February 2022 marks 10 years since the Cayman Islands special economic zones by Cayman Enterprise City (CEC) welcomed their first special economic zone company (SEZCo). CEC is now home to over 275 special economic zone companies "which features a broad variety of globally significant businesses, including one of the world's fastest growing web browsers, a world-renowned video production company, and the planet's fastest growing precious metals royalties company," said Charlie Kirkconnell, Chief Executive Officer of CEC.

Over the past 10 years, CEC has attracted new knowledge-based industries to the Cayman Islands, has been ranked amongst the world's top Free Zones, and has made a half billion dollar impact on the Cayman Islands' economy.

EDITORIAL

A WIN-WIN SITUATION FOR STUDENTS, BUSINESSES...AND GOVERNMENT

A series of events over the past few weeks have served as a welcome vote of confidence in our business community's support for Cayman's students - our next generations of leaders, professionals and entrepreneurs.

Scotiabank Cayman provided educational grants totalling $20,000 USD for nine students completing undergraduate studies at the International College of the Cayman Islands (ICCI).

Dart's Minds Inspired Math Challenge brought together some of the brightest young brains in mathematics for a two-day Tournament of Champions.

Year 11 students of John Gray High School were given the chance to hone their interview skills and contemplate their future during a series of mock interviews held with real-life employers during the week of 8 to 11 February.

It's money well spent, time well spent and recognition well earned for the businesses and the schools but most importantly, for the students.

Happening at a time of renewed discourse about prioritising Caymanians in the job market these types of engagements point to solutions.

It suggests a new form of business incubator; invest early and directly, encourage and support development, reap the results in the form of a cadre of capable and committed Caymanian staff who are ready, willing and able to take up the mantle.

It's a business plan for success that works for businesses, and there's no doubt that this type of investment will also work for our students.

Results are already showing.

Coming out of the mock interviews at John Gray High School with business leaders, several students have received offers of either part-time employment, mentorship and/or further training and development opportunities.

As the saying goes: "It's a win-win situation." And this type of winning combination is about to make its mark in the business of government (not just politics).

It was quite pleasing to learn that Hon. Premier Wayne Panton was so impressed with the presentations of students at the recent Alex Panton Foundation Youth Mental Health symposium that he has invited them to attend a session of Caucus to interact directly with the ministers and other elected representatives and policy-makers in the government.

Another good investment in the youth. Our future is in their hands.

Employees Honoured

Caribbean Utilities Company, Ltd. (CUC) recently honoured ten employees for outstanding service to the Company in 2021. The awardees are:

Brittany Mobley: Employee of the Year

An Engineer by trade, Ms. Mobley was presented with the 2021 Employee of the Year Award for her work with developing and enhancing the process being utilised to accommodate overseas contractors for a number of CUC projects. Since the advent of the Covid-19 pandemic in 2020, the process to bring in overseas contractors has become increasingly difficult with the introduction of various new requirements. Brittany has provided tremendous assistance and has been instrumental in developing our internal protocols and processes in this area and in turn, has built strong relationships for the Company. Her knowledge of the projects and her personal desire to learn and assist, has greatly contributed to the Company's success in ensuring that all required protocols and information is provided effectively and efficiently to the relevant stakeholders. In addition, she often responded to queries outside of work hours, which were quite frequent for this assignment. Brittany epitomizes the CUC value of teamwork.

Denise Dixon: Supervisor of the Year

Mrs. Dixon was awarded the 2021 Supervisor of the Year Award for her outstanding leadership qualities. As Supervisor Banking & Fixed Assets, she was honoured for her willingness to assist wherever needed when the Financial Services Department was short-staffed. Always supportive of her team members, Mrs. Dixon makes herself available no matter what the circumstances. She embodies teamwork and is well-respected and admired by her team and the many employees with whom she interacts with.

Odayne Lynch: Excellence in Safety Award

Mr. Lynch was presented with the 2021 Excellence in Safety Award for his commitment to safety awareness. As an Engineering Technologist, he is tasked with overseeing numerous complex transmission and distribution projects involving personnel and multiple vehicles. His attention to detail in the safety planning and onsite work phases is second to none. If the project cannot be done or is not being done safely, Mr. Lynch will be the first to speak out or essentially cease all work on the project.

Andrew Carter: The Jeffrey Broderick Bright Spark Award

Mr. Carter, a Senior Production Planner in the Electrical Maintenance Department, was awarded the 2021 Jeffrey Broderick Bright Spark Award for his creativity in devising a new job planning form in collaboration with the Environment, Health & Safety Department. This new job planning form quickens the process while improving the quality and safety aspects of the proposed job. The form was quickly adopted by a number of departments within the Company.

Emily Pearson, Amaris Smith, Japhia Augustine and Sylvester Coleman: Wellness Champions

Ms. Pearson, Ms. Smith, Ms. Augustine and Mr. Coleman shared the 2021 Wellness Champion Award for their participation in a number of health and wellness campaigns during the year.

Delroy Henry: The Otis Jackson Golden Wrench Award

This award honours the late Otis Jackson, one of the Company's "Veterans of Power" and is awarded to an employee from any of the departments responsible for power generation. Mr. Henry is the 2021 Otis Jackson Golden Wrench Award winner. As a Heavy Duty Mechanic in the Mechanical Maintenance Department, Mr. Henry was rewarded for his hard work, dependability and tireless effort on a number of projects with which he was involved. He is deeply respected by his colleagues and is always willing to assist with other projects, offering solutions and support to apprentices, passing on his knowledge and expertise.

Michael Powell: The Pedro Echenique Golden Bucket Award

This award honours the late Pedro Echenique, another of CUC's celebrated "Veterans of Power". This award is presented to an employee in transmission and distribution who embodies the Company's core values. As a Power Line Technician, Michael was rewarded for his leadership skills, commitment to safety, hard work and willingness to assist whenever needed. He always has a positive attitude towards his work and fellow employees and is not afraid to get his 'hands dirty'.

These employee awards are based on nominations from employees, which are then voted on and finalised by the Executive and Management teams. In addition to these annual awards, the Company has a number of reward and recognition programmes designed to recognise employees' contribution to improving all facets of life at CUC.

Ministry of Education (MOE) Awards Scholarship to Miss Teen Cayman Islands

The Ministry of Education (MOE) has awarded a four-year scholarship to 18-year-old Asaiah Thomas.

The scholarship, valued at $54,000.00, is awarded annually to the reigning Miss Teen Cayman Islands.

It covers two years of local study and up to two years of study at an overseas university of the recipient's choice.

"The Ministry awards this scholarship to some of Cayman's brightest young ladies. In so doing, we hope they will develop their talents and skills and one day use them in the service of the Cayman Islands so that we can continue to grow and flourish as a nation," remarked Minister of Education Hon Juliana O'Connor-Connolly after the official signing of the scholarship contract on Tuesday (15 February) afternoon.

Asaiah expressed her appreciation for the scholarship. "I am very grateful to the Ministry of Education for providing me with this wonderful opportunity to further my studies," she commented.

Asaiah is currently pursuing an associate degree in Engineering Technology at the University College of the Cayman Islands (UCCI). She hopes to pursue a bachelor's degree in architecture in the UK upon completing her studies at UCCI.

FIRSTSTARS LET THEIR BRILLIANCE SHINE

CIBC FirstCaribbean inducted 10 (ten) star employees into its regional Hall of Fame during its recently held inaugural FirstStars Annual CEO Awards Ceremony.

Two of them, Jacqueline Bascombe, Senior Manager, Applications Data Wealth and Corporate, Barbados and Justin Pierre, Private Banker, Cayman Islands each received the Award of Distinction.

The other inductees are Farrah Brathwaite, Sales Specialist (Barbados); Shalla

Brathwaite, Client and Engagement Analyst (Barbados); Caryl Fontaine, Sales Specialist (Dominica); Tiffany Pinder, Senior Relationship Manager, Sales and Platinum Banking (Bahamas); Michael Roach, Sales Specialist, (Antigua); Carolyn Roberts, Senior Manager Credit and Corporate Investment Banking, (The Bahamas); Nedra Woodside, Corporate Manager, Corporate investment Corporate Banking (The Bahamas) and Kerrin White, former Business Development Officer who was recently promoted to Platinum Manager (Cayman Islands).

Chief Executive Officer, Colette Delaney said they “exemplified living the bank’s brand behaviours and Client 1st standards”, and had “either exceeded sales targets, delivered excellent client service, showcased innovation, or supported the bank’s corporate social responsibility programmes” and in many cases had done more than one of these.

She expressed gratitude to them for what they had done for CIBC FirstCaribbean over the past fiscal and noted, “To read the stories of how you got here is a study in client focus – being responsive, being advocates for our clients and collaborating with others to deliver excellence.”

The bank’s Chief Administrative Officer, Neil Brennan spoke in a similar vein and told the high achievers: “Your deep commitment to our corporate behaviours of agility, collaboration, integrity, ownership and urgency will no doubt continue to drive you toward even greater achievements.”

Challenging the FirstStars, he said, “Spread all of the qualities that caused you to be awarded for excellence to those around you! Choose a colleague and mentor them, seek to ignite in them the same passion for excellence and exceptional service that has driven you to great heights so far... talk to your teams about what you do and why you do it and what drives you and why you believe it is so important, inspire them to emulate you.”

“Spread your attitudes and dedication to all the people around you... I want you to look at the qualities you possess, the attributes that you have, and the dedication that you have shown to the bank that has led you to be recognised for this achievement and I want you to spread those qualities.”

The ceremony also heard from the winner of the 2020 Award of Distinction, Lian Richards who said that winning the award was an indescribable feeling, since people came to work daily giving of their best but expecting nothing in return but their salary, therefore to be awarded for your hard work was a dream come true. Richards also said she knew the level of work needed to become an awardee.

Referring to a quote from former United States, First Lady Michelle Obama, Richards urged her colleagues to encourage others to reach for the stars, “don’t slam the doorway of opportunity” to them, she said, as she implored them to “reach back and give other folks the same chances that helped you to succeed.”

The FirstStars Annual CEO’s Awards is a revamped recognition scheme for employees which the CEO said was done in keeping with the bank’s march towards digitalisation, and was a comprehensive recognition programme.

The event was held virtually under the theme, “Let Your Brilliance Shine.”

Exercise Caution when Approaching CUC Personnel on the Roads

We encourage motorists to drive carefully when approaching our Line Operations crews and T&D Planners while they are working on or near the roads - traffic cones, bright orange road signs and flashing lights will be displayed and in certain situations, rumble strips will be deployed.

Depending on the work involved, portions or all of the road in the work zone may need to be blocked to allow our trucks and vehicles access to the utility poles. Motorists are encouraged to drive with extreme caution at slow speed until they are well clear of the work zones. Your support will allow us to work safely and complete the job in a timely manner.

Remember to never use mobile telephones while driving, always wear seat belts, obey the speed limits, pay attention to road signs and slow down when workers or pedestrians are on or near roads!

DG's 5k Challenge set for April 2022

Every year, the Deputy Governor and the DG's 5k Challenge Planning Committee look forward to hitting the road with the community to raise money for some worthy causes.

Originally scheduled for April 2020, and postponed twice due to COVID-19, the Challenge is now being planned for April this year. Proceedings are expected to continue as normal, in line with relaxed COVID-19 regulations on outdoor sporting activities effective 18 February 2022.

"The DG's 5k has become a fixture on our Cayman Islands sporting calendar and one that the chosen beneficiaries appreciate," said the Deputy Governor, Hon. Franz Manderson. "As we navigated public health concerns in 2020 and 2021, we decided it was best to postpone the event. Now, with the country learning to live with COVID, we believe it is timely to bring back the DG's 5K, while observing the regulations so everyone keeps safe."

Organisers hope that runners, walkers, and supporters of all ages will mark their calendars and be able to join the Challenge come April. The dates earmarked are:

- Sunday, 3 April 2022 – Cayman Brac
- Sunday, 10 April 2022 – Little Cayman
- Sunday, 24 April 2022 – Grand Cayman

Registration begins 1 March.

With this being a delayed staging of the 2020 Challenge, the event's theme, Helping Today – Protecting Tomorrow, remains the same. The charities that would have benefitted in 2020 also remain: the Cayman Islands Cancer Society (CICS), The Alzheimer's and Dementia Association of the Cayman Islands (ADACI) and The MS Foundation of the Cayman Islands.

"During very troubled times the Cayman Islands has been blessed to experience a great deal of success. We hope that our highly anticipated DG's 5k Challenge will stand as a beacon of hope, as something that everyone will see as an opportunity to come together to reconnect and have fun, doing something that is good for our health while also supporting some very deserving charities," Mr Manderson added.

Stay tuned for continuing updates on the DG's 5k.

Interviews give students a taste of the real world

By Lindsey Turnbull

John Gray High School Year 11 students were given the chance to hone their interview skills and contemplate their future during a series of mock interviews held with real life employers during the week of 8 to 11 February.

Taking place at the school's new administration building, the mock interviews were co-ordinated by Jenine Stewart, Career Services Manager with the Department of Education Services, who worked alongside Mark Seeratta, JGHS Deputy Principal. The mock interviews are held each year and are usually accompanied by a careers fair, which had to be cancelled this year due to Covid restrictions.

In the end, 110 interviews were conducted, carried out by 18 interviewers representing 26 private sector companies and government departments.

Mrs Stewart outlined that the interviews were an important tool in exposing Year 11 students of JGHS to a realistic business interview environment.

"The interviews allow students to make mistakes and receive advice on how to rectify them in a safe environment, as well as receive feedback from industry professionals on improvements needed to increase the students' chances of success at a real interview," she advised.

The experience would assist students in developing effective interview strategies, give them an opportunity to practice their interviewing skills, professional behaviours and to demonstrate employability skills and encourage students to improve workplace knowledge.

Importantly, they would enhance students' understanding of what employers' expectations were, she said.

JGHS Principal Jon Clark thanked Mrs Stewart and the Career Services Team for their effort, and stated:

"It was so good to see our community partners come together with our school staff, and the excellent Careers Service Team, to offer this essential experience of mock interviews to our students despite the current Covid challenges. I know the students learned much and enjoyed dressing for success, and we have had some very positive feedback from the employers."

Mr Clark said it was also great to be able to host the interviews in the administration building of their new world-class campus.

► Students await their mock interviews

"Unfortunately, we had to cancel our outstanding careers fair this year but I am confident our students are in a good place with their careers education, and hopefully, it will motivate them even more towards success in the summer exams. A big thank you to all who helped make this happen, especially the employers who give freely of their time to the programme and our young people," he said.

The experience was not only useful for students, as it also gave prospective employers the chance to assess the upcoming talent pool.

Naomi Van Beek, Conference Service Manager, Kimpton Seafire Resort + Spa, said the mock interview event was a fantastic initiative and she was impressed by the fact that the students she interviewed knew what their long-term career goals are.

"Some of them were really driven with plans of how to get there," she said.

Barbara Anley, General Manager, Phoenix Construction, said: "I hope the students who did participate will be recognised in front of their classmates as the young leaders of the future. They made the effort to prepare and go through with the interviews."

Ande Francis, Training, Quality Assurance & Safety Manager, PWD was impressed by the fact that the students took time-out to research the organisations that they were applying to.

Nelani Swan, Head Girl, JGHS, said the fact that Year 11 students participated in mock interviews to emulate real interviews for career training purposes was very important.

"Not only did it help to improve our communication skills and build confidence but it alleviated the fear and stress of an actual job interviews," she confirmed. "I can personally say that this interview process has improved my knowledge of the world of work for the better. From writing a cover letter that mirrors who you are as a person, to creating your resume that highlights your accomplishments, to sitting in front of your interviewer and communicating to your prospective employer that you have a lot to offer. This whole experience has been beneficial to myself and my entire Year 11 class."

Underscoring the importance of participating in the exercise, as a result, some students received offers of either part-time employment, mentorship and/or further training and development opportunities.

Participating companies/government departments included Kimpton Seafire Resort & Spa, Ritz-Carlton, Grand Cayman, Red Sail Sports, Tech Cayman, NCVO, Cayman Turtle Centre, National Gallery, Cayman National Bank, Maples, Brady's Law, Carey Olsen, POCS, RCIPS and PWD.

Full Covid protocol was followed during the week of mock interviews.

Dialogue needed on abuse; more help needed for LGBTQ community

By Lindsey Turnbull

The fifth annual Mental Health Symposium organised by the Alex Panton Foundation took place last Saturday at The Ritz-Carlton to a limited audience with many watching online, at which Governor Martyn Roper giving a welcome address stating that more needed to be done in Cayman with regard to how abuse was dealt with.

"There is a pressing need for more community awareness and education, particularly around recognising and responding effectively to abuse and the need for safe places," he stated. "We need to tackle cultural barriers and we need to tackle barriers to prosecuting people who are guilty of crimes in this area."

The Governor went on to say that the gay community also needed a stronger voice.

"We need to advance the LGBTQ+ conversation and increase the help for young people to be heard," he advised.

The pandemic had certainly heightened everyone's need for mental health support and so the work the Alex Panton Foundation had been doing via its various programmes had never been more important, he said.

"There is no doubt that Covid-19 has had a large impact on all of us. Our routines have had to change and many of us have had to adapt to a new environment and we've all faced a lot of uncertainty and worry," he confirmed. "I know the Foundation has had a record number of supporters and sponsors, which I think is a real sign of the vital work the Foundation is doing and a real sign that the work of the Foundation is acutely needed more so than ever."

The Symposium in particular gave the opportunity for young people and their families were able to connect with practitioners, researchers and policy makers committed to making lasting change across the youth mental health sector, he said.

The Governor said that the day enabled people to understand that help was at hand via the Alex Panton Foundation.

The Governor then went on to give a personal account of how he had managed to deal with the stresses and strains of life and the pressure that they had played on his own mental health.

"I often look back at my own journey. It really took me well into my 30s before I recognised that all the negative thoughts in my head were actually just very normal. I often come but it has worked for me over the years, building my own resilience," he stated.

back to Aristotle who said that we are not shaped by events, we are shaped by our perception of events. I'm a real strong believer that all of us have it within ourselves to rephrase those thoughts that are going on in our heads."

The Governor said that people often had emotional, subjective or irrational thoughts, but everyone had the power to reframe them in a positive, more objective, rational and pragmatic way.

He went on to speak about one particular type of mental health issue that had specifically impacted him, which was imposter syndrome, which he explained was something that made people in successful positions wonder whether they were worth being in that position and whether they deserved it.

"When you have thoughts like that, being able to reframe and find objectivity helps you to deal with it. It doesn't work for everybody

My life is online and so is my bank

"A girl can't live without her smartphone. Lol. And I've got CIBC FirstCaribbean's Mobile App so I can do my banking on my phone, too.

The App lets me manage my accounts, secure my cards, pay bills and track my budget, anytime of day or night.

My bank keeps me ahead of the game every day so I can keep living my best life! "

Students mark Book Week with Bake Off

By Lindsey Turnbull

Celebrating Book Week at Cayman Prep and High School has never been sweeter, with students being challenged to showcase their favourite books in cake form. As a result, some amazing cake creations were brought in by youngsters, who showed off their creative cake making talents while at the same time highlighting their favourite stories.

The event was led by English teacher Raeanne Meade, who explained that Cayman Prep has been holding a range of events to celebrate Book Week, including a Book Mastermind, Blind Date with a book and a lot more besides.

"The Great Cayman Bake Off was a huge success last year and the students have been chasing me all year to make sure that it was happening again!" she said. "The idea was to attract students to consider and pay homage to their favourite books through creating a tasty treat with house points and prizes on offer for the best ones."

Ms Meade said the students jumped at the chance and did not disappoint.

"We had a range of cakes from students in KS3 and KS4 which were incredibly detailed and extremely tasty. From Fantastic Mr Fox to Alice in Wonderland to The Hunger Games, the students created a wide variety of treats to impress their teachers and peers. They truly were showstoppers!" she advised.

All the cakes were visually judged by staff and students at break time, followed by a selective tasting session at lunch time.

"We knew that the event would look a little different this year with Covid, but we wanted to still give the students the whole Bake Off experience," Ms Meade said. "We ensured that cake handlers wore gloves, we limited the number of people in the judging room at any one time and ensured everyone wore masks and sanitised their hands on entry. It was important for us to have an event like this whilst making sure that the students and staff were all as safe as possible."

Eight-year-old Kyla Machingambi, said: "This event was so fun! I wanted to get involved because I love eating cake and wanted to challenge myself to bake for the first time! Plus, it felt like the perfect tribute to my favourite book!"

Olivia Thorpe, also 8, said: "It's just so fun to bake with your friends and seeing the final piece come together. We chose Fantastic Mr Fox because it's such a classic and was one of my favourite books growing up. We had so many ideas on how to execute it and we're so glad with how it turned out."

Jasmine Woodford, 9, said: "Last year was so much fun and so I was keen to get involved again. It was also a really helpful distraction from exam stress and just gave me a chance to relax and bake with my friends. Plus... everyone loves cake!"

Lydia Day, Year 10, said: "I got involved simply because I wanted to test my baking skills and show off my love of books. It is book week after all!"

Cayfest Launches with Awards

Cayfest 2022 kicked off at the Haruail Theater on Thursday, February 20th, with the Cayman National Cultural Foundation (CNCF) hosting an awards ceremony for some of Cayman's brightest artisans on the evening.

CNCF awards recognize those who attain a level of merit in their artistic discipline and who contribute to the arts, culture and heritage of the Cayman Islands.

Awards are also presented for outstanding volunteer, sponsor of the year and the Chairman's Award for outstanding long-term support of CNCF's work.

Awardees on the evening included Donna Bryan, who received the Gold Heritage Cross for her work in the area of thatching, which she has taught in schools throughout the Cayman Islands, including John Gray High School.

After sharing her knowledge with the teachers in the art department at the school, it was decided that the initiative should be formally offered to key stage 3 students as part of the curriculum.

Ms Bryan has also taught thatching at several private schools and her pieces have been showcased by the Girl's Brigade International, Heritage Week and the Kimpton Seafire Resort and Spa.

Charles Long also received a Gold Heritage Cross for his work in the visual arts in a career that has spanned over a half century. A founding member of the Visual Arts Society, Mr. Long crafted his own aesthetic that is uniquely Caymanian.

His paintings employ a stylistic language that represent the emergence of a distinct voice in Caymanian Art and one that is rooted in the sensory experience, landscapes and seascapes of the Islands.

Mr. Long's work has achieved iconic status and is easily recognisable for its brightly coloured palette and flattened mural-style.

His pieces are held in the collections of the Cayman Islands National Museum and the National Gallery of the Cayman Islands, as well as numerous private collections.

The Gold Star for Creativity was awarded to Margaret Barwick, who was also involved in establishing the Cayman Islands Visual Arts Society.

She also headed the first Cayman Islands contingent to CARIFESTA in Barbados and has designed stamps, created the Tortola, BVI's J.R. O'neal Botani Garden and played a leading role in the design of the Cayman Islands Queen Elizabeth II, Botanic Park, in addition to writing the authoritative Tropical and Subtropical Trees: A World-wide Encyclopedia Guide (2004).

Another Gold Star for Creativity was awarded to Natalie Urquhart, Director and Chief Curator at the National Gallery of the Cayman Islands.

Mrs. Urquhart has worked within the regional cultural sector for over 20 years and is a leading authority on Caymanian art and culture. She is also the author of the Islands' first formal history and in 2019, she established the Cayman Islands Biennial - the Islands' first multi-venue, tri-Island contemporary art project.

She recently launched the inaugural Cayman Art Week and her own curatorial practice explores the influence of traditional cultural heritage and memory on contemporary art in the Cayman Islands. This has led to 30 exhibition projects, including 21st Century Cayman, the Persistence of Memory, Tidal Shift and REVIVE - Contemporary Caymanian Craft Upon the Seas, as well as the Art of Fashion.

The Silver Stars for Creativity went to Jawara Alleyne and the late Ky-Mani Rudolph Davis III.

bean perspective. After receiving a scholarship from the National Gallery of the Cayman Islands and the Deutsche Bank, he pursued a Bachelor's Degree in fashion Design and Marketing at the London College of Fashion.

Following his graduation he founded the diversity conscious Nii Model Agency in London.

Ky-Mani, who was affectionately known as DJ TNT travelled around the globe for nearly 30 years and partnered with fellow DJs, as well as internationally renowned DJ crews such as Poison Dart.

Mr. Davis was also responsible for introducing MUTED, the silent event concept in the Cayman Islands. The event allows guests to have their own experience via Bluetooth headphone technology at parties.

He also launched Blaze 345, an online radio station that featured Djs from Cayman, as well as other disc Jockeys as around the world.

Bronze Medals for Creativity were awarded to Yonier Power Serrano for his work ceramics and Simon Tatum for his Sculpting.

Creativity Certificates went to the Cayman Art Week Committee and staff of the National Gallery, as well as Stoak'd (Marc and Pam Laurenson).

A winning format for the 9th annual Minds Inspired Math Challenge

Adapted for COVID times, the Minds Inspired Math Challenge brought together some of the brightest young brains in mathematics for a two-day Tournament of Champions. Students from six high schools competed as individuals and in school teams, with John Gray High School winning the junior team prize and Cayman International School taking home the trophy for the senior team.

With the majority of inter-school competitions put on hold this academic year due to COVID restrictions, the 2021 Math Challenge was rescheduled from last November to February of this year. For the event to take place and comply with COVID regulations, organisers introduced a qualifying round that was held in schools earlier this month allowing nearly 350 high school students to participate. Each school then selected two junior and two senior students to enter the Tournament of Champions held at Camana Bay on Thursday, 17 and Friday, 18 February.

Each taking titles for a second consecutive year, Jake Fagan from Cayman Prep & High School won the individual prize in the junior category and Michael Marzouca from St. Ignatius Catholic School was overall winner in the senior category.

► Math Challenge Quizmaster Jackie Henshilwood, a financial analyst with Dart, is pictured with the 12 school champions

“The past few months have been challenging for schools, so it was wonderful to see students from government and private schools gathered in friendly competition,” said Glenda McTaggart, senior manager for education programmes at Dart. “Inter-school events like these are key motivators for students and help improve learning outcomes.”

Dart launched the Math Challenge in 2013, initially for upper grade students and added a junior level due to popular demand from students and teachers. The event, which attracts more than 125 students in each category, is usually held at University College Cayman Islands and teams are mixed across schools. Due to COVID constraints, Layman Scott High School in Cayman Brac and Triple C School were unable to participate this year.

“The format worked well under COVID conditions, but we look forward to returning to UCCI in November for this year’s Math Challenge,” said McTaggart. “One of the benefits of hosting in person is the kids can see how many of their peers share their enjoyment of math. It’s also good for kids who are used to being top of their class to face a bigger challenge.”

In addition to testing their knowledge, the Math Challenge exposes students to potential careers in mathematics. This year’s Math Challenge quizmaster was Dart financial analyst Jackie Henshilwood whose graduate degree in mathematics is essential for the numerical modelling she does for her job. The CFA (Chartered Financial Analysts) Society Cayman Islands also shared career advice with the senior teams, and engineering graduate Paul Henry, Dart’s manager of business innovations, set an engineering challenge about cranes for the juniors.

Mathematics is the foundation for multiple careers that require critical thinking and logic. Minds Inspired aims to attract Cayman’s young people to STEM subjects – science, technology, engineering and mathematics – by creating an engaging, annual programme of events.

“The Math Challenge makes mathematics fun, the kids look forward to it every year,” said Aine Carroll, acting head of mathematics at Cayman Prep & High School. “It’s also lets them see math isn’t just for the classroom.”

The 2022 Math Challenge will be held on 17 and 18 November 2022 at University College of Cayman Islands.

Cayman's Special Economic Zones Celebrate 10 Years of Innovation, Collaboration and Growth

Cayman Enterprise City Marks a Decade of SEZ Development

for projects with the potential to attract Foreign Direct Investment (FDI), develop new business sectors distinct from financial services and tourism, and help diversify Cayman's economy. The Special Economic Zones Act, which resulted from a fully transparent agreement between the Cayman Islands Government and Cayman Enterprise City, quickly came into effect and CEC opened their doors for business in February 2012.

"I offer sincere congratulations to Charlie Kirkconnell and his partners at Cayman Enterprise City for 10 years of creating new jobs, new industries, new businesses and new careers here in the Cayman Islands," said Premier Hon. G. Wayne Panton, MP, JP. "When the Special Economic Zones Bill, 2011, was tabled in the Legislative Assembly it was said that 'This is an exciting and important project for the future of the Cayman Islands and speaks to the advent of what is potentially a new pillar of our economy to go along with financial services and tourism. We are indeed harnessing our economy and indeed the future opportunities of our people to the technologies and industries of the future'. Those were indeed prophetic words."

"CEC opened with 10 companies and today services more than 275. I am especially proud of the work that CEC does with our young people, offering summer internships to students and recent graduates aged 18-25 where they get an opportunity to connect with leading industry professionals and gain skills and experience. I thank Charlie and everyone at Cayman Enterprise City for their hard work and dedication to the Cayman Islands over these past 10 years. I wish you continued success in the future."

After a decade of growth, CEC is now home to the largest innovation ecosystem in the region and paves the way for growth stage start-ups, unicorns, and multinational firms to accelerate success. Through CEC, the Cayman Islands boasts the first dedicated commodities and derivatives centre in the Americas' time zone and in 2017 launched Cayman Maritime & Aviation City designed specifically to attract shipping and maritime industries to establish a genuine physical presence in the Cayman Islands.

"Cayman Enterprise City is 100% Caymanian owned and led, this is something we all should be proud of," said Kirkconnell. "Through transparent reporting, community building, and sustainable development initiatives, we aim to demonstrate our capacity as Caymanians to innovate and diversify our economic base, create resilience, offer immense value, and continue to distinguish our jurisdiction as a world-class hub for innovation."

In October 2021, CEC was recognised by the Financial Times' fDi Intelligence Magazine with an Excellence Award in Environmental, Social and Corporate Governance (ESG) Practices for efforts in developing a sustainable special economic zones project. The 2021 Free Zones Awards mark the second consecutive year for CEC to be recognised as a top free zone in the Americas.

"Environmental, Social and Governance means that we are first and foremost building a business model and campus to serve generations to come. It means we're constantly looking at the impact of our decisions and our business practices and how they measure up in all three dimensions," said Cindy O'Hara, Chief Development Officer of CEC. "Are we using materials that harm the environment? Are we contributing to the waste problem in the Cayman Islands or working to solve it? Are we providing targeted opportunities that will make life better for us all here in the Cayman Islands? Are we being transparent in how we do business? We are in business for the purpose of creating a better future, a stronger economy and greater quality of life. All of our decisions go through this filter."

In 2013 the focus on the special economic zones development project shifted gears when Kirkconnell took on the role as CEO. "Focusing on community and experience was really what changed the fortunes of the project," said Kirkconnell. "We're not only building special economic zones and attracting foreign direct investment, but we're also building new and exciting opportunities for the next generation of Caymanians. We're working tirelessly to ensure that the development project makes a significant socioeconomic impact and is developed as an asset for the benefit of the Cayman Islands."

In October 2021, the Enterprise Cayman workforce development initiative by CEC in partnership with Cayman Islands' special economic zone companies relaunched as a non-profit organisation (NPO) and educational arm of the CEC special economic zones (SEZs) development project. The initiative, established in 2012, has been designed to create a space for Caymanians and residents of the Cayman Islands to develop, collaborate, and take advantage of an ever diversifying and developing economy. "We recognise that the success of the CEC project will continue to depend on our developing significant benefits for the country, not just today but also in the many years ahead, through driving additional economic growth and entrepreneurial and career opportunities for Caymanians," said Kirkconnell. "Relaunching Enterprise Cayman as an NPO reaffirms our commitment our next generation of innovators."

WESTERN ALLIES SLAP SANCTIONS ON RUSSIA OVER UKRAINE

"Who in the Lord's name does Putin think gives him the right to declare new so-called 'countries' on territory that belonged to his neighbours?"

With that US President Joe Biden set the tone for a series of economic sanctions against Russia by the United States including military aid to Ukraine.

"This is the beginning of a Russian invasion of Ukraine, so I am going to begin to impose sanctions in response," he said on Tuesday as tensions worsened.

It came amidst a flood of indignation by western governments over Russia's recognition of two separatist regions of eastern Ukraine - the self-proclaimed People's Republics of Donetsk and Luhansk (DNR and LNR).

Russian leader Vladimir Putin has also sent in what he calls a 'peacekeeping force' to support them.

Western leaders see this as a flagrant move by the Russian president to invade Ukraine under the guise of peacekeeping and what they label as outlandish claims by Mr Putin accusing Ukraine of aggression.

Earlier on Tuesday, just hours after the Putin move, British Prime Minister Boris Johnson secured cross-party support for his condemnation of the move by Russia, although some members of the British Parliament felt a series of sanctions he imposed did not go far enough.

"It is absolutely vital that we hold in reserve further powerful sanctions... in view of what President Putin may do next," Johnson said in response to calls for tougher action.

The British Prime Minister said Russia was on a dangerous path of becoming a pariah state over its stance against Ukraine.

There's no talk of any direct military action by the UK, US or other member states of the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO) against Russia, especially as Ukraine is not a member of the defence and security grouping.

Mr Putin is vigorously opposed to Ukrainian membership in NATO saying it would pose a security threat to his country, and accusing NATO of expansionism right up to the Russian border.

NATO has repeatedly stated that's not on the agenda and counter the allegations of the Russian president as a pretext to invade the former member of the disbanded Soviet Republic which they say Mr Putin wants to re-establish in some form.

With the Western focus on a diplomatic solution and targeted sanctions, Prime Minister Johnson has called the UK measures a "first barrage", in an economic onslaught against Russia, targeting a number of Russian banks and individuals who are close allies of President Putin.

Also looming large is the extent of Russian involvement in London's globally important financial district resulting in some critics labelling it the 'London laundry' and 'Londongrad'.

A report by the Reuters news agency claims that hundreds of billions of dollars have flowed into London and Britain's overseas territories from Russia since the fall of the Soviet Union in 1991, and London has become the Western city of choice for the super-wealthy of Russia and other former Soviet republics.

"We want to stop Russian companies from being able to raise funds in sterling or indeed in dollars," Mr Johnson said.

The current crisis is viewed by the British and other western governments as the worst foreign policy crisis and most serious threat of a global conflict since the Second World War.

BRITISH GOV'T IMPLEMENTS 'LIVING WITH COVID' STRATEGY

By Michael Jarvis, London UK

England this week removed practically all of its COVID-19 pandemic laws, becoming one of the first in the world to do so.

Making the announcement in the House of Commons (British Parliament) on Monday, Prime Minister Boris Johnson said, "Covid will not suddenly disappear so those who would wait for a total end to this war before lifting the remaining regulations would be restricting the liberties of the British people for a long time to come."

Under what he called the government's 'living with Covid strategy', he said England had attained sufficient levels of immunity and credited a successful vaccine roll-out for enabling the government to remove the restrictions.

"Restrictions pose a heavy toll on our economy, our society, our mental wellbeing and on the life chances of our children, and we do not need to pay that cost any longer," Mr Johnson said.

The Prime Minister said he was relying on "responsible behaviour" when announcing that persons who test positive for the virus will only be advised to isolate but this will no longer be a legal requirement.

Among other key restrictions lifted, vaccinated contacts of people who have tested positive will no longer be asked to do daily lateral flow tests for seven days.

A £500 (C$557) isolation payment for workers on low incomes is also ending as is contact tracing - although the Prime Minister said some levels of surveillance of the coronavirus would remain in place, allowing for a rapid response if the situation warrants, especially given the likelihood of new variants emerging.

New booster vaccines will be rolled out in the coming weeks for persons aged 75 and older, elderly care home residents and others over 12 years old with weakened immunities.

From April 1st the government will no longer pay for lateral flow tests except for the elderly and the most vulnerable.

The day after Mr Johnson announced that the free tests will be stopped, a major UK pharmacy chain announced its price list for the LFTs of £2.50 (C$2.78) in-store and £5.99 (C$6.67) per test for delivery.

But the move by the government has divided opinions.

While being welcomed by many in the business community, others are doubtful about workers being on the job with the virus, despite the Prime Minister putting his trust in responsible behaviour by the public.

Although hospitalisations and deaths linked to COVID-19 have generally decreased in the UK, the disease is still prevalent, especially with the current Omicron strain.

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II has had to cut back on her duties after testing positive this past week and displaying mild symptoms.

► British Prime Minister Boris Johnson

Those who question the government's decision, including the British Medical Association, have called it premature and worry that it will create unnecessary risk.

The BMA said the plan failed to protect those people who are most at risk from COVID-19.

The leader of the main opposition Labour Party, Sir Keir Starmer, was more strident in his criticism.

Responding to the Prime Minister's statement in Parliament, he called it "half-baked" and challenged Mr Johnson to show the medical evidence for his decision.

"This is a half-baked announcement from a government paralysed by chaos and incompetence," the Opposition Leader declared. "Our plan would see us learn the lessons of the past two years and prepared for new variants."

Mr Starmer was particularly critical of the government's decision to remove the requirement to self-isolate after testing positive and halting the self-isolation payments.

"These are decisions which will hit the lowest paid and the most insecure workers the hardest," he stated.

The devolved administrations of Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland have set their own COVID-19 restrictions, but are demanding more financial support from the central UK government.

The Secret To Sexy ABS

Wish you had sexy, enviable abs?

While your midsection is one of the most difficult areas of the body to trim and tone, it can be done!

But it's going to take some work.

If your abs are completely hidden under an oversized belly, it takes more than just crunches to reveal toned muscle underneath. To burn off this extra layer of fat, you'll need to increase the intensity and consistency of your workouts and cut the junk out of your diet.

Get 30 to 60 minutes of challenging exercise five days each week. Call Ernest 325-8696 or email me bodyshaperscayman@gmail.com to make your workouts more effective.

In addition to your regular workouts, include an ab workout every other day. What should your ab-centric workout look like?

Check out the exercises below to find what you should add to your ab routine. Choose four to eight of the following exercises and perform 15 to 20 reps of each.

The Bicycle

One of the best ab workouts that also works your obliques (side muscles) and back is the bicycle. Lying on a mat, put your hands behind your head and gently support your head with your fingers. Lift your knees toward your chest and lift your shoulder blades up off the floor. Twist your body toward the right, bringing your right elbow toward your left knee as you extend your right leg out straight. Switch sides by bringing your left elbow toward your right knee and extending your left leg. Continue in this pedaling motion.

The Crunch

A classic exercise known for effectively toning abs, the crunch starts as you lie on your back, bend your knees, and keep your feet flat on the floor. Bend your elbows and cross your arms over your chest. Keeping your lower back on the floor, use your ab muscles to lift your head and shoulders off the floor. Hold for three seconds, lower back to the starting position, and repeat.

Reverse Crunch

Targeting a tough area to tone—your lower abs—the reverse crunch is another great abdominal muscle workout. Lying on a mat, keep your arms at your sides with your palms facing down. Lift your knees up toward your chest until your knees are bent 90 degrees. Using your abs and avoiding a rocking motion, curl your hips and lower back up off the floor, lifting your legs toward the ceiling. Hold for several seconds and then lower your hips down. Repeat.

Trunk Rotation

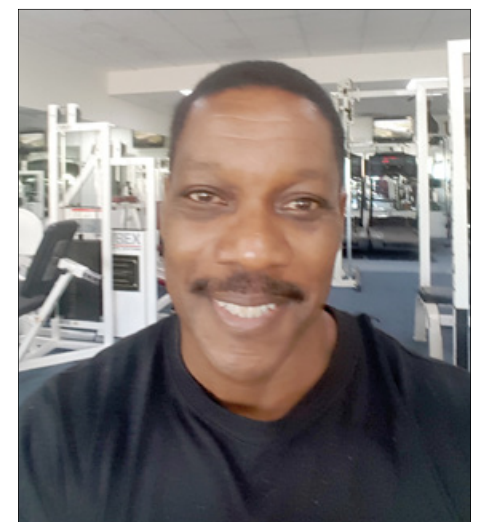

To do a trunk rotation, you'll need a dumbbell or medicine ball. While sitting on the floor, hold the weight near your body, lean back slightly, and bend your knees so your heels touch the floor. Twist your body to the right, hold for a second, twist to the left, and then repeat, twisting to the right next.

Front Plank

Planks work your abs as well as your back. Lying face down on the floor, place your forearms on the floor. Lift your body up on your forearms and toes, keeping your elbows under your shoulders. Using your core muscles, hold yourself up for as long as you can until lowering to the floor. Practice your planks until you can hold yourself up for 60 seconds or longer.

Bird Dog

Another exercise that works both your abs and back is the bird dog. In a kneeling position with your hands and knees on the floor, raise your left leg up behind you until it's parallel to the floor. At the same time, lift your right arm up in front of you until it's parallel to the floor as well. Hold

MOMENTS OF INSPIRATION

THE FRAGRANCE OF JESUS CHRIST- 2 Corinthians: 14- 17

Which of the 5 senses brings back your memories most sharply? For me it is definitely the sense of smell. A certain kind of coffee takes me to Peru. The smell of chicken causes me to remember my childhood days of my mom's curried chicken.

Paul reminded the Corinthians that they were the aroma of Christ. "For we are to God the pleasing aroma of Jesus Christ." In the Romans victory parade everyone knew of the victories because each one had to burn incense on the altars through the cities. The aroma was pleasing to the victors, but for the prisoners it meant slavery or death. When the Gospel of Jesus is preached it is a pleasing fragrance. I am sure many of you have heard the refreshing message that Jesus died for your sins. That aroma pervades your entire life. Have you received Him as your Saviour. Why not today?

Premier's statement on passing of Former Governor Jack

Today our representative to the United Kingdom received the sad news of the passing of Stuart Jack, CVO, who served as our Governor from 2005-2009.

It was during Mr Jack's final year as Governor, that the modernised Constitution was approved by the people of the Cayman Islands in the first ever national referendum.

This achievement, of which he was justly proud, was the culmination of years of effort by the elected Government and civil society- supported by the Office of the Governor.

He was also the first Cayman Islands Governor to break with the established tradition of wearing the Governor's ceremonial white uniform and hat, ushering in the modern era for subsequent Governors.

On behalf of the Government and People of the Cayman Islands, I extend heartfelt sympathies to Mr. Jack's family.

Governor's Statement on the passing of Former Governor Stuart Jack CVO

I was very saddened to hear about the passing of former Governor Stuart Jack CVO who served as the Governor of the Cayman Islands from 2005 until 2009.

It was towards the end of Mr Jack's tenure as Governor, in 2009, that the present Constitution came into effect. Governor Jack said that facilitating the modernised Constitution was the highlight of his four years in the Cayman Islands.

In informing us, Mr Jack's daughter said Mr Jack had developed a deep fondness for the Cayman Islands and the people of Cayman.

On behalf of everyone in the Cayman Islands I send my deepest condolences to Governor Jack's family and friends at this sad time.

CAYMAN BRAC HOSTS FC INTERNATIONAL FOOTBALL CAMP

The highly respected and appreciated FC International Football Camp was held in Cayman Brac on Saturday, December 11, 2021 at the Cayman Brac Sports Complex. The camp continues to attract the largest participants annually of any other camp held in the Sister Islands. This year's camp proved no different as 40 children between the ages of 4-18 years old attended the half-day camp.

"Despite the new norm of living with COVID-19, the camp was still well attended. Although last year's participation total was much higher, we are very grateful to the Sister Islands community for their continued support of our programmes and this camp," said Sports Coordinator, Harold Sanford.

The camp was held from 9:00am to 12:30pm and the children were split into three age-divisions (U-8, U-13, U-18) with two-coaching staff per group. Learning activities included basic fundamental skills in passing, control, dribbling and shooting. From there, the children went on to technical drills that incorporated their learnt skills with a twist of fun. Closing out the physical exercise portion of the camp, each age-division went on to finish the day with some fun and competitive small-sided football games.

Sports programmes in the Sister Islands continue to strive year after year under the leadership of Mr. Sanford. When speaking to Mr. Sanford, he expresses his appreciation and gives recognition to the community coaches' staff that works tirelessly with SASI and Sister Islands Sports Department to build high quality programmes that is open to all persons in the community. His coaching staff at the camp was all certified FIFA Grassroots Coaches and several with a CONCACAF D license. Mr. Sanford holds coaching licenses in football from FIFA, CONCACAF, FA, and Brazil along with a list of other certifications in various sports and a MBA in Business Administration.

At the closing of the camp, the children received words of wisdom and inspiration from Mr. Sanford, FC International President Mr. Kennedy Ebanks and Police Constable Fabian Connor. Mr. Sanford gave high praise to Minister Julianna O'Connor Conolly and MLA Moses Kirkconnell for the development of the Sports Complex and support given to the sports programmes in the Sister Islands. He also thanked FC International for their annual camp in Cayman Brac, District Administration, his dedicated coaching staff, participants for attending, and the PWD for erection of the bleacher tents. Mr. Ralph Williams was also thanked for his kind words and the RCIPS for the great work being done for the three islands. Following the remarks, each child received a free camp T-shirt, a soccer ball and lunch before departing the complex.

Mr. Ebanks is very concerned about the littering on Cayman's streets and request all communities to stop this unhealthy practice as this incurs substantial cost for clean-up after these unjustified acts of littering.
