the Allen Chastanet administration after only one five-year term in office.

In addition, political history was created in the Caribbean as two independent candidates entered the 17-member Parliament; one of them was the former prime minister Stephenson King, who quit the ruling United Workers Party (UWP) to contest the Castries North constituency, which he has been representing for nearly three decades.

SLP leader Philip Pierre, said on Choice TV that he was "elated", thanking his supporters in Castries East who ensured that he won the seat for the sixth consecutive time.

"Here we are, we have won the government and I intend to be a government for the entire country," Pierre, a politician since 1985, said. "A government of inclusion, a government that will listen to people, a government of tolerance and we are hoping to take this country all the way from the division and conflict it is in now."

The SLP, which was trounced 11-6 by Chastanet's UWP in the 2016 general election, won 12 seats, with Chastanet being among the three successful UWP candidates.

Pierre told viewers that the priority of his administration will be health, education and "particularly the young people".

Dominica's new passports

Dominica has launched its electronic passport (e-passport) that it says will significantly reduce identity theft and will be an integral component of its border management systems.

National Security Minister Rayburn Blackmoore said that Dominicans have until July 2023 to acquire the new passport so that passport holders who have recently renewed their travel document have plenty of time to get the electronic version.

Tourism Minister Denise Charles said Dominica has joined other countries worldwide that have "taken the bold step" in providing the new travel document.

"E-passports will add a new layer of security to traditional non-electronic passports by embedding an electronic chip in the passport booklet that stores biograph-

"Therefore, our electronic passports should make the immigration checkpoint process must faster and would allow immigration officers to quickly authenticate of travels, first providing protection against identity theft and fraud."

A CALL TO TURN TO GOD

"The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of men who suppress the truth by their wickedness. Because of their wickedness, God gave them over to shameful lusts; even their women exchanged natural relations for unnatural ones. In the same way the men also abandoned natural relations with women and were inflamed with lust for one another" (Rom. 1:18-27).

Let us remember that God cannot be mocked. A man reaps what He sows (Gal. 6:7).

We cannot as individuals and as a community expect to disobey God's laws with impunity. Changing societal norms does not remove our individual obligation to do what is right.

"...But the cowardly, the unbelieving, the vile, the murderers, the sexually immoral, those who practice magic arts, the idolators and all liars - their place will be in the fiery lake of burning sulfur. This is the second death" (Rev. 21:8).

"Seek the Lord while He may be found, call on Him while He is near. Let the wicked forsake his way and the evil man his thoughts and let him turn to the Lord, and He will have mercy on him, and to our God, for He will freely pardon" (Is. 55:6&7).

The Apostle Paul told the people of Athens many years ago, "In the past, God overlooked your ignorance, but now He commands all people everywhere to repent" (Acts 17:31). We will do well to heed this warning.
