Ramon Alberga, Father of the Bar Passes

► Ramon Alberga

By: Flynn Bush

It seems like every time we enter a new year, we lose a significant member of our population. Sadly, this year is no different. Of course, everyone is significant, and their loss is felt profoundly by those who are close to them. So, this is not an attempt to minimize anyone's importance. However, there are some members of our community who make, and have made, major contributions to the lives of others. Mr. Ramon Alberga was one such person, and his passing at the age of 95 continues that annual trend.

While not born of this soil, he exemplified the traditional Caymanian virtues of honesty, hard work, and love of family and country. The career he had was a storied one and one that was of the standard to which all attorneys should aspire. He was first called to the bar in England in 1951, and after quite some time spent in the legal profession, primarily in his native Jamaica, he began to practice law here in the sixties. He made the move full-time to Cayman in 1976, bringing his family with him.

As a lawyer here, Mr. Alberga was the driving force behind the writing of the Cayman Islands Law Reports. In fact, from this time, including while he was also the President of the Cayman Islands Law Society, he was the principal writer, and eventually the consulting editor, of the Reports until his retirement in 2020.

At the official opening of the Grand Court on January 13th, 2021. Mr. Colin McKie, QC, while announcing Mr. Alberga's retirement, remarked, "Since his first involvement in the project, up to and including last month, Mr. Alberga has carefully read, and considered, and given his views on, every single available judgement delivered by our courts since 1952."

Such was the influence and respect that led to Mr. Alberga being called "The Father of The Bar" here in the Cayman Islands.

Eventually, he was awarded the OBE for his work in this field, all of which benefited the community. Additionally, he became the first lawyer to have his portrait hung in the courthouse building. Such an honour is traditionally reserved exclusively for judges.

Outside of the courtroom, Mr. Alberga had much to be proud of as well. The ideals and values instilled in his family, and his love for them, set the stage for his children to have successful lives and families of their own. They will miss him most of all.

Anguillan experience a boost for young Caymanian hospitality workers

Four young Caymanians who are building careers in hospitality have benefitted from an opportunity to enhance their skills and understanding of the industry during a work exchange at the luxurious Four Seasons Resort and Residences Anguilla.

The opportunity was provided to employees at Dart-owned hotels in Grand Cayman and recent graduates of the Dart Hospitality Training Programme. Spending two weeks in Anguilla were Ja'Shante Pearson of Hampton by Hilton Grand Cayman, Mikol Bodden and Kiahna Tibbetts of Kimpton Seafire Resort + Spa, and Jamar Ellis - who along with Tibbetts - recently graduated as part of the latest cohort of the Dart Hospitality Training Programme in November 2023.

Dart, which acquired Four Seasons Resort and Residences Anguilla in 2022, introduced the work exchange to provide an opportunity for the quartet to be exposed to and immersed in one of the leading global luxury hotel brands, while gaining valuable training. They were able to cross-train within a range of different departments at the resort including finance, security, food and beverage, rooms division and guest services.

"By leveraging our position as the owner of hotels in two well-positioned Caribbean destinations, we can provide these opportunities to hard-working and deserving Caymanians who have displayed interest and ability to have meaningful careers in hospitality. The opportunity to gain experience with a top luxury brand like Four Seasons is not one that would have otherwise been afforded to these young hospitality ambassadors," said Dart Chief of Staff, Joanne Lawson.

She added that providing these types of opportunities helps to ensure that the Cayman Islands has an equipped and prepared workforce to deliver worldclass hospitality to visitors.

Tibbetts, a 2023 Dart Hospitality Training Programme graduate, said "Overall, my experience at the hotel really exemplified what a hospitality experience should feel like. The team allowed for more personal connections to be built. I really think that this was such a great opportunity to be a part of. And I want to thank Dart and Four Seasons for having such faith in me to allow me to be a part of this insightful opportunity."

After graduating from the Dart Hospitality Training Programme last November, Tibbetts secured employment with Kimpton Seafire Resort + Spa as pastry cook at Ave restaurant.

Mikol Bodden, who works in the Kimpton Seafire Resort + Spa housekeeping department, also shared his experience. "This exchange programme was a great opportunity for aspiring individuals who want to grow in the hospitality sector. The limitless mindset I adapted from this trip has motivated me to seek new heights in my career."

Bodden has recently been promoted to be a loss prevention supervisor at Hotel Indigo Grand Cayman and will transition into a new role when that hotel opens in April 2024.

As part of the exchange programme, a number of employees from the Four Seasons Resort and Residences Anguilla spent two weeks last September sharpening their skills and exchanging best practices at Hampton by Hilton Grand Cayman.

It is anticipated that a similar opportunity will be provided to other Caymanians working at Dart-owned hotels in Grand Cayman or who have graduated from the Dart Hospitality Training Programme.

The Cayman Islands Celebrates Top Rankings on Two Esteemed ‘Best Of’ Lists

Forbes Travel Guide sets the Cayman Islands as #1 on its Top 24 Destinations for 2024 and Tripadvisor honors the destination as a top nature destination in the world

The Cayman Islands proudly started 2024 with two impressive honors: topping Forbes Travel Guide’s list of Top 24 Destinations for 2024 and being recognized as the #8 Nature Destination in the world according to Tripadvisor’s esteemed Best of the Best 2024 Travellers’ Choice Awards, the highest ranking Caribbean destination amongst the 25 countries listed.

Known as the Culinary Capital of the Caribbean, Forbes highlighted Grand Cayman as a “foodie’s paradise” with nods to the Ritz-Carlton’s Blue by Eric Ripert, the only Five Diamond restaurant in the Caribbean, and the novel Library by the Sea bar at Kimpton Seafire Resort + Spa. Tripadvisor’s Best of the Best is the greatest honor bestowed by Tripadvisor, reflecting the authentic experiences and opinions of global travelers who have immersed themselves in the breathtaking landscapes of the Cayman Islands.

Boasting a vibrant culinary and bar scene, phenomenal cultural attractions, and sophisticated vibes, the three islands also offer a plethora of natural wonders on both land and sea, promising an extraordinary experience for visitors. Grand Cayman, the largest of the islands, entices with its pristine beaches from the famous Seven Mile Beach and Rum Point, and warm, crystal-clear waters. Cayman Brac features magnificent views from its majestic Bluff and offers outdoor adventures from rock climbing to spelunking. Little Cayman enchants with its unspoiled charm and diverse marine life, making it a haven for diving enthusiasts.

“I can’t think of a better way to kick off the New Year than with two extraordinary honours. To be recognized as the top destination for 2024 in Forbes Travel Guide and to be named in Tripadvisor’s Best of the Best 2024 Travellers’ Choice Awards is a testament to the natural beauty and diverse experiences that the Cayman Islands offer,” said Rosa Harris, Director of Tourism. “It gives us great pride that the opinions of travellers who have explored the wonders of the Cayman Islands has led to this honour. We invite everyone to discover the captivating treasures that make our islands a truly special destination.”

tendance for the inaugural viewing of the exhibit. As his surviving children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren explored the display, they expressed elation for the honour bestowed. The family artifacts showcase spanned Captain Keith’s illustrious career in shipbuilding, entrepreneurship, and politics, among other endeavors, all on temporary loan to the museum.

Following their visit, Captain Keith’s children shared heartfelt sentiments, “We were elated to see the display highlighting our father. We thoroughly enjoyed all of the exhibit. It made us very proud to see some of Daddy’s major life events and contributions recognized in this way. The exhibit was a welcomed step-back in time. Our hearts were touched and our eyes watery. Some of the items took us back to his days in his office at TibMart and the family home at The Bight on the Brac. To be able to share that with his grand and great-grandkids was priceless. We’d like to thank those involved in producing the exhibit,” expressed Ian Tibbetts Snr. on behalf of his family.

The celebration continued with attendees enjoying activities such as local foods and crafts from various vendors, lively music from JR Douglas Band and the Cayman Brac Kitchen Band, storytelling by community elders, moderated by Community Development Officer Julianne Scott, and demonstrations of traditional games by Mrs. Annie Rose Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bryan. Local artists also utilized the venue to conduct classes and capture the essence of the memorable day.

CCMI SCIENTIFIC PUBLICATION REVEALS THE NEGATIVE IMPACT OF SOUND ON FISH IN GRAND CAYMAN

The Central Caribbean Marine Institute (CCMI), funded by Walkers and the UK Government's Darwin Plus Programme, recently published a paper in the scientific journal Nature Scientific Reports following a study into the response of fish in Grand Cayman harbour to the reduction of water-based activities, including shipping, during the Covid-19 lockdown.

The project examined the response of fish communities to this period of altered activity, measuring number of individual fish and species, and the biomass of fish at Eden Rock, Don Fosters, Fish Point, and Wharf from 2020-2022. This study provides unprecedented insights to the impacts of human activity and the resilience of reef fish populations.

CCMI's research team found that the abundance and biomass of fish populations near the main harbour of Grand Cayman were lowest when the study began near the start of lockdown, in July 2020, and continued to increase through 2021 to early 2022 in the absence of cruise ships.

It is likely that these increases are due to shifts in fish behaviour, where they re-enter areas of previously high activity, and improved fish fitness, leading to more reproduction. Research has found that reductions in stress from water-based activities, such as noise and boat waste, improve fish feeding, sociality, reproduction, and overall healthy functioning.

When compared to data from 2018, CCMI's results showed a three-fold significant increase in reef-fish biomass during the lockdown. These benefits were also seen in individual fish species, such as parrotfish, which are crucial for maintaining healthy coral reef systems.

CCMI's Postdoctoral Researcher, Dr Jack Johnson, explains what these results mean:

"CCMI's findings are exciting because they prove that both immediate and long-term changes in fish communities can occur when human water-based activities are limited. Given the role of fish for coral reef health, these findings should be considered in future coral reef management strategies."

Similar studies have documented the short-term effects on Covid-19 lockdowns on biodiversity. However, CCMI's study is unique that these effects were examined over a two-year period and showed substantial benefits to fish populations in Grand Cayman over a longer duration with the reduction of stress from water-based activities.

These findings could have implications for future planning decisions in the marine environment of the Cayman Islands. Society relies on healthy fish populations for many services, food provision, fisheries and tourism are well known supporting functions of reef fish. However, additional benefits such as grazing algae and maintaining ecosystem balance are also crucial to the healthy functioning of coral reefs and the wider marine environment.

In addition to the economic and dietary benefits, a healthy marine environment can also support climate change mitigation, provide coastal protection from storm surge, and regulate climate and weather.

Coral reefs are an essential ecosystem that underpin societal well-being, supporting health, the economy and coastal security.

These ecosystems are under threat, and the more scientists understand what impacts their health, the better we can protect them through planning and management. CCMI's research shows how reef fish populations can bounce back when stresses such as noise and pollution from shipping activity is reduced.

CCMI presented the findings from this research to the Food and Agriculture Organisation of the United Nations to ensure that the results are disseminated to managers and decision makers for consideration during planning decisions around development and marine activities.

As the world has re-opened after Covid-19, this study demonstrates that key lessons can be learnt from this time about the impacts of human activity on nature and how this can inform management for a sustainable and resilient future.

Invasive reptile spotted in Grand Cayman

On Thursday 25th January, a Red-headed Rock Agama (Agama agama) - a small reptile originally from Africa which has become common in south Florida - was found in Grand Cayman for the first time.

The small reptile is a species of lizard from the family Agamidae found in most of sub-Saharan Africa and, due to its spectacular colouration (especially in males), it has become a popular animal in the pet trade, having been introduced to southern Florida where it has established and become extremely common. The Department of the Environment has long kept an eye out for the Red-headed Agama, which, if not removed from Cayman, has the potential to spread as much havoc as the other well-known invasive species to have hit Cayman's shores, the green iguana.

This male was found in George Town, next to the container yard where international shipments have their first port of call in the Cayman Islands, so officials believe it is likely to have been a one-off accidental import, that none-the-less highlights the need for robust biosecurity protocols.

The DOE noted that, thanks to Dominic Jackson who alerted the Terrestrial Resources Unit upon spotting it, they were able to detect and remove the animal successfully within the hour.

"The Red-headed Agama is primarily insectivorous, but they have been known to eat small mammals, small reptiles, and vegetation such as flowers, grasses, and fruits. It behaves much like our na-

CNCF Announces: Grant for the Arts programme Recipients 2023

► Cassianne Lawrence

► Lebron McLean

The Cayman National Cultural Foundation (CNCF) is announcing the recipients of its' 2023 Grants for the Arts programme, which has provided development grants to 19 creative Caymanians and Cayman-based cultural organizations this year across the fields of the performing arts, music, literature, film, visual arts, fashion, heritage preservation, and creative education.

Grants for the Arts has been CNCF's primary grants platform for over a decade and provides support for the development and preservation of all forms of Caymanian cultural & artistic expression. It has been historically funded by an annual grant from the Ministry of Culture enabling CNCF to distribute approximately KYD$30K per annum to a variety of grantees across a wide variety of creative disciplines. This year the grant fund grew significantly due to a new public/private funding model which has enabled the organization to support a far wider scope of projects, with a total of $85K was gifted to a variety of creative initiatives.

As part of the organisation's 18-month Strategic Redevelopment Project, which was completed in November 2023, improved and expanded grant-making was identified as a key area through which CNCF can provide significant support to the creative sector. Former NGCI chairperson, Susan A. Olde OBE, who led the Redevelopment Project as CNCF Chairperson, provided additional private funding to this years' programme as initial seed funding to support the programme's expansion

► Wendee Miller

"The Grants for the Arts programme has evolved as part of the next phase of CNCF's mission, from being a production-centric organization to an umbrella cultural management body that seeks to facilitate and support multiple organizations and producers of culture," said Ms. Natalie Urquhart, CEO. "The improvements in our Grants for the Arts programme will play a key role in that evolution and we are grateful for the board leadership and generous support from Ms. Olde that has made this possible this year."

"Through over a years' work of dedicated research in communication with our stakeholders and creative community, led by our CEO, CNCF team and Steering Committee, CNCF was able to identify the need for expansion in this area, and it has been an honour to help it flourish," says Susan A. Olde, OBE. "With applications being submitted through an 'Open Call' which invited all Caymanian creatives to participate, this years' competition was very inspiring to watch given the strength and range of applications. On behalf of the CNCF board, our CEO, research team, staff, and the Grants Committee, I would like to extend our sincere congratulations to all of these deserving individuals and organisations for their valuable contribution to arts and culture in the Cayman Islands, and I personally invite more private "investors in our culture" to participate in our 2024 Grants for the Arts programme."

CNCF's external Grants for the Arts Committee is comprised of five leading members of the creative community, each bringing specialised knowledge spanning the grant areas. They reviewed and awarded funding across two cycles (February and September) in 2023. The successful recipients were:

- Anne Marie Diaz, Local Author
- Cassianne Lawrence, Film Director
- Jazz Pitcairn, Film Director
- Cayman Islands National Dance Company
- Lebron McLean, Performing Arts Major

The one-two punch for fast fat loss

How many times have you looked in the mirror and wished that you could make your belly fat vanish before your eyes? Un-sightly fat around the stomach is one of the most common body frustrations that I come across with my clientele.

No one wants a chubby stomach! Unfortunately for most, losing body fat is a slow and steady process, rather than an instantaneous fix.

However...I do have an extremely effective method for losing belly fat faster than ever, and I'd like to share it with you today...

The One-Two Punch For Fast Fat Loss. This deadly, fat-incinerating method fights fat simultaneously on two separate fronts for maximum effectiveness: your sugar intake and your high intensity workouts.

First Punch: This is the punch that requires zero extra effort on your part! In fact all you have to do is NOT do something that you're currently doing! You stop consuming refined sugar, in all its forms. This means no sodas, no desserts, no packaged snacks, no candy, no mocha lattes, NO SUGAR AT ALL!

When you stop to evaluate your diet, it may be shocking to find out how much refined sugar has crept in. Nothing will contribute to fat gains as swiftly as consuming sugar, so it makes sense that cutting sugar out is the top must-do for shedding those unwanted pounds.

It's not necessary, or beneficial, to starve yourself during this time of rapid fat loss - you should fill in your diet with lean meats, vegetables, nuts and seeds as you cut out the refined sugar. Keep your metabolism high by fueling up on high protein, high fiber, low carb, and zero sugar foods whenever hunger strikes.

Second Punch: Here's the punch that requires some effort, but trust me when I say it's worth it. You crank up the intensity of your workouts to a whole new level.

Most people take exercise on with the slow and steady mentality - moving, pushing and pulling as little as possible while still "getting the job done". I've got some news for you...if you still have belly fat to lose then the job wasn't getting done.

If you can comfortably hold a conversation, hardly break a sweat or feel the same when it's over as you did when it began, then you're simply not pushing yourself hard enough while you exercise.

Increasing the intensity of your workouts requires focused intent. You must go into the session with the goal of pushing your body to the limit. Remember, it's a contained timeframe that will be over shortly, so bear down and deal with the discomfort. With practice you will learn to embrace the burn.

The safest and most effective way to crank up the intensity and effectiveness of your exercise time is to work with a qualified fitness professional, such as myself. I would love to hear from you! Call Ernest at Body Shapers Personal Training Fitness Studio 325-8696 or email bodyshaperscayman@gmail.com today and together we will get you started on your fastest fat loss ever!

Social Selling: A Key Strategy for Businesses in Grand Cayman

By Qamar Zaman, Technology Reporter, Caymanian Times

In Grand Cayman's local markets, businesses face stiff competition, often contending with multiple sellers offering similar products or services. This has led businesses to seek innovative ways to connect with their audience and drive sales. Social selling, which blends social media engagement with traditional selling techniques, emerges as a powerful solution. It's especially effective in Grand Cayman where local and international businesses create a dynamic market environment. This article will explore the key aspects of social selling and its importance for businesses in Grand Cayman.

Why Social Selling

Social selling provides numerous benefits for businesses in Grand Cayman. It helps small businesses build a strong local presence and attract tourists. Mid-size businesses can extend their reach beyond the island, targeting a global audience, while enterprises can establish themselves as industry leaders and draw high-end clientele. Social selling enhances customer relationships, brand visibility, and sales opportunities.

Who is Social Selling for in the Cayman Islands

Social selling is suitable for a diverse range of businesses in Grand Cayman. Small local businesses, like beachside cafés, can connect with the community and tourists on platforms such as Instagram. Mid-size businesses, such as local dive shops, can broaden their audience on platforms like Facebook, while enterprises might prefer YouTube to attract international clients and partners.

How to do Social Selling

Effectively employing social selling in Grand Cayman requires understanding the unique market dynamics. Small businesses should use social media to share local stories and customer experiences, showcasing the island's allure. Mid-size companies can use Facebook to highlight their distinctive services, like exclusive diving spots. Enterprises can utilize LinkedIn for B2B networking, sharing industry insights and luxury travel opportunities.

When should Social Selling be done

Timing is crucial for social selling in Grand Cayman, especially in a tourist-centric location. Small businesses should capitalize on peak tourist seasons with special offers or events on social media. Mid-size businesses can promote seasonal offers or new services on social platforms, while enterprises should focus on continuous engagement, targeting major travel seasons and industry events.

Social Selling Key Takeaway

Social selling is an essential strategy for businesses in Grand Cayman, offering a unique way to engage with various audiences. From small cafes to mid-size adventure services and luxury enterprises, using social media for selling enables businesses to tell their story, connect with customers, and thrive in a competitive market. The evolving digital landscape continually enhances the potential for innovative selling strategies, affirming the relevance and effectiveness of social selling for business success in Grand Cayman.

MOMENTS OF INSPIRATION

GOD'S WORD IS ALIVE- ISIAH 55: 11

Do you have a garden and plant flowers or vegetables each year? If you plant bulbs in the fall, it is a long wait for Spring to see if the seemingly dead thing you planted will grow, sprout and bloom. In many ways planting a garden is an act of faith. In our text today, God declares with all certainty His Word is alive and will always accomplish the purpose for which it is intended. Here He gives samples of rain, snow, and seed to reveal hoe He is working in and through us to fulfill His word. In 2024 make that determination to always look to His word, "it is a lamp unto our feet and a light unto our pathway." HE IS THE WAY, THE TRUTH, AND THE LIFE. Do you know Him. Have you trusted Him as your Saviour? Do so NOW.
