ONE | GT, the highly anticipated George Town boutique hotel and residences, broke ground on Thursday, June 30 with a celebratory event attended by government leaders and various members of the business, hospitality and real estate brokerage communities and of course its developers. The CI$120 million project brings long-awaited contemporary living to the heart of the Cayman Islands, providing a new and exciting destination for work and life to merge effortlessly, in addition to contributing substantial benefits to the local economy. ONE | GT will provide a significant employment during its construction phase and direct employment of numerous staff in the hotel and residences once operational.

Notable dignitaries in attendance included the Minister for Tourism & Transport Hon. Kenneth Bryan, Parliamentary Secretary Dwayne Seymour representing the Ministry of Agriculture Housing and Infrastructure, Chief Officers Stran Bodden and Eric Bush, Director of Tourism Miss Rosa Harris as well as Jeremy Hurst & Eyal Patel representing the developers of ONE GT.

Conveniently located on Goring Avenue, in the heart of downtown George Town, directly behind Bayshore Mall, the 11-story structure is set to be the tallest building in the capital at 154 feet above sea level, once complete in late 2024. The development features 175 suites and residences offering amazing views and a full range of hotel amenities and entertainment areas including a piazza café, a signature terrace restaurant, two pools, a private gym, valet parking, and Cayman's first luxury rooftop SKY Club.

"We are enormously proud to celebrate this momentous achievement and commemorate the start of construction for ONE | GT," said Jeremy Hurst. "It's an honour and privilege to be delivering this one-of-a-kind product to George Town. Our vision for ONE | GT was to bring something truly unique to the area and in the process to blaze the trail for George Town's revitalisation. We're very grateful to all of the Government officials who have supported the project and shared in our vision for the future of our nation's capital." Jeremy Hurst, Development Partner, IRG.

Colin Lumsden, George Town Manager & Revitalisation Initiative Coordinator commented, "the Ministry of Infrastructure, through its George Town Revitalisation Initiative, congratulates the ONE | GT team on this exciting milestone. We are thrilled about the great potential this innovative, mixed-use development brings for central George Town. Their vision to create a place for both residents and visitors to gather, stay and live, beyond the 9 to 5, supports our goals and we look forward to continuing to work together to enhance and revitalise our capital."

ONE | GT is the second major project for this development team who are currently working on the final stages of completion of Harbour Walk; a modern mix-use residential, retail, and office development project in Grand Harbour. ONE | GT was designed by the internationally renowned architectural firm TRIO Architects who envisioned its striking façade influenced by iconic and innovative destinations around the world, including Miami, LA, Rome and Paris, as well as leveraging the unmatched beauty of the Caribbean.

ONE | GT is exclusively marketed and sold by IRG - International Realty Group. For more information about private showings or purchasing/ leasing information, please contact info@onegt.ky.

► Lots of people came to celebrate the church's 100TH anniversary

► Flowers filled the church like beautiful memories

Elmslie Memorial Church celebrates 100 years

By Christopher Tobutt

It was actually 102 years ago, on July 1 1920, that Rev. Robert C. Young laid the cornerstone to a big new church they had decided to build in memory of Rev. Elmslie who had come to Cayman in the mid 1800s after finding out that there was no organized church there. He rode all over Grand Cayman by horseback, preaching the gospel and planting little churches so the congregation who had been meeting on the same spot decided it was time to make a beautiful church for future generations

It's a very special church and for a long time has been much more than just a Church. Before all the big concrete offices and shopping malls overshadowed it, Elmslie Church was the very heart of George Town. Fragrant flowers filled the church like beautiful memories of all the wonderful people who have made it into a great big family, as the church service began. The bible reading from Mrs. Mary Bowerman was from Joshua Chapter four, and it was all about the Israelites making heap of 12 big stones, taken from the river that God had just dried up to help them pass over.

Minister Rev. Christopher Mason used the bible reading for his message. "The memorial stones were to be a reminder of their own personal experienceverse six tells us the memorial will cause the children to ask, "what do these stones mean to you?" these stones are, first of all to be a reminder to those who are present. It was a reminder for them of their personal experience with God. What they saw, heard and felt. It's a reminder for us to tell our storykeep a clear memory of what God did for you," he said.

Ms. Evelyn Rockett read out a history of the church. "The church was built by Captain Rayall Bodden and many others. We are still collecting the names of all the people who helped build it. All of the blocks that you see in the walls of this building were built by hand, there was no Flowers block back then. It took approximately two years to complete this building, and it went through the 1932 storm, it went through Ivan, and you know how close we are to the sea so it tells you how well built this church is. The pews that you are sitting on are made of mahogany and are 100 years old Do you see what great condition they are in?," she said.

"You might ask, how did they get these funds to build this building? Well, they reached out to Caymanians who were abroad, and collected 800 pounds, and according to a calculator that I was given, that would equate to 38,088 pounds. That's quite a lot of money and most people didn't have much money at that time. This building was important to them. Today it is only fitting that on the anniversary of those stones being laid 102 years ago, that we pay tribute to those who toiled and served in this church. The next thing for us to do is to prepare ourselves to pass the torch on, so we have to make sure not only that the building remains strong, but that our faith and our missionary work continues."

There were many people who have either served in the church, or have close ties to it. Outside Sheila McKenzie was having her photo taken in front of the cornerstone laid by her grandfather, Rev. Robert C young. "This has meant a lot to me because it brings wonderful memories of family," she said.

New eco-friendly spirits system launched

By Lindsey Turnbull

Agua Hospitality Group is bringing a brand-new eco-friendly spirits concept to Cayman, which they are calling a “huge step forward” for the industry.

The group, which began with Agua Restaurant and now the Next Door Cocktail Bar, is opening three additional venues this year, and is led by Agua partners Walter Fayette, Cristiano Vincentini and Wayne Epple. They have partnered with ecoSPIRITS and believe the new system of how spirits are delivered to the customer, negating the need for glass bottles, will make an important contribution to preserving the islands’ precious natural heritage.

The new system, called a closed loop service, is being brought into Cayman by ecoSPIRITS under a Licensed Operator Agreement with Agua Hospitality Group. ecoSPIRITS Cayman Islands marks the arrival of closed loop spirits in ecoSPIRITS’ third island market, following launches earlier this year in Bermuda and the Seychelles. As part of the collaboration, Agua Hospitality Group will begin distribution of a portfolio of craft spirits, starting with True Believers brands. ecoSPIRITS Climate Partner brands Tried & True Vodka, Mackintosh Blended Malt Scotch, Los Arcos Destilado de Agave and Widges Gin will be available in an ecoTOTE format across the island from early July, a brilliant eco-friendly container that means glass bottles are not needed to be transported to the island.

The system comprises of a dedicated production and warehouse facility established by Agua Hospitality Group which hosts and operates ecoPLANT No. 027, the first ecoPLANT in the Caribbean region. This will be the location where each ecoTOTE is filled with the brand name spirits and to which the empty ecoTOTES will then be returned, cleaned, sterilised, and refilled. Bars and restaurants can be supplied with the ecoTOTES, thereby creating an environmentally-friendly alternative to the thousands of glass bottles which end up in the landfill every year.

Like Bermuda and the Seychelles, ecoSPIRITS Cayman Islands will join the ecoSPIRITS Oceans Program, operating a fleet of blue Ocean Conservation edition ecoTOTES and funding one kilogramme of ocean waste recovery for each ecoTOTE delivered to bars, restaurants and hotels in the islands. One of ecoSPIRITS Cayman Islands’ first venue partners will be the Kimpton Seafire Resort + Spa.

Wayne Epple, Group General Manager, Agua Hospitality Group & Managing Director, ecoSPIRITS Cayman Islands, is proud to be on the cutting edge of such important technology.

“Never had I thought there would be an opportunity for the hospitality and spirits industries to become a major sustainability player by reducing carbon emissions and eliminating single use glass – but this is exactly what ecoSPIRITS is doing globally,” he stated. “Here in the Cayman Islands, rising sea levels are impacting mangrove and marine life and single use packaging is contributing to landfill waste that burdens our limited landmass. The ecoSPIRITS closed loop technology provides a unique, sustainable solution by reducing CO2 emissions and landfill – as single use glass bottles don’t even arrive onshore. This is a huge step forward, something we are extremely proud to be a part of.”

" LET SCOTT PAVE THE WAY. "

Regiment Successfully Concludes Training Exercise and Beach Clean up

► Minister for Home Affairs Hon. Min. Sabrina Turner and Acting Deputy Chief Officer Lisa Malice met with Commanding Officer, Lieutenan

The Cayman Islands Regiment (CIR) concluded a nine-day “enduring response” deployment exercise as the culmination of a series of training exercises aimed to facilitate any future deployment to provide national emergency support.

The exercise was designed to train, prepare and test CIR personnel to endure outdoor living conditions with minimal shelter, power, air conditioning and other essentials and to respond to an emergency or national disaster, in which there might be difficulty with transportation and shelter.

Throughout the training exercise, operating bases were established at the Ed Bush Stadium in West Bay and Barefoot Beach in East End.

Commenting on the training exercises, CIR Captain Gabe Rabess explained “CIR personnel received training on preparing personal shelter, how to cook meals using ration packs, and clearing the camp area after setup to ensure limited exposure and risks to the environment from hazards such as fires. They also received training on personal hygiene, hand signals, and casualty evacuation simulations.”

“There was torrential rain for the first two to three days at our West Bay deployment base, so conditions were great for training in heavy rain and tropical storm weather like conditions,” noted CIR Commanding Officer, Lieutenant Colonel Simon Watson.

In addition to self-sufficiency training, CIR personnel also underwent a 24-hour exercise at Barefoot Beach.

“We dropped off our personnel in North Side, five kilometres away from Barefoot Beach, they then carried out a loaded march with 55lb of kit with all the key necessities they would need. This included a sleeping system, water and food and all the tools, clothing and equipment necessary to survive for 24 – 48hrs. This was done to test personnel on self-sufficiency and endurance in all-weather system scenarios to determine speed, efficiency and resiliency, to provide aid if needed in an emergency. Though it was tough they successfully completed the exercise with 55 pounds in just over 50 mins”, explained Lieutenant Colonel Watson.

As a uniformed service, the ethos of the CIR is building on the Cayman Islands’ resilience to provide a national reserve service and support to all three islands. As such all CIR training is undertaken in collaboration and partnership with other emergency services, such as Hazard Management (HMCI) and Emergency Medical Services (EMS), Royal Cayman Islands Police Service (RCIPS), Cayman Islands Coast Guard (CICG) and Cayman Islands Fire Service (CIFS). This ensures personnel are trained to provide resilience and support in any national emergency such as an earthquake, pandemic, tropical storm, hurricane or major fire.

“The training exercise was an opportunity to instil teamwork and partnership amongst our personnel building on team strength in the outdoors under difficult conditions. CIR also wanted to take this opportunity to provide an environmental service to our community as it was important for us to leave any training area or environment in a better condition. As such we reached out to Plastic Free Cayman, a fantastic local environmental organization doing great work on our beaches, to collaborate with us on a beach clean-up. Sixty members of the regiment along with Plastic Free Cayman came together to clear debris, litter and plastics previously along Barefoot Beach,” commented Lieutenant Colonel Watson.

Claire Hughes, head of Plastic Free Cayman, noted “We joined the Regiment on their beach clean-up today because it’s vital to get plastic off our beaches. By doing so we prevent it from breaking up into smaller microplastics which are detrimental to our environment. We found a lot of bottle caps, micro plastics, bottles and straws, fishing line, plastic toothbrushes washed up making up over 600lbs. In addition, a massive metal structure from a dock or part of boat, possibly from Hurricane Ivan was removed from beach.”

Commenting on the annual training and the Ministry’s overall development plans for the CI Regiment, Minister for Home Affairs Hon. Min. Sabrina Turner noted, “as part of my Ministry introductory meeting I met with Lieutenant Colonel Watson and his team to discuss plans and development of the Regiment, as well as planning for this training exercise.”

“Over the weekend, I spent some time with the CIR personnel who were deployed in the training exercise. As they were preparing for the 5km and air simulation exercises, I was able to see how they were doing and what this experience has been like for them. Most importantly, I was able to thank them for their dedication and willingness to support our uniformed service infrastructure in the event of a national emergency, while also supporting the Cayman Islands Government’s vision for sustainability and developing on our national reservists in service,” Minister Turner continued.

School's out, Summer Camps are in!

School's out and parents are looking for interesting activities and childcare during the summer vacation. Thankfully, there are exciting camps that offer a wide variety of choices for a fun time. Attending summer camp can also teach kids important life lessons. Summer camps include academics for those kids that need some extra help with Reading and or Math; performing arts for those aspiring singers, dancers and actors; swimming, football or netball and mixed camps that combine Arts and Craft with other activities. The Department of Sports is offering nine free camps with a variety of sports.

Remember to ask if the camp price includes the provision of snacks and lunch, and if early drop off times and late pickup are available. Some camps offer discounts for multiple siblings, scholarships and other financial assistance.

There are important factors to keep in mind when choosing a summer camp.

You want to make sure that your child is adequately supervised so ask about the staff to child ratio. Does your child have allergies or other medical needs? If so, be sure to disclose this and enquire about medical services available.

Check out the list of some summer camps below. Churches, schools, sport clubs and other organizations are having camps as well so get in touch with them.

Whatever you decide, we hope that the kids have a wonderful, fun filled and safe summer!

MAGICAL AND WELL REPRESENTED

► Cayman Music School Soroya Moore

► Cayman Music School Colinda McGarvey Sterling

The Williams Family Quartet performed two brilliantly harmonized songs.

The major dance companies, such as Centre Pointe Dance Studio, Radiance Dance Studio, Dreamchasers Cayman, Cayman Islands National Dance Company, and the UCCI Dancers, were well represented. Their presentations were energetic and well-choreographed.

The UCCI Dancers presented Lament, the sole dance drama on the program. This dance challenged the dancers technically and dramatically. The thunderous applause from the audience made it clear that Lament was the most popular dance of the night. Lament featured Joshua McLean, one of Cayman's best male dancers, along with ten UCCI dancers.

Cayman swimmers headed to Barbados to compete in CCCAN

The Cayman Islands Aquatic Sports Association (CIASA) announced the 14-member strong swim team selected to represent the Cayman Islands at the Central American and Caribbean Amateur Swimming Confederation (CCCAN) Swimming & Open Water Championships taking place in Barbados 10-18 July.

The team, captained by Sabine Ellison and Corey Frederick-Westerborg includes a number of familiar faces: Sofia Bonati, Sierrah Broadbelt, Raya Embury-Brown, Lola Haworth, Luke Higgs, Dominic Hilton, Jasmine Lambert-Wragg, Connor MacDonal, Tate Marr, Teagan Nash, Danny Kish, Will Sellars and Kaitlyn Sullivan. Accompanying the team is Technical Director Jacky Pellerin and Coach Bryce Thompson, team manager is Alicia Proud.

"After two years of limited competition and racing because of COVID-19, our swimmers have a number of awesome opportunities this summer," said CIASA President Steve Broadbelt. He continued, "CCCAN does not have the age group limits that CARIFTA does so our swimmers will find themselves facing some older, more experienced swimmers at CCCAN – which will be great for their continued development. CCCAN is a long course – 50m – meet which Cayman will be able to host when our new 50m pool facility is completed."

This meet comes after Cayman's record-breaking medal haul at CARIFTA earlier this year, a successful FINA World Championships in Budapest which saw Jordan Crooks and Jillian Crooks swimming PBs and Jillian achieving a new National and CIASA record in the 100m freestyle (57.24), participation in the first Caribbean Games in Guadalupe by James Allison, Harper Barrowman, Alison Jackson, Kyra Rabess and Corey Frederick-Westerborg which saw Rabess racing to silver in the 800m and Frederick-Westerborg, Allison, Rabess and Jackson winning gold in the 4x100m mixed relay and the upcoming 2022 Commonwealth Games in Birmingham, England.

R3 and HSA partnership expands telemedicine to Little Cayman

► A physician in Grand Cayman helps a nurse assess a patient in Little Cayman.

By HSA Communications Department

To expand its scope of telehealth services, the Cayman Islands Health Services Authority (HSA) collaborated with the R3 Cayman Foundation to offer remote medical consultations to people in Little Cayman.

With its HD Zoom Camera, enhanced audio system, and articulating head, the high-end Intouch Teladoc robot will give patients and staff of the Little Cayman Clinic the experience and familiarity of a face-to-face encounter with the HSA's remote physicians during initial exams, treatments and in post-procedural follow-ups.

Through the interactive device patients will be able to have more convenient and increased access to their physicians and allied health practitioners at the Faith Hospital and the Cayman Islands Hospital. It would also reduce the time and costs associated with patients having to travel to Cayman Brac and Grand Cayman for elective and emergency consultations.

"This partnership has marked an important milestone in healthcare delivery to Little Cayman community," said Director of Sister Islands Health Services Dr. Srirangan Velusamy. "Virtual consultations through the telemedicine robot would give the residents and visitors of the island much needed access to our specialist physicians. This advanced technology will be of immense value to the HSA, especially during medical emergencies since our physicians could virtually be there to assist our resident nurses to examine and manage our patients."

The telemedicine service is available at the Little Cayman Clinic starting from Friday, 1 July 2022. The frequency of Faith Hospital physicians' visits to the clinic will remain the same (every Wednesday).

"We believe that healthcare should be easily accessible to everyone in this country, regardless of which district or island you are from. We are delighted to partner with R3 on bringing these telehealth capabilities to the Little Cayman community and are grateful for all their generous support in our mission to make high quality healthcare services accessible to the people of the Cayman Islands," noted HSA Chief Executive Officer Lizzette Yearwood. "The addition of our new telemedicine robot, along with the islands' first purpose-built ambulance and the two registered nurses stationed at the clinic, have substantially enhanced healthcare in Little Cayman. We look forward to continuing to integrate innovative solutions and services that will improve the health of the communities we serve."

"R3 Cayman Foundation is delighted to fund this project through its Readiness Committee," stated R3 Cayman Foundation Recovery Committee Chair Carla Reid. "Telemedicine for the Sister Islands was on the list of priorities for Readiness as we wanted to ensure that Little Cayman was better equipped for medical emergencies, such as in the event of a hurricane or other natural disaster. We are especially pleased to have received a donation from Little Cayman residents Peter and Pia Hall for the purchase of this equipment. The matching funds from the Kenneth B Dart Foundation will assist R3 to fund other grants made through its Readiness, Relief and Recovery Committees."

DRAMA IN WESTMINSTER AS BORIS JOHNSON IN POLITICAL CARNAGE

British Prime Minister Boris Johnson was fighting for his political survival on Wednesday after his government was rocked by a series of resignations mainly over questions of the prime minister's personal integrity.

A series of scandals, the most recent being Mr Johnson's appointment of a senior party official with a record of previous sexual misconduct who is again accused of such behaviour, have brought the prime minister's judgement into question.

His government, which has previously been hit by resignations over issues surrounding Mr Johnson's conduct as well as policy decisions, suffered a severe blow when two of his top cabinet ministers quit in quick succession on Tuesday.

The resignations of the Chancellor of the Exchequer (Finance Minister) Rishi Sunak and the Minister of Health Sajid Javid set off a flood of resignations which had reached 38 by Wednesday evening UK time.

A tumultuous sitting of the UK Parliament, the House of Commons, for the weekly Prime Ministers Questions on Wednesday saw Mr Johnson adamantly declaring that he will not resign despite a growing crescendo of calls from within his own ruling Conservative Party, the opposition Labour Party and others for him to quit.

A defiant Boris Johnson maintains that a leadership contest now to replace him would prevent the economic growth needed in the country.

Later on Wednesday afternoon before a House of Commons parliamentary committee the beleaguered prime minister was grilled by MPs of all parties over his policies, and issues of his personal integrity.

He was later in a meeting with members of his cabinet, most of whom including his loyalists it was reported had appealed to him to step down. Those pleas were rejected by Mr Johnson who vowed to fight on.

It was speculated that more resignations were forthcoming over Mr Johnson's refusal to quit.

The prime minister has been beset by a long-running series of questions mainly over his personal integrity and conduct in public office.

He has been battling the so-called Partygate scandal for which after denying that there were any illegal parties at his Number 10 Downing Street office during the lockdown, was forced into an embarrassing u-turn after an independent investigation uncovered evidence including Mr Johnson's presence at some of the events.

He had claimed he thought they were work meetings and not parties but was fined for breaking the very law which he had put in place.

Mr Johnson who remains very popular among a core group of supporters for what some have described as his maverick approach to politics, said recently in an interview that he is not going to undergo 'psychological transformation'.

In 2019 he led the Conservative party to its biggest political victory since Margaret Thatcher on a ticket of 'getting Brexit done' - the campaign that resulted in the UK leaving the European Union.

But since then, making Brexit work has been a major change for Mr Johnson in and has seen a spate of resignations over that and losses the party has sufferred under Mr Johnson in a number of by-elections.

This latest crisis is the most serious facing the under-pressure prime minister.

With discontent mounting within the Conservative party over his leadership,

Mr Johnson who survived a vote of confidence in June was expected to face another one possibly as early as next week as MPs of the Conservative Party were set to change the rules which currently limit no-confidence votes to one per year.

The drama in Westminster continues.

Secret to a Supercharged Metabolism

Protein is the secret to a supercharged metabolism because protein FEEDS lean muscle.

Lean muscle is responsible for a strong sexy posture and lean muscle burns 3 times as many calories at rest as fat does.

This means that the more lean muscle you have the more calories you burn...

If you want to get or stay lean you MUST make protein a priority. Here are 3 ways to supercharge your metabolism:

1. Set a protein GOAL

To keep things very simple you should be aiming for just under 1 gram of protein per pound of desired bodyweight. So, for example if you currently weigh 150 pounds but your goal weight is 130 pounds -- you should be aiming to hit about 120 grams of protein per day.

When deciding where to use your calories in a day make sure you always prioritize protein these means every single meal should include a high-quality lean protein -- pick your protein first then look at your remaining calories for fat and carbohydrates.

2. Two Shakes a Day

One of the best ways to prioritize protein is to get in the habit of drinking two protein shakes a day. One scoop of high-quality protein powder has around 25grams of protein that feeds lean muscle!

3. Cook with it

Now if you follow step one you know that every meal should have protein as the priority... but there is one thing you may not have thought of.

Make your desserts protein rich! A good nutrition program plans for sweets and this is no different!

Don't forget that a challenging and consistent exercise plan is half of the equation when it comes to losing weight, getting fit and feeling great! That's where I come in...

I would love to be your fitness coach. Together we will get you to your goals with my results-driven method.

Cayman-Based Baptist Seminary Accepting Applications for New School Year

The Northwestern Caribbean Baptist Theological Seminary (NCBTS) – based in Grand Cayman – is now accepting applications for the new school year, which is set to begin the first week of September.

The seminary will begin by offering two classes – Introduction to the Old Testament and Hermeneutics – both bachelor level courses that provide credit toward a twelve-course Certificate in Christian Ministry through NCBTS’ partnership with William Carey University (WCU) in Hattiesburg, Mississippi. Students may also apply the credits toward a bachelor’s degree at WCU. The classes will be offered both on the campus of the local host church, the Cayman Islands Baptist Church in Savannah, and through an online learning platform.

NCBTS is a Limited Liability Company (LLC) and Non-Profit Organisation which is registered with the Ministry of Education as “an educational institution providing post-compulsory education certificate programmes in Christian Ministry and Church Ministry Leadership”. The institution is also pursuing regional accreditation through the University Council of Jamaica. A first cohort of students, representing five Caribbean countries (Trinidad & Tobago, Guyana, St. Vincent & The Grenadines, Grenada, and Barbados) completed a Certificate of Church Ministry Leadership (not-for-credit) and graduated in January 2022.

“We are excited to launch our first classes this fall in the post-pandemic world and believe this is an amazing opportunity for persons interested in theological training for vocational or lay Christian ministry to easily pursue a degree programme that is accessible (online), affordable, and applicable to life in the Caribbean today,” said Pastor Randy Von Kanel, President of NCBTS.

Scholarship support for the semester may be available along with significant discounts for those persons who apply before 15 August. Von Kanel explained that prospective students can also audit the classes, which would allow them to participate without seeking a grade or credit for the course.
