Jarvis finishes ahead of pros

Teenage sensation Aaron Jarvis finished a remarkable joint-76th at the 150th Open on Sunday. It was a sensational feat by the 19-year-old golf prodigy who made history for the Cayman Islands on Friday by making the cut at The Old Course, St Andrews in Scotland.

Jarvis is the first golfer from the Cayman Islands to compete in The Open having qualified following a memorable triumph in the 2022 Latin America Amateur Championship at Casa de Campo. He also competed at the Augusta Masters in May.

Following a challenging first round, Jarvis, playing alongside Major winners

Radar service restored; further repairs planned

The Cayman Islands National Weather Service (CINWS) confirms the Kearney Gomez Doppler Radar has been restored to full working order following repairs conducted by a visiting expert from LEONARDO Germany.

Ministry of Sustainability & Climate Resiliency Chief Officer Jennifer Ahearn says she is pleased the public can once again access live radar images on weather.gov.ky.

"I want to thank the Cayman Islands public for your continued patience as the Weather Service has worked to restore radar service," Mrs. Ahearn said. "I know it will be a relief to many in our community that they can once again view real-time radar images online. Throughout this process, our meteorologists have continued to provide forecasts for the Cayman Islands and I am pleased they will once again be able to use the radar in support of these efforts."

CINWS Director General John Tibbetts says the expert technician from LEONARDO Germany was on-island for approximately a week to complete the necessary repairs.

"LEONARDO is the only company in the world that can provide the services and expertise necessary to restore our radar service and I'm pleased to report we were able to facilitate this visit and get the radar back up and running," he said, noting that additional work to repair the leaking dome and install a dehumidifier are planned for August 2022.

"Our work is not over and we are continuing our efforts to ensure the dome is sealed and a dehumidifier installed, ahead of what is typically the busiest portion of Atlantic hurricane season for the Cayman Islands," Mr. Tibbetts said.

Online radar imaging was briefly available on the evening of Wednesday, 13 July, to facilitate testing, and is expected to be restored fully to the Weather Service website on the evening of Thursday, 14 July.

Mrs. Ahearn said the Government will continue to keep the community informed of progress to repair the dome and install the dehumidifier.

"We recognise the significant public interest in the status of the weather radar service and will continue to provide updates on the status of the dome repairs and dehumidifier installation over the coming weeks," she said.

For more updates, the public is encouraged to visit <https://weather.gov.ky/> or contact the Weather Service at met.office@gov.ky.

COVID-19 - Epidemiological Week 27

3 - 9 July 2022 (Data as of 09-07-2022)

► Genomic sequencing of positive SARS-CoV2 isolates (N=47) from the end of June 2022.

The Public Health department has published its weekly Public Health Spotlight on Communicable and Non-Communicable Diseases today Thursday 14 July 2022.

International Situation

COVID-19 reported cases continue to increase globally, with a decrease reported in deaths internationally by 12%.

Cayman Islands Local Trends

Key epidemiological metrics have increased over the past week. There has been a 13% increase in the number of new cases from 347 to 424, and the case rate has increased to 611 cases per 100,000 population from 539 cases per 100,000. Following the change in COVID-19 regulations, there has been a notable drop in testing which has decreased by 36%, from 1,360 tests conducted in Epi Week 26 to 876 tests conducted in Epi Week 27. The combination of an increase in cases and decrease in testing has resulted in an increase in the test positivity from 28% to 48%. The microbiology lab has provided genomic sequencing results for a sample of 47 positive isolates giving insight into the sub-lineage information for the Omicron variant circulating in Cayman Islands. The sub-lineage BA.5 has been detected for the first time, which has been reported by the UK to be driving the recent wave of infections. The sub-lineage BE.1 has also been detected, which was first detected in March 2022 in Germany and has since been identified in 47 countries worldwide. We anticipate there is shift occurring from the BA.2 to the BA.5 Omicron sub-lineage in Cayman.

who received a COVID-19 vaccine (20 first dose and 31 second dose).

Key Message

There is clear evidence of a reduction in testing since the recent change in COVID-19 regulations, however cases are increasing. It is really important that symptomatic individuals get a PCR test to understand the spread of COVID-19 in the community. Furthermore, the genomic sequencing enables insight into what variants are circulating, and the presence of BA.5 Omicron sub-lineage and the novel BE.1 variant support our understanding of a shift away from the dominant BA.2 Omicron sub-lineage. In the UK BA.5 has been associated with an increase in COVID-19 incidence, however the impact on vaccine effectiveness is not yet known.

Hospital Admissions

Two new hospital admissions were registered during Epi Week 27, a decrease from six in the previous week. Of the two new admissions, both were admitted due to COVID-19 morbidity. A total of 6 patients required inpatient treatment, which decreased from 14 patients in the previous week.

Vaccination

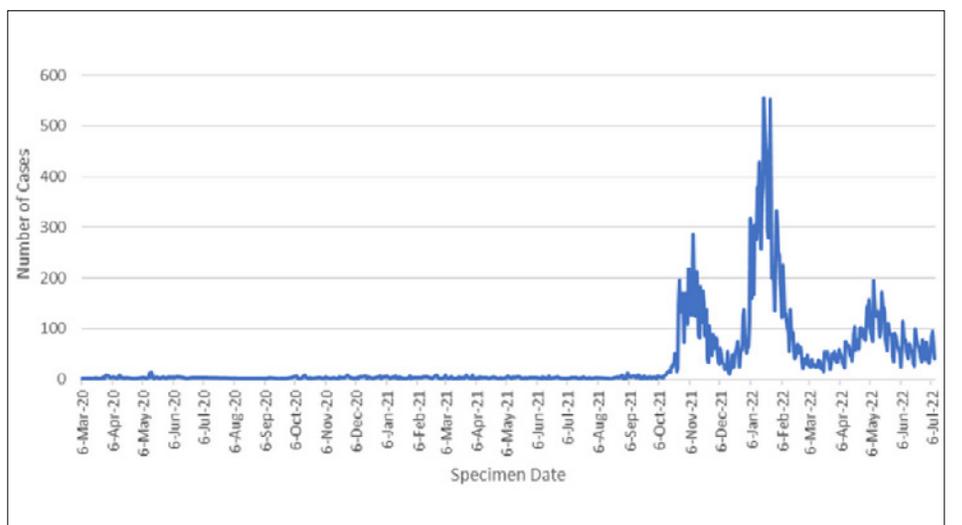

During Epi. Week 27, there were 51 adults

Monkeypox

Overview

There have been over 6,000 laboratory confirmed monkeypox cases reported to WHO since the beginning of 2022. This has included 59 countries over five WHO Regions and there has been a 77% increase in cases reported compared to two weeks ago. In addition, three deaths have been reported. Of cases reported to date, 82% have occurred in the European Region. To date, ten countries have reported a halt in transmission with no new cases reported over the past 21 days which is the maximum incubation period for monkeypox.

Harmful use of alcohol

High alcohol consumption has many health implications, as well as wider social and economic consequences. Globally 3 million people die each year as a result of harmful alcohol use, and drinking is linked with 27% of traffic injuries and 18% of suicides worldwide {WHO report, 2018}.

Alongside the risk of developing alcohol dependence, drinking alcohol is also associated with health issues such as liver cirrhosis, cancer and cardiovascular disease. Among pregnant women, alcohol consumption can lead to fetal alcohol syndrome (FAS) and pre-term birth complications.

The STEP's survey conducted in Cayman Islands in 2012 indicated that 52% of the population reported current alcohol use {drank alcohol in the past 30 days), and daily drinking of alcohol was low at 3.8% of the population. However, a larger proportion of men than women {25% compared to 14%} reported heavy episodic drinking/binge drinking.

Three new Dart Scholars announced for 2022

Dart has announced three new Dart Scholars for 2022. Adrian Philips Hernáez will receive the William A. Dart Memorial Scholarship to study Mechanical Engineering at Imperial College in London. Two high school scholarships are awarded to Jake Fagan from Cayman Prep & High School and Sirichandana Batta from Layman Scott High School in Cayman Brac.

Now in its eleventh year, the Dart Scholar programme offers scholarships to Caymanian students who excel academically, demonstrate strong leadership qualities and make a positive contribution in the community. Dart's four-year high school scholarship focuses on the STEM subjects of science, technology, engineering and mathematics.

Dart CEO Mark VanDevelde said, "Our Dart Scholars are a group of exceptional young men and women who fill me with confidence for the future. Driven by intellectual curiosity and a desire to help solve the world's problems, empowered by critical thinking and problem-solving skills learned through the study of STEM, they have the ability to make a difference. I am impressed by the positive impact our three new Dart Scholars have already made in our community, and look forward to seeing them grow in the years ahead."

In addition to financial support, Dart Scholars receive mentoring and work experience opportunities at Dart and high school Dart Scholars are invited on an annual enrichment trip, travel permitting. Applicants are required to complete a blind-selection process that includes a written test and several rounds of interviews with the selection panel and senior leadership at Dart.

Adrien Philips Hernáez

Adrien graduated Cayman Prep & High School this month with top awards for Chemistry, Further Maths and Overall Academic Achievement. He will start his undergraduate degree in Mechanical Engineering at Imperial in September as the foundation for a career as a robotic engineer. During high school, Adrien took every opportunity to participate in robotics programmes, from early LEGO competitions to representing his school at FIRST Tech challenge. He was selected as a member of the Cayman National Robotics Team two years running, competing in the FIRST Global challenges in Mexico and Dubai. He now mentors younger children at robotics camps and tutors GCSE students in chemistry.

Jake Fagan

Jake is a talented mathematician who has won the Junior Minds Inspired Maths

Challenge for the past two years. Starting his GCSEs next term, Jake will focus on STEM subjects with the goal of studying engineering or neuroscience at a top tier university. Outside the classroom, Jake is a keen swimmer and kite surfer – two sports he put to use when fundraising for local charities. During lockdown, Jake and friends kite surfed the length of Grand Cayman raising $55,000 for Cayman ARK's soup kitchens. Last year, he became the youngest swimmer to cross the channel between Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Sirichandana Batta

Known as Siri, Sirichandana is a straight A student at Layman Scott High School. Inspired by her mother, Siri's goal is to become a physician and help others through her knowledge of science and technology. Her community involvement started at a young age having joined the Girl Scouts when she was nine and she is currently Secretary of the Leos Club at Cayman Brac. As president of her school debate club, Siri enjoys public speaking and advocating for causes that support the betterment of society.

With more than 30 applications received in the high school category this year, Dart also recognised the three candidates who successfully made it to the final round of interview. Matthew Huys (Clever Fish), Nathaniel Shaughness (Cayman International School) and Caitlyn Darby (Cayman Prep & High School) each received an award presented by Dart executives.

Since launching its scholarship programme in 2012, Dart has awarded a total of 22 high school scholarships and 27 university scholarships to some of the world's top academic establishments. 85% of Dart Scholars move on from undergraduate study to complete a masters or PhD.

Each year, Dart awards scholarships to noteworthy high school and university students - providing them with financial assistance, mentorship opportunities, educational enrichment and meaningful work experience.

The foundation of Dart's education programmes is the Dart family's philosophy of promoting education and fostering academic excellence in the STEM subjects – science, technology, engineering and mathematics. Dart believes that STEM subjects are the fundamental building blocks for both academic and career success.

For more information on Dart Scholar visit dartscholar.ky.

High School Scholarship

Since 2012, Dart has awarded two four-year high school scholarships annually based on academic excellence with a clear focus on science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM). A vigorous evaluation process – initial review of application and documentation, mathematics test and written essay, and a face-to-face interview - identifies the successful applicants. In accordance with Dart's culture of meritocracy, applications are evaluated using a completely blind selection process.

University Scholarship

The William A. Dart Memorial Scholarship was established in 2013 in memory of Ken Dart's late father who founded the Dart Corporation. It is awarded annually to a student pursuing a bachelor's degree at an accredited overseas institution and renews annually for up to four years, subject to academic performance.

Both scholarships include bespoke mentoring and enrichment opportunities, designed to further encourage, support and inspire students to achieve their full potential.

CG BritCay kicks off Summer Internship Programme

Four students recently started their summer internships with CG BritCay to learn professional skills, gain industry knowledge and explore future career possibilities.

They are part of the Coralisle Group (CG) Summer Internship Programme, which is designed to expose the students to the ins and outs of the insurance business and attaches them to departments that align with their academic and career interests. Their activities will include a 10-week group project, team-building exercises, and community service days.

They will also attend various information sessions with CG managers on subjects such as cyber security, regulatory compliance, legal affairs, investing and managing personal finances, environmental social governance, as well as personal career and brand development.

In addition, each student will have a dedicated mentor to provide guidance and support throughout the programme, along with advice and direction on resume writing, interview skills and networking opportunities.

The students who have secured internships with CG BritCay are Emily Bodden, Jacey Dyer, Genelle General, and Janani Kumar. The CG Summer Internship Programme operates in two other CG jurisdictions, Bermuda and The Bahamas, where ten more students have been selected for the programme.

Naz Farrow, CG's Chief Executive Officer, said the internships provide special opportunities for professional growth and development, helping interns explore company career possibilities close to home while earning a paycheque.

"It's a programme that empowers the students by providing insights into the insurance industry, revealing career paths within it and, above all, encouraging them through the collegial spirit and support of the CG professionals working with them.

For us as a company, the internships are an expression of our people-first approach to business. They are a way to invest in the future by tapping into the strength and promise of our local young people, and deepening our connections in the communities in which we operate."

Following an application assessment and an interview process involving dozens of candidates, the interns were selected based on their school course work, degree ambitions, academic and extracurricular achievements, and desired career path. CG departments welcoming interns are Property & Casualty, Medical, Pensions, Health & Life, Compliance, Finance, Marketing and Legal.

The CG Summer Internship Programme runs from June 6 to August 5 in Bermuda, June 7 to August 5 in The Bahamas and June 27 to August 12 in Cayman.

Grant Thornton Cayman Islands launches a new summer four-day working week policy for all employees.

During the months of July and August, professionals have the option to take the Friday of their working week off as part of the firm's mission to ensure wellness and work-life balance are maintained among its people. Grant Thornton believes this initiative will better-support happy professionals who continue to meet the ever-evolving needs of their clients.

"I am very excited to see the new summer four-day working week policy come to life," says Adrianna Christian, Senior HR Manager of Grant Thornton Cayman Islands. "It will allow for additional time to pursue a passion, spend more time with loved ones, travel, or simply relax. Our people have worked extremely hard over the past few months and truly deserve the time to take a step back and improve their work-life balance, which will naturally lead to an improvement in wellbeing."

As they continue to strive to be the firm people want to work with, Grant Thornton is excited to see how their employees respond to this new policy.

"We are delighted to give colleagues more time for what matters most this summer," says Dara Keogh, Managing Partner of Grant Thornton Cayman Islands. "Both the physical and mental health of our people is of integral importance to the firm. Our people make us different and it's the individuality and diversity of our team that strengthens us."

Cayman swimmers headed to Barbados to compete in CCCAN

The Cayman Islands Aquatic Sports Association (CIASA) announced the 14-member strong swim team selected to represent the Cayman Islands at the Central American and Caribbean Amateur Swimming Confederation (CCCAN) Swimming & Open Water Championships taking place in Barbados 10-18 July.

The team, captained by Sabine Ellison and Corey Frederick-Westerborg includes a number of familiar faces: Sofia Bonati, Sierrah Broadbelt, Raya Embury-Brown, Lola Haworth, Luke Higgo, Dominic Hilton, Jasmine Lambert-Wragg, Connor MacDonald, Tate Marr, Teagan Nash, Danny Kish, Will Sellars and Kaitlyn Sullivan. Accompanying the team is Technical Director Jacky Pellerin and Coach Bryce Thompson, team manager is Alicia Proud.

"After two years of limited competition and racing because of COVID-19, our swimmers have a number of awesome opportunities this summer," said CIASA President Steve Broadbelt. He continued, "CCCAN does not have the age group limits that CARIFTA does so our swimmers will find themselves facing some older, more experienced swimmers at CCCAN - which will be great for their continued development. CCCAN is a long course - 50m - meet which Cayman will be able to host when our new 50m pool facility is completed."

This meet comes after Cayman's record-breaking medal haul at CARIFTA earlier this year, a successful FINA World Championships in Budapest which saw Jordan Crooks and Jillian Crooks swimming PBs and Jillian

Sergio Garcia and Stewart Cink, carded a brilliant three under par second round to make the cut and sit on even par for the Championship. One of only four amateur golfers to make the cut this year, Jarvis won the Bronze Medal for his brilliance.

Kenneth Bryan, Minister for Tourism and Transport said: "On behalf of the Ministry of Tourism and the Cayman Islands, I extend my congratulations to Aaron Jarvis on this history-making achievement.

"Jarvis is an inspiring example of how passion, hard work, and dedication can lead to overcoming challenges - such as the Cayman Islands only having one public golf course - to reach great heights. He was a wonderful ambassador for the Cayman Islands, playing at the Home of Golf."

Jarvis carded a respectable one over par 289 to finish ahead of champions pros Tiger Woods and Phil Mickleson, both of whom didn't even make the cut. The Caymanian showed maturity beyond his years and if he does turn pro looks capable of one day being a champ.

Jarvis recently finished his freshman year at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV). He was inspired to play golf after watching older brother, Andrew, play in the Caribbean Amateur Junior Golf Championships when it was held in Cayman in 2013. After developing a passion for the sport, he moved to Florida for high school to train at the Leadbetter Junior Golf Academy.

The Cayman Islands remains his family home and he still practises on the local North Sound Golf Club course when on-island. Many in the Cayman Islands supported Jarvis, sending their support for his Open debut.

Minister Bryan apologises for video

Having been accused by the Opposition of breaching Ministerial Code of Conduct for endorsing his wife's real estate business, Tourism and Transport Minister Kenneth Bryan has apologised unreservedly for his action.

Minister Bryan was accused of endorsing his wife's business, from which he could personally benefit, via an online video, which saw him actively encouraging residents of Tropical Gardens to use his wife's real estate business. The Minister was even seen handing out leaflets on the business, acts that Opposition Leader Roy McTaggart said were a flagrant breach of the principles of good governance.

Mr McTaggart said that the Minister really ought to have known better, stating he should not use his position to benefit a family member or himself financially. Minister Bryan could have had constituents in a similar line of business and his endorsement could unfairly impact their business, Mr McTaggart explained.

In particular, Mr McTaggart worried about the breach of section 19 of the Ministerial Code of Conduct, which states that a minister should not endorse commercial products or services in any media.

As a result of being reminded of his duty as a Minister to abide by the Ministerial Code of Conduct,

Minister Bryan issued a statement saying:

"In relation to the video, I got this wrong and apologise unreservedly to my constituents, the people of the Cayman Islands, the Governor, the Premier and my other colleagues in the PACT Administration."

He went on to say that he fully supported the Code of Conduct and the principles of good governance it was designed to enhance.

"Going forward, I will redouble my efforts to ensure that my actions are in keeping with the highest ethical standards of the office I am humbled to hold on behalf of the people of the Cayman Islands," the Minister concluded.

Elections Supervisor Observes Jersey Vote

► Group Photo with vests

► Observers on Election Day

Elections Supervisor Wesley Howell recently took part in an international Election Observation Mission to the States of Jersey.

Mr. Howell formed part of a nine-member independent observer mission that included representatives from Kenya, France and the Isle of Man. Organised by the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association British Islands and Mediterranean Region Secretariat, the mission was headed by Martin Whitfield MSP, a Member of the Scottish Parliament.

Throughout the elections process, members of the mission met with stakeholders including officials, candidates and members of the public. Areas of the process under scrutiny included:

- political campaigning,
- electoral administration,
- voter registration and accessibility,

polling (including postal and early ballots),

- counting and tabulation,
- post-election complaints and appeals.

Commenting on the experience Supervisor Howell said: "I am very pleased to have been invited to serve as an observer. It has enhanced my knowledge of the democratic processes, election legislation, policies, and practices in other countries. I see definite benefits to elections officials serving on these missions".

For more information about the Cayman Islands Elections Office, visit www.elections.ky.

Note to Editors: The initial findings report by the Election Observation Mission to the States of Jersey is available here <https://www.uk-cpa.org/media/4750/jersey-preliminary-statement.pdf>.

Government Launches Nationwide Cost of Living Support Campaign

Cognisant of the worry surrounding escalating costs of living locally and globally, the Cayman Islands Government has launched a national campaign to raise awareness of the support available to the community.

To re-emphasise their commitment to supporting incomes and containing costs due to soaring inflation and other external factors, Government will draw awareness towards current and future substantive actions that will benefit the most vulnerable in our society. This comprises lower- and middle-class families, senior citizens, post-secondary students, and others who have been significantly impacted by the cost of living crises.

The Hon. Premier Wayne Panton and his fellow elected colleagues have introduced more than 24 different initiatives to assist those currently withstanding the worst of the crises. Some of the cross-ministerial initiatives include but are not limited to:

- continuing the Displaced Tourism Worker Stipend;
- reducing service fees for seniors;
- the electricity relief assistance package to provide a fuel cost credit for all residential customers with monthly consumption between 101 – 2,000 kWh;

- increasing funding of scholarships for advanced, specialised tertiary education;
- the extension of the pension holiday

"The entire world is experiencing an exponential rise in cost of living expenses; we are undoubtedly going through one of the most challenging times in recent history and we as a government, but also each of us in the community, must prepare for an eventual worsening. Although global inflation was already on the rise before the COVID-19 pandemic hit, it has become more of an issue in the past year," said Premier Panton.

"We are developing assistance programmes so that our community is prepared to handle the turbulence that economists have indicated lies ahead, whether that comes from an extreme weather event like a hurricane, or impact that comes from global economic forces like soaring inflation and rising interest rates," he added.

Several initiatives will be announced over the coming weeks on how Government is helping in the following areas: supporting your income – alleviating pressures on families and creating certainty over fuel and energy rates; containing your costs – to lower the cost burden for people living across our three islands; empowering the community – providing people with tools that allow them to make the right decisions for themselves and their families, and lastly, putting people first – helping people cope with the stresses of life and investing in thriving communities. Government is therefore committed to taking a robust income-based, cost-based approach to offsetting the impact of rising cost of living expenses on individuals and their families.

For more information on Cost of Living Support available in the Cayman Islands, visit www.gov.ky/cost-of-living.

Minister Turner tests positive for COVID-19

► Sabrina Turner

Hon. Sabrina Turner, MP for Prospect, tested positive for COVID-19 this morning using a lateral flow test at home and awaits the results of a confirmatory PCR test.

Minister Turner, who is mildly symptomatic, will remain at home for the next seven days.

The Premier, Hon. G. Wayne Panton, wishes a speedy recovery for Minister Turner on behalf of himself and their colleagues.

Capella Delights Concert Goers

By Staff Writer

A crowd of several thousand turned out to the Festival Green at Camana Bay to enjoy the sights and sounds of the Capella Music Festival on Saturday 16th April.

With both international and local acts gracing the stage over the course the day, concert goers and patrons were delighted by the performances and world-class amenities provided by the organizers.

No detail was spared on the day, with Capella even featuring its own WIFI system - compliments of Logic.

Organizer Kenny Rankin noted that the measure was an important part of making sure the guests enjoyed connectivity with their smartphones and social media without the congestion that might come otherwise.

With the weather conditions cooperating, the venue set up to accommodate the influx of spectators and emergency personnel on hand, the day went off without a hitch.

Leading off the cadres of international performers was Maxi Priest, who gave brought his trademark dreadlocks and silk smooth vocals to the fray and setting the tone for the rest of the day.

One of the highlights of the festival was the performance from superstar Wyclef Jean, who 'brought the house down' and stole the show, as well as the hearts of those in attendance.

The beloved entertainer and statesman, who was also one of the founders of the mega-group, the Fugees in the 1990's - which featured other global sensations such as Lauren Hill - went beyond the call of duty.

From playing his guitar using his teeth, to joining the crowd during his performance, Wyclef was a crowd pleaser from start to finish.

Delivering hits spanning nearly three decades, Wyclef was able to reach fans from every generation.

Another highly anticipated performer was Michael Bolton, who also gave an impassioned performance, with his trademark soulful style of rock and blues, casting a nostalgic theme of romance on the evening and perfectly warming the tenor of the event.

"I love the fact that there is such a diverse line-up of acts and something for everyone," noted Natalie Hardaway, who was visiting the Island on vacation. She added that she was very impressed with the level of organization and thought and planning that went into the festival on, "such a small Island."

Capella was definitely a family event and children were able to enjoy the show, along with their parents and other family members, making the festival one in a long line of great events such as the Jazz Festival and Kaboo that have set the bar high for entertainment in the Cayman Islands.

Charli XCX also delivered a compelling performance, featuring songs that everyone had heard but many had not associated with the Artist.

"I didn't realize that was her song," noted one concert goer, who added that they loved Charli's energy and choreography.

In a day filled with highlights, another crescendo of Capella was the vintage and spirited uncanny delivery of magical moments from Reggae crooner Beres Hammond, who topped the night off with hits spanning decades; leaving the audience riveted.

Beres Hammond is no stranger to the Cayman Islands and has performed in the British Territory several times over the years; each time bringing an updated bevy of hits, along with the classics that people have come to love so much and know so well.

"It's the soundtrack to our lives," declared Ryan Thomas, who said he had always wanted to see the entertainer Live in concert.

The "Rock Away" singer added more fuel to the inferno of sound that had been ignited by earlier acts and kept the audience in a frenzy.

Local performers were also a big draw for this year's Capella Festival and acts such as Erica Asai, Beneil Miller and the Kuyah Band, Rico Rolando, Yohan Fitzgerald, Sheena Lee, Sugar Daddy and the Impulz Band delivered in fine style.

Beneil, Erica and Rico are among the Cayman Islands' emerging artists, who are making a name for themselves on the local circuit and internationally.

UK CONSERVATIVES IN BITTER INTERNAL BATTLE TO REPLACE BORIS JOHNSON

The contest within the ruling British Conservative Party for the country's next prime minister is proving to be as fractious and divisive as if it were a normal general election with opposing parties vying for the government and the nation's top job.

Still reeling from the loss of their tainted leader Boris Johnson, who remains enormously popular in some factions of the party, the Conservatives (also known as the Tories) are locked in a battle royal to replace him.

Until a new leader is selected from among the hopefuls vying for his job, Mr Johnson remains in office in a lame-duck capacity, quite unlike the controversial dynamism he'd brought to the role.

His tenure at the top, abruptly cut short after a little over two years into a five-year term due to a crippling spate of resignations from his government and more tellingly from within his Cabinet, over questions of his judgement and integrity, comes to its premature terminus on September 5th this year.

That's when Boris Johnson will be replaced, quite likely by one of his former Cabinet underlings or another party member, in the all-but-intercine warfare for his job to serve out the remainder of this term at the helm of a Conservative Party government.

A bruising battle over policies that the candidates are largely pledging to change or at least approach differently, is made even more startling in that the very policies which they are now distancing themselves from, and challenging each other over, were the same policies that they had agreed to as members of the Johnson cabinet.

From taxation, to the UK's treasured National Health Service, the controversial Brexit deal to leave the European Union, cushioning the effects of the cost of living crisis, and a plethora of other pressing issues facing the country, the battle for residency in Number 10 Downing has turned out to be quite a public spectacle with much global interest.

Britain is the world's fifth-largest economy and a major influencer on the international stage.

Residence at 10 Downing St, said to be the world's most famous address, brings with it enormous political power and prestige and would be the pinnacle of the political aspirations of the successful candidate.

In the high-stakes and career-defining bid to succeed the discredited Boris Johnson, the only point of agreement among the very MPs, especially those who were in Mr Johnson's cabinet, has been the UK's support for Ukraine in its war with Russia...a policy pushed by the outgoing prime minister.

For the rest, it would be hard-pressed to convince someone not following British politics that the candidates now vigorously campaigning for Mr Johnson's job were in fact formulating and executing these very policies up to a few weeks ago as part of his government.

Who gets to be the next UK prime minister will ultimately be decided when the field is narrowed down to two candidates by the time Parliament goes on summer recess on Thursday 21st July. After a period of even more intense campaigning to Conservative Party members in the ensuing weeks, the winner will be selected by a vote among paid-up members of the party, said to number around 200,000. The party has not published its membership list.

As this is an internal selection and not a general election, the wider electorate has no say in the outcome.

As explained in a BBC news report about the process by the Conservatives to select their next leader, and in this case the next prime minister of the country: "Tories tend to be older, more middle class and more white than the rest of the population... In short, what political scientists call 'the selectorate' looks pretty different to the electorate."

On the other hand, a highlight of this campaign is the diversity of the field of candidates across gender and ethnic lines.

The changing face(s) of the leadership contenders have former Johnson administration cabinet members chancellor/finance minister Rishi Sunak, and foreign secretary Liz Truss as front runners along with former trade minister Penny Mordaunt, and senior party member Tom Tugendhat - chairman of the UK Parliament's Foreign Relations Committee. Also making an impressive showing is the Black female junior minister, Kemi Badenoch.

The new prime minister will be announced on September 5th when MPs return to Westminster from their summer break.

Until then, it's all to play for among the remaining competing candidates.

Nature Isle tops region's poll

Dominica is the surprising choice as top Caribbean nation to visit in the latest annual Travel + Leisure's list of the region's best islands.

Every year in its World's Best Awards survey, T+L asks readers to judge their travel experiences; share their opinions on the top cities, islands, cruise ships, spas, airlines, and more. Readers rated Caribbean islands according to their activities and sights, natural attractions and beaches, food, friendliness, and overall value. And Dominica came top overall.

Nicknamed the Nature Island, Dominica is not defined by the combo of pristine white sand and shiny resorts that's often synonymous with the Caribbean. Instead, the island lures eco-travellers with a jumble of rain forests, volcanoes, hot springs, thunderous waterfalls, and black-sand beaches. It has an undiscovered quality that is rare not only in the region, but the world over. It's a dream for hikers, snorkelers, bird watchers and all kinds of adventurers, but the island also offers pockets of high-end luxury, including this year's best resort hotel in the Caribbean — Secret Bay, tucked within the rain forest with tree-house style villas, jaw-dropping nature views, and private plunge pools.

Unlike its neighbours, Martinique and Guadeloupe, it is conspicuously undeveloped. Most of the rugged, mountainous island is lush with thick jungle, with a few small towns dappled in.

St Vincent and the Grenadines (No. 2) received praise for "fantastic water excursions." Several readers also raved about the beaches and turquoise waters on Anguilla (No. 3), with one calling it "paradise found." Another said: "Anguilla is my favourite spot on this earth. Nothing compares. The beaches, the people, the food, the enjoyment...total bliss."

At No. 5, St Lucia — home to the majestic Pitons, beautiful beaches, and plenty of chocolate and rum — was described as "a great spot for active travellers on a romantic escape." Another T+L reader said: "St. Lucia is an untouched gem in many ways, a very beautiful island with a delightful culture and many activities to enjoy."

Grenada (No. 6) was praised for its "incredibly kind people." The British Virgin Islands dominate this year's rankings, with Jost Van Dyke (No. 9), Virgin Gorda (No. 16), and Tortola (No. 23) all making appearances. The Bahamas, too, are well-represented — the Exumas (No. 4) earned marks from one reader for the "prettiest water and beaches you will ever see," while Eleuthera (No. 24) was touted as "enchanting, pristine, and beautiful". The Cayman Islands is ranked No.20.

MS-13 kill former president's son

► Said Lobo Bonilla was only 23

Honduras is plagued by gang culture and that was emphasised last week when the son of former Honduras President Porfirio Lobo and three other young men were executed allegedly by gunmen with the MS-13 after they left a nightclub in the country's capital, Tegucigalpa.

Surveillance camera footage showed at least five armed men driving up to the front of a parking lot exit ramp and running inside the building where they forced Said Lobo Bonilla, 23, and the other men out of two SUVs.

Lobo Bonilla, Luis Zelaya, 23, the nephew of Honduras' former defence minister, Salomón Vásquez, and Bonilla's driver and security guard, national Police director Gustavo Sánchez said.

Additional video footage showed the assailants, wearing what appeared to be vests from a police anti-gang squad, running out of the parking lot towards their pickup truck before one of them appeared to be shot.

Someone retreated to help his injured accomplice and carried him away. Authorities checked area hospitals for the wounded gunman.

"I couldn't see my son, but these are things that hurt," former President Lobo said at the murder scene. "My son is hanging out with some friends. We don't know if it was ordered or what."

Norlan Rodríguez, were then instructed to stand facing a wall before they were executed last Thursday.

Each was shot in the head, Honduran newspaper La Prensa reported. "The murder of four youths, including a son of former president Porfirio Lobo Sosa, is attributed to members of the Mara Salvatrucha (MS-13). The intention is to cause chaos, instability and terror," Na-

JA farmers fear snail invasion

► Giant African Snails cause mass devastation

Jamaica has been placed on high alert for the fast-growing, invasive, Giant African Snail, following a Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services report confirming the discovery of the plant-devouring pests in Pascoe County.

This pest is not present in Jamaica, however, it has been found throughout the Caribbean in Anguilla, Antigua and Barbuda, Barbados, Costa Rica, Cuba, Curacao, Dominica, Dominican Republic, Guadeloupe, Martinique, Netherlands Antilles, St Lucia and Trinidad and Tobago.

The Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries and other relevant agencies are taking measures to minimise the risk of entry of this devastating menace.

The Giant African Snail causes serious economic damage to both the agricultural and tourism sectors by rapidly eating the stucco of buildings, vegetables, fruit trees, field crops, forest trees and ornamentals.

These snails also pose a health risk to humans and livestock because it transmits the parasite rat lungworm, which can cause meningitis. One snail can produce 500 eggs in one laying and can live up to 10 years.

The snails and eggs can spread long distances and can enter the country by deliberate introduction through the illegal pet trade, by hitchhiking on shipping containers, machinery, crates and on planting material.
