This historic reunification is the result of several months of constructive dialogue and negotiations, supported by input from multiple government departments and agencies. Through this collaborative process, Saturday, 23 May 2026, has been officially confirmed as the date for the 2026 Carnival Road March. The unified approach will also allow for one coordinated road closure, significantly reducing disruption to the public while delivering a seamless and enhanced carnival experience.

Caymanians to Receive Awards at Heroes Day

Several Caymanians whose vision, dedication and leadership have shaped the physical development and growth of the Cayman Islands will receive national recognition awards at the National Heroes Day ceremony, to be held on Monday, 26 January, 8:30 a.m. at Heroes Square, George Town in Grand Cayman.

This year's theme, "Honouring a Nation Built: The Power of Physical Infrastructure" will recognise individuals and organisations whose work in developing the Islands' physical infrastructure, including roads, ports, airports, utilities and public buildings has had a lasting, transformative impact on the nation's growth, economic activity, social development and quality of life.

Her Excellency Governor Jane Owen, Premier Honourable André Ebanks,

Members of Cabinet, Parliamentarians, other senior government officials and uniformed groups will be in attendance at the event. Members of the public who are also invited to attend the ceremony are asked to be seated no later than 8:15 a.m. in advance of the parade. Given the formality of the occasion, they are also encouraged to wear appropriate formal attire, including closed footwear and clothing that covers the shoulders. Attendees are reminded not to cross the square or parade area during the ceremony.

A celebratory event for the awardees, families and the general public will be hosted by the Ministry of Youth, Sports, Culture and Heritage in the evening on Cardinall Avenue, starting at 4:00 p.m.

It will feature a vibrant programme with several local cultural groups and live performances, kids 'corner, fire-works, drone show and a variety of local cuisine for purchase.

Awards presented to Caymanians as part of the National Heroes Day ceremony was officially changed to national recognition awards last year. The name change aims to distinguish award recipients from those individuals bestowed with the title of national hero.

For further information on National Heroes Day 2026, persons are encouraged to visit <https://gov.ky/events/national-heroes-day>. Specific questions concerning the ceremony can be directed to Cayman Islands Government Protocol Office at protocol@gov.ky.

This follows the retirement of Mrs. Gillian Charles-Gollop, who previously led the bank's business in that area, at the end of January.

The announcement was made by the bank's Chief Executive Officer, Mark St. Hill who hailed the appointment of Mr. Polius, a seasoned corporate banker, while also praising Charles-Gollop who retires after 34 years with the bank for her "dedicated service to CIBC Caribbean and her unwavering commitment to both clients and team engagement within the Corporate Banking segment across the region."

Mr. Polius is currently serving as Head of Country for the bank's Barbados business where he oversees the bank's national operations including financial performance, regulatory relations, market positioning, and strategic leadership across the Barbados business lines such as Corporate Banking, International Corporate Banking, Personal Banking, and Wealth Management.

A Chartered Financial Analyst, he has also served in the Cayman Islands in the role of Senior Credit Manager leading the Cayman team of corporate credit specialists. He was later appointed Director of Corporate Banking, The Bahamas & TCI, where he remained in that capacity prior to assuming the role of Head of Country in Barbados.

Mr. Polius graduated top of his class with an MSc in Finance with Distinction from Warwick Business School and also holds a BSc in Banking and Finance with First Class Honours from the University of the West Indies.

"We are pleased to welcome Kemar to his new role which brings him back to Corporate Banking. He is a familiar face to many of our corporate clients, and we look forward to his leadership of this segment which we know will redound to the benefit of our clients and the talented team that he will lead." Pim van der Burg, the bank's Chief Commercial Officer said.

"The seamless transfer from Gillian to Kemar is testament to the wealth of talent we have at our bank which ensures an uninterrupted superior client experience," he added.

Commenting on his new role Mr. Polius said: "It is an honor to step into this role and continue to contribute to our company's success. I am looking forward to serving our clients and working alongside my team to deliver exceptional results for our bank."

One Celebration. One Road. One Day. One Carnival!

Hon. Isaac Rankine, Minister of Youth, Sports, Culture and Heritage, expressed sincere appreciation to all stakeholders who contributed to this achievement. He extended special thanks to the Department of Tourism for its guidance on date selection and to the Royal Cayman Islands Police Service for its consultation in identifying the most appropriate route to ensure public safety and minimal interruption.

One Carnival road march will be a cornerstone event of Heritage Month, which will once again feature Emancipation Day, Art Week, and 345 Day celebrations. In addition, the Ministry will introduce free cultural workshops and a speaker series throughout the month, aimed at strengthening cultural awareness, education, and community engagement during the extended celebrations.

Ms. Donna Myrie of Batabano welcomed the announcement, noting:

"For years, our community has dreamed of seeing Carnival celebrated under one umbrella. Now with the full support of the Ministry of Culture, and the launch of Heritage Month in May, that dream is finally coming through. This is a moment of pride and joy for our community, our sponsors, and our masqueraders—where culture takes centre stage and we celebrate the traditions that unite us all."

Ms. Myrie further added that Carnival has always had its roots under the Batabano umbrella.

"Over time, the celebration evolved in different directions, and today marks a meaningful return—bringing all masqueraders and bands back together once again."

Mr. Jermaine Sharpe of CayMas also welcomed the reunification:

"On behalf of CayMas, we would like to thank Minister Rankine and his Ministry for creating a space where both entities can now function together for the benefit of the carnival product and the people of the Cayman Islands. This unification aligns with the cultural significance of the season and reflects valuable input from other government stakeholders.

This is something the public has been asking for and something we have been working toward for many years. As we move forward under one banner, we remain committed to delivering a better carnival experience for spectators, partners, bands, and participants alike.

We hope that all entities will continue to move forward together with us for the greater good of our islands and our visitors."

The Ministry of Youth, Sports, Culture and Heritage looks ahead with optimism to this new chapter for Cayman Carnival—one defined by unity, cultural pride, and a shared national vision.

JN Money, DHL Express Partner to Launch First DHL Premier Branch in Cayman

JN Money has partnered with DHL Express to launch the first DHL Premier Branch in the Cayman Islands at its Eastern Avenue location, marking a significant milestone in the territory's financial and logistics landscape.

This strategic partnership brings together JN Money's trusted financial services network with DHL Express' world-class international shipping expertise to deliver a seamless, premium experience for customers who require fast, reliable global connectivity. The initiative represents a major step forward particularly for businesses, entrepreneurs and individuals who seek greater access to efficient cross-border trade, e-commerce and personal shipping solutions.

By introducing DHL's premier model to the Cayman market through JN Money, the partnership strengthens the country's position as a globally connected financial and commercial hub and creates a one-stop location where customers can access two distinct services, remitting funds through JN Money Services and shipping packages through DHL. Both entities continue to operate independently under the same roof.

Customers can access the full suite of DHL Express services at the Premier Branch at JN Money Eastern Avenue, including outbound and import shipping, luggage shipping and a range of sustainable shipping options.

"It's about ensuring that people in Cayman, including our own customers, have convenient access to the services they need," shared Horace Hines, general manager for JN Money Services (JNMS), which owns and operates JN Money worldwide, and managing director for JNMS Cayman.

He added that the arrangement allows JN Money to complement its traditional financial offerings, while highlighting that it's also in response to increased cross-border activity and rising demand for faster and more reliable money and shipping services from Caymanians and expats.

Sanya Wallace, assistant general manager of the JNMS Group and interim country manager, JNMS Cayman, added that the partnership underscores JN Money's commitment to innovation, customer-centric solutions and strengthening integrated financial and logistics services in the region.

"By partnering with DHL, we're making it easier for people to access secure, efficient and internationally connected services. This is a big deal," she said.

The launch further reinforces DHL Express's ongoing investment in expanding premium international and domestic shipping services across the Caribbean, building on the opening of its Premier Retail Partner ServicePoint in Barbados in October 2025.

Worldwide, DHL operates in more than 220 countries and territories, with specialized solutions for key industries, including technology, life sciences and healthcare, engineering, manufacturing and energy, automotive and retail.

"The launch of the Premier Partner in Cayman marks another significant milestone in our Caribbean footprint expansion strategy and this partnership with JN Money was the right move," said Christian Joseph, country manager for DHL Express Cayman Islands. "People are moving goods and personal items more than ever before and this initiative strengthens our ability to meet that growing demand locally, while reinforcing our commitment to regional growth and customer proximity."

Q4 Stats Show Cayman's Captive Insurance Sector Ending 2025 with Sustained Growth

The Insurance Managers Association of Cayman (IMAC) has reported another strong overall performance in Cayman's captive insurance industry for 2025, following the release of the Q4 2025 licensing statistics by the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority (CIMA).

For Q4 2025, CIMA issued 10 new international insurer licenses, comprising of three B(i)s, four B(iii)s, one Class C and two Class D. This brings the total number of new international insurer licenses issued in 2025 to 42 for a second year in a row – continuing the record-high licensing trend within the past decade.

As of year-end 2025, Cayman is now

home to 720 Class B, C, and D insurance companies, writing $51 billion in premiums and holding $176 billion in total assets – representing a 24% and 15% increase respectively compared to 2024. This growth in new licenses throughout 2025 shows sustained market confidence, with strong activity anticipated to continue in 2026.

IMAC Chair James Trundle said, "Cayman's continued growth reflects the jurisdiction's robust regulatory framework, business friendly environment and depth of professional expertise. The collaborative and pragmatic approach taken by CIMA has been instrumental in supporting this momentum, and we are grateful for their ongoing engagement and responsiveness within the industry."

Other 2025 statistics show that traditional single-parent captives licensed as Class B(i), spanning a wide range of industries, recorded a growth of 19 new licenses. Third-party writers licensed as B(iii) also saw an increase of 19 new licenses, which includes some reinsurance entities. Class C fully collateralised transactions added 2 new licenses, while 2 open market reinsurers licensed as class D was also formed. The growth in reinsurance entities is expected to carry into 2026 and will be highlighted at the CIRCA ReConnect conference from April 16-17, 2026 at The Ritz-Carlton, Grand Cayman.

LifeLine Launches PulsePoint AED App to Map Every Rescue-Ready Defibrillator on Island

A local nonprofit is helping Cayman take a major step forward in public safety — one defibrillator at a time. LifeLine, the volunteer-run organization behind the island’s rescue-ready movement, has launched the PulsePoint AED app to help the public locate every heart and lightning bolt labeled “PulsePoint AED” in the App Store or Google Play. It’s free to download and available to everyone.

Founded by a small group of community members, LifeLine has grown into a national network of volunteers who inspect, track, and maintain AEDs across Cayman. The charity also advocates for AED placement in public spaces, provides CPR awareness education, and works closely with local businesses, government agencies, and 911 to ensure the island is prepared to respond quickly in a cardiac emergency.

Each AED listed in the app has been checked for expired pads or batteries and verified as accessible to the public — meaning that when someone needs help, it’s ready to save a life.

LifeLine is always looking for more volunteers to join its LifeForce network — local residents who help inspect AEDs and keep them rescue-ready. Volunteering requires just a few hours each month and can make a life-saving difference in your community.

To learn more or to volunteer, visit www.lifeline.ky or follow @lifelinecayman on Instagram and Facebook.

Jamaica Launches First Ever Multidimensional Poverty Index with Support from the Caribbean Development Bank

The Caribbean Development Bank (CDB / the Bank) in collaboration with the Planning Institute of Jamaica (PIOJ) and the Oxford Poverty and Human Development Initiative (OPHI), officially launched the country's first ever Multidimensional Poverty Index (MPI) - a landmark tool that will transform how poverty is measured, understood, and addressed across the island.

The MPI provides a comprehensive picture of poverty by capturing not only what households earn and consume but also what they lack across dimensions including health, education, housing, access to services, employment security, and overall wellbeing. It complements traditional monetary poverty assessments and strengthens Jamaica's ability to implement targeted, evidencebased social and economic policies aligned with Vision 2030 Jamaica and the Sustainable Development Goals.

Development of the MPI was made possible through grant financing from CDB's Special Fund Resources (SFR) and technical support from the Bank's Enhanced Country Poverty Assessment (eCPA) Programme. The process drew on extensive collaboration among national stakeholders, technical experts, and development partners. Through this initiative, Jamaica is positioned as a regional leader in adopting multidimensional approaches to poverty reduction.

Mr. Elbert Ellis, Portfolio Manager, Social Sector Division, CDB, emphasised the significance of the moment stating, "Today's launch is an important step forward in how Jamaica prepares interventions to address poverty. The Multidimensional Poverty Index offers a more holistic, inclusive framework for understanding interconnected deprivations, transforming poverty data into actionable intelligence." He noted that the MPI will also enhance the country's capacity to design gender-responsive policies, as the tool enables sexdisaggregated analysis and highlights the different ways women, men, girls, and boys experience poverty.

Mr. Ellis also commended Jamaica for its strong leadership and stakeholder engagement throughout the process and added that the MPI, "stands as a strong example of how CDB's eCPA translates into countryowned, policyrelevant outcomes."

Dr. Wayne Henry, Director General, PIOJ, also underscored the importance of the MPI and the value it brings to Jamaica's development planning explaining, "From inadequate housing and sanitation to being unemployed or excluded from school, the Multidimensional Poverty Index captures these challenges and helps us to make better policy and programme decisions to eradicate them. It enhances our toolkit for planning and sharpens our ability to track development progress."

The launch comes as Jamaica continues to strengthen resilience in the wake of recent climate related shocks, including the impacts of Hurricane Melissa. The MPI will play a critical role in ensuring that recovery and reconstruction efforts respond effectively to the needs of vulnerable populations.

The Caribbean Development Bank reaffirmed its commitment to supporting Jamaica as it integrates the MPI into national policymaking and strengthens its social protection, human capital development, and climate resilience frameworks.

BVI AND USVI 'AT SEA' OVER YACHT CHARTER FEES

By Staff Writer

An international diplomatic row between the British and the United States Virgin Islands has been escalated all the way up to the US White House and State Department.

At issue is a new fee structure imposed by the British Virgin Islands for foreign-registered charter vessels using its picturesque Sir Francis Drake Channel.

The expanse of sea located within the territorial boundaries of the BVI is a popular sailing area in the territory's archipelago.

The BVI government last year dramatically increased the fees from US$800 to US$24,000 per vessel for annual multi-night charter licences, with day trip fees rising from US$200 to US$8,500.

Additional customs and other related fees may incur an additional cost of $US1,000 or more.

The resulting uproar by mainly charter operators in the neighbouring United States Virgin Islands forced a series of meetings between the local BVI and USVI governments.

No consensus was reached.

BVI Premier Dr Natalio Wheatley has defended his administration's decision to hike the fees. He told a sitting of the BVI House of Assembly that the decision to increase the fees, which have not been changed for decades, was based on a core principle.

"The government of the (British) Virgin Islands has both the right and responsibility to steward its natural resources in a manner that secures its territory's long-term economic future," he affirmed.

The BVI government has also made the assertion that, unlike its USVI neighbours which get standard specific funding support as a United States territory, it does not have that facility as a British Overseas Territory.

However, efforts to arrive at a mutually acceptable fee structure have so far proven futile, and last December the Governor of the USVI, Albert A. Bryan Jr, referred the issue to Washington.

In a letter addressed to US President Donald Trump and Secretary of State Marco Rubio, he complained of what he described as "economic exclusion" by his neighbours.

The yacht charter business in the waters of the British and United States Virgin Islands, especially the BVI's Sir Francis Drake Channel, is a major revenue earner for both territories.

The USVI government estimates that the BVI action has already cost their territory over US$14 million in lost revenue since it came into effect last year, with the knock-on effect on jobs and the wider economy.

As this is essentially a foreign affairs issue, despite the close geographical proximity and longstanding family and friendship ties between the two sets of islands, if the matter cannot be resolved locally, it requires the intervention of their respective administrative powers (the British and the United States governments).

BVI Premier Wheatley has doubled down on his position on the basis that his government has already made enough concessions.

"This administration is firmly committed to ensuring that it is governed responsibly, sustainably and in the best interest of the people of these Virgin Islands," he said in the BVI House of Assembly.

The vexing issue has already seen calls from the USVI Chamber of Commerce and charter industry representatives for the BVI to be slapped with reciprocal fees and even a counter-tariff.

US: Grenada has safety issues

► St George's is hugely popular for Americans

Americans visiting Grenada are being warned by the United States Department travel advisory to beware.

It has raised its safety category from Level 1 to 2 because of concerns that the island's crime level is now dangerous.

The advisory was issued on January 5, urging Americans to exercise increased caution when visiting the island over its increased crime. The updated advisory warns that violent crime can occur anywhere on the Spice Island, with American citizens having been victims of armed robbery, assault, burglary, and rape. According to the State Department's advisory: "In some cases, American citizens have been killed. Police response times are not as fast as one may expect in the United States. Do not answer your door at your hotel or residence unless you know who it is." Officials also warn travellers to avoid physically resisting any robbery attempt.

This is despite Grenada recently being recognised as one of the Caribbean's safest destinations. The capital, St George's is particularly popular. Around 16.8 million Americans visited the Caribbean in 2024.

The Level 2 advisory places Grenada in the "exercise increased caution" category, the second tier in the State Department's four-level system. The State Department advises travellers to keep a low profile, stay alert to their surroundings, and be cautious when walking or driving at night.

Grenada Tourism Authority CEO Stacey Liburd told USA TODAY: "Grenada remains open, safe and fully operational for travellers. Grenada has long been recognised as one of the most peaceful and welcoming destinations in the Caribbean, with a strong record of visitor safety, and we continue to welcome visitors without interruption." Liburd noted the State Department's advisory was precautionary and not a response to a specific incident or change in conditions.

The Grenadian government released a statement on social media emphasising the country's "strong record of public safety, social stability, and effective law enforcement", adding: "Grenada has long been home to a significant and vibrant population of United States citizens, many of whom live, work, study, and invest in our tri-island state. Additionally, hundreds of thousands of visitors travel to Grenada annually, enjoying our renowned hospitality, rich culture, and world-class tourism offerings."

ment and events programming, focusing on unity, reflection, and socio-economic growth.

Cayman Islands referee panel grows as 2 officials earn FIFA appointments

► 2026 International refs

The Cayman Islands has expanded its presence on the international football stage following FIFA's release of its 2026 International Referees List, with two new assistant referees added and a total of eight Cayman Islands-based officials now holding FIFA appointments.

It marks the most referees Cayman has had on the FIFA list at one time.

Keven Harris and Anny Arriaga Zuniga have been appointed as FIFA assistant referees, increasing Cayman's representation on the global list for the upcoming cycle. Both joined the Cayman Islands Referee Association in 2023 and will now be eligible for selection to FIFA-sanctioned international matches.

Their inclusion brings Cayman's total number of FIFA-listed officials to eight, as they join Benjamin Whitty, Kedeon Foster, Michael Akangou, Jonathon Hughes, Dwight Cummings and DeeAnn Foster, all of whom retained their FIFA badges for 2026.

"It's an absolute pleasure to have been selected for another year on the FIFA list and to have two new additions within our small team fills me with a lot of joy and pride," said Whitty, who serves as CIFA's Competitions, Registrations and Club Licensing Officer in addition to serving as a match official.

Whitty, who retained his place on the FIFA list following a year that included officiating at the 2025 Concacaf Gold Cup and earning a spot on the preselection list for the FIFA World Cup 2026, said the new appointments reflect the strength of development pathways and the value of mentorship in Cayman.

"Becoming a FIFA Assistant Referee is a reward for my dedication, discipline, determination and sacrifice," said Harris, who became interested in refereeing following his playing career. "It is an absolute honor to represent the Cayman Islands, and I vow to give this opportunity my very best. Stepping into the realm of elite referees comes with high expectations — expectations I fully intend to meet."

Zuniga's appointment represents an important milestone for women's officiating locally and regionally and she hopes her journey in the sport with inspire others.

"As a 35-year-old woman, I'm proud to show that women can be accomplished in football at every level," she said.

Cummings has served as a FIFA assistant referee since 2019.

"I am deeply passionate about contributing to the sport of football, and I am proud to represent the Cayman Islands on the international stage," Cummings said. "I congratulate all my colleagues who have maintained their badge and extend a special welcome to those who have made the FIFA panel for the first time."

With eight officials now on FIFA's International Referees List, Cayman continues to strengthen its footprint within regional and global football officiating.

KPMG launches the Michael Austin Scholarship to support next generation of Caymanian students in financial services

KPMG in the Cayman Islands has announced the launch of the Michael Austin Scholarship, a new annual scholarship programme designed to support high-achieving Caymanian students pursuing careers in accountancy and related fields.

The Michael Austin Scholarship, which offers a student up to US$50,000 per year to support education expenses, honors Michael Austin, MBE, FCA, a pioneering figure in the Cayman Islands' financial services profession. Mr. Austin was the founding Managing Partner of KPMG's original office in the Cayman Islands, established in 1966, and he led the firm for 23 years, laying the foundation for its growth while championing professional excellence and integrity.

Mr. Austin's career spans five decades of leadership, public service and community contribution, helping to shape both the professional services industry and the wider financial landscape of the Cayman Islands.

The Michael Austin Scholarship reflects Mr. Austin's values of leadership, service and commitment to local education. The scholarship will be offered to a Caymanian student who displays strong academic achievements, a commitment to serving others in the community or at school, a robust work ethic, and strong leadership qualities. The recipient must possess an interest in pursuing an undergraduate degree overseas with intentions of a future career in accounting in the Cayman Islands. The scholarship offers up to US$50,000 per year to be used towards standard tuition, textbooks, airfare, room and board, for a maximum duration of five years.

Beyond financial assistance, the scholarship is a long-term investment in local talent and the next generation of Caymanian professionals contributing to the continued success of financial services in the Cayman Islands.

This aim reflects Mr. Austin's influence which extended far beyond the firm, including serving as the first President of the Cayman Islands Institute of Professional Accountants, Chairman of the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority, and Chairman of the Auditors Oversight Authority. In recognition of his outstanding service, Mr. Austin was awarded an MBE by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II in 1990.

Speaking on the launch, Wanda Mellano, Managing Partner, KPMG in the Cayman Islands, said: "Michael Austin's legacy is deeply woven into both KPMG and the Cayman Islands' financial services community. This scholarship is not only a tribute to his extraordinary contribution over many years, but an investment in the future of our local talent and the continued strength of the accounting profession in the Cayman Islands."

Applications for the Michael Austin Scholarship are now open. Full eligibility criteria and application details can be found on KPMG's Graduates and Students webpage here: Scholarships - KPMG Cayman Islands

Honoring the Past, Celebrating the Present: Cayman's Class of 1975 Reunion

► Maria McLaughlin and Arvella Bodden

was more than just a dinner—it was a journey back in time, a chance to relive memories, honor those who had passed, and rejoice in the enduring bonds of friendship.

The reunion had been planned for October of last year, but Hurricane Melissa forced a postponement. “This has been a long time coming,” said Allison Bodden, “It’s turned out really well. We have a Memorial Wall full of pictures of classmates who have passed away, and a display of items from the 70s—Sugar Daddy, Blow Pops—things that bring back so many fond memories.”

That Memorial Wall stood outside the dining room, quietly commanding attention. It was both solemn and celebratory, a reminder of the 29 classmates who are no longer here, but whose presence was felt in every embrace, every laugh, every tear. Inside, the atmosphere was filled with chatter, hugs, and bursts of laughter as classmates reunited after decades apart.

The evening unfolded with live music from Burman Scott their melodies weaving seamlessly into the hum of conversation. Guests were invited to take the microphone, sharing stories that transported everyone back to their school days on Walkers Road, where the current John Gray High School now stands.

For Kathy Bodden, who was Kathy Ebanks back then, the memories were vivid. “We’d go to one classroom and it would already be occupied, or we’d go to another and there’d be no teacher. Some of us even had classes under the trees. But we made it—we survived—and we all graduated.” She remembered the dedication of teachers like Mrs. Holts, their drama teacher for whom she and her cousin traveled from North Side on Saturday mornings.

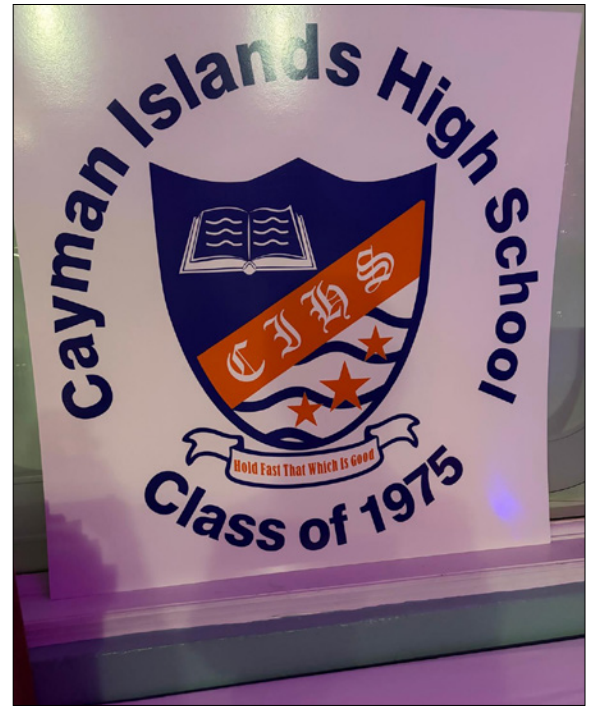

Sherryl Miller echoed that sense of resilience and camaraderie. “We didn’t have the kind of facilities you see today, but we were like one big family.” She recalled cooking classes with Mrs. Whitefield, lessons that stayed with her long after graduation.

The reunion was not only about classmates but also about honoring the educators who shaped their journey. Mr. Bland and Rev. John Gray were remembered as principals who guided the school through its formative years. Eight teachers joined the celebration, a testament to the enduring bonds between students and mentors.

Carla McLaughlin reflected on the scale of their class: “We had a class of 99 graduates back in 1975. We started in 1970, though not everyone finished. Tonight, we have 48 classmates and significant others here, along with eight of our teachers. We are ever so thankful to be able to celebrate 50 years since we graduated.”

For many, the night was about reconnecting with people they hadn’t seen since graduation. “It’s nice to see classmates we haven’t seen since we graduated,” said Judy McTaggart, standing beside Susan Wilson. “We’re celebrating life and looking forward to the rest of the evening.”

The Cayman Islands High School Class of 1975 finally had their long-awaited reunion, fifty years after walking across the stage as graduates. The celebration, held at The Wharf Restaurant in George Town,

The reunion was a tapestry of emotions—joy at seeing old friends, nostalgia for the days when classes were held under trees, gratitude for teachers who gave their time, and sorrow for those who are gone but not forgotten. The Memorial Wall, the sweets from the 70s, the music, the speeches—all combined to create an atmosphere that was both celebratory and deeply moving.

As the night drew on, laughter mingled with tears, and the bonds of fifty years ago felt as strong as ever. The Class of '75 had been pioneers, navigating a new comprehensive system of education, sometimes improvising with outdoor classrooms, but always pulling together as a family. That spirit of resilience and unity carried them through then, and it carried them through now, as they celebrated half a century of shared history.

In the end, the reunion was not just about looking back—it was about cherishing the present. It was about gratitude for life, for friendship, for the teachers who shaped them, and for the classmates who stood beside them. It was about remembering those who are gone, while celebrating those who remain. And it was about the simple, profound joy of being together again, fifty years later, still bound by the memories of youth and the enduring strength of community.

Seahawks focus on Super Bowl

► Sam Darnold is intent on getting to the Super Bowl again

The NFL is down to its final four and the route to Super Bowl 60 now runs through Denver and Seattle.

The Denver Broncos and Seattle Seahawks will retain the home-field advantage they earned as No.1 seeds in their respective conferences. The Broncos defeated the Buffalo Bills 33-30 in an overtime thriller, while the Seahawks destroyed the San Francisco 49ers 41-6.

Now the two favourites will try to hold off competition from their lower-seeded opponents in the AFC and NFC championship games

The Seahawks remain the Super Bowl

60 favourites partly because they have the best defense. Seahawks quarterback Sam Darnold is getting ready for the biggest game of his career against the Los Angeles Rams.

While Darnold has appeared in the Super Bowl before, he was a backup quarterback for the San Francisco 49ers. This weekend, he'll have a chance to start in the NFC Championship against the Rams, who eliminated him last year when he was with the Minnesota Vikings.

The Rams were able to survive freezing conditions in Chicago to earn a 20-17 overtime victory over the Bears on a game-winning kick by Harrison Mevis. Matthew Stafford had a mixed game in the cold but is still playing at an MVP level.

The New England Patriots defense has been dominant in the post-season. The Patriots held the Chargers to three points in the wild-card round before forcing the Texans into five turnovers in a 28-16 divisional-round win. But Drake Maye had four fumbles against Houston. He needs to improve against the Broncos who earned a narrow, overtime win over the Buffalo Bills to earn their first playoff win since Super Bowl 50.

It came at a cost, however, as Bo Nix's season was ended by an ankle injury. Denver will turn to Jarrett Stidham – who hasn't attempted a pass since 2023 – to lead it.

LeBron snubbed but may still earn All-Star inclusion

► LeBron James wants to play in the All-Star game

Los Angeles Lakers' LeBron James has been left out of an NBA All-Star game for the first since 2004, ending a record 21-year run as a starter.

James missed the 2025 NBA All-Star game due to foot and ankle injuries, marking the first time he had been selected but did not play at the event.

James, a four-time NBA champion and the league's all-time leading scorer, was unlikely to be voted a starter after a disrupted start to the season in which he was sidelined for the first 14 games with sciatica.

Despite the snub, James can still earn selection as a reserve. NBA coaches will determine the final seven players from each conference and their selections will be revealed on February 1.

The All-Star Game this year marks the debut of the US v World format on February 15 at the home of the Los Angeles Clippers.

Five players from each conference were picked: Stephen Curry (Golden State), Luka Doncic (Lakers), Shai Gilgeous-Alexander (Oklahoma City), Nikola Jokic (Denver) and Victor Wembanyama (San Antonio) were selected from the Western Conference.

Giannis Antetokounmpo (Milwaukee), Jaylen Brown (Boston), Jalen Brunson (New York), Cade Cunningham (Detroit) and Tyrese Maxey (Philadelphia) will represent Eastern Conference.

AFCON hero Mane: I'll bow out after World Cup games

► Sane Mane bowed out from AFCON in style

Sadio Mane wants to play in the 2026 World Cup with Senegal, then will retire from international football. The former Liverpool and Southampton star played a key role as Senegal won the Africa Cup of Nations with a 1-0 win over Morocco in an action-packed final.

The 33-year-old forward, who plays for Al-Nassr in Saudi Arabia, scored twice and had three assists in the tournament.

Sunday's final in Rabat descended into chaos when the hosts were awarded a penalty in the eighth minute of added time, just moments after Senegal had been refused what looked like a legitimate goal with the score locked at 0-0.

Fuming Senegal boss Pape Thiaw ordered his players off the pitch, and action only resumed after Mane persuaded his teammates to return.

Real Madrid forward Brahim Diaz's weak Panenka penalty effort was easy for keeper Edouard Mendy, and Senegal claimed the AFCON crown for the second time courtesy of Pape Gueye's spectacular extra-time winner. Thiaw issued an apology for withdrawing the Senegal players from the pitch.

Lifestyle Mistakes Not to Make

In today's fast-paced world, many people are unknowingly sabotaging their health and well-being through everyday lifestyle choices. These mistakes often seem small or harmless in the moment, but over time they can lead to chronic fatigue, weight gain, stress, illness, and a reduced quality of life. The good news is that most lifestyle mistakes are preventable—and reversible—once you become aware of them. Below are five common lifestyle mistakes you should avoid if you want to live a healthier, more balanced, and more fulfilling life.

1. Neglecting Physical Activity

One of the most damaging lifestyle mistakes is living a sedentary life. Modern conveniences—cars, desk jobs, streaming services, and smartphones—have dramatically reduced the amount of daily movement most people get. Many assume that occasional exercise is enough, but long periods of inactivity can still harm your health even if you work out a few times a week.

Regular movement supports heart health, muscle strength, joint mobility, bone density, and mental well-being. When you neglect physical activity, you increase your risk of obesity, cardiovascular disease, type 2 diabetes, and depression. Exercise doesn't have to be extreme; walking, strength training, stretching, and recreational sports all count. Consistency matters more than intensity.

2. Poor Sleep Habits

Sleep is often sacrificed in the name of productivity, entertainment, or social media. Unfortunately, chronic sleep deprivation takes a serious toll on both physical and mental health. Poor sleep affects hormone regulation, immune function, memory, mood, and metabolism.

Many people make the mistake of assuming they can "catch up" on sleep during weekends, but irregular sleep patterns disrupt the body's natural rhythm. Adults should aim for seven to nine hours of quality sleep each night. Establishing a bedtime routine, limiting screen time before bed, and creating a calm sleeping environment can significantly improve sleep quality.

3. Relying on Processed and Convenience Foods

Another major lifestyle mistake is consistently choosing highly processed foods over whole, nutrient-dense options. Fast food, sugary snacks, and packaged meals are convenient, but they are often loaded with excess sugar, sodium, unhealthy fats, and artificial additives.

A diet dominated by processed foods can lead to inflammation, digestive problems, nutrient deficiencies, and increased risk of chronic diseases. Whole foods—such as fruits, vegetables, lean proteins, whole grains, and healthy fats—provide the nutrients your body needs to function optimally. While convenience foods are sometimes unavoidable, they should not be the foundation of your diet.

4. Ignoring Stress and Mental Health

Many people normalize constant stress, believing it is simply part of adult life. However, unmanaged stress can be just as harmful as poor diet or lack of exercise. Chronic stress raises cortisol levels, which can lead to weight gain, high blood pressure, sleep disturbances, anxiety, and burnout.

Ignoring mental health needs is a serious lifestyle mistake. Healthy stress management strategies—such as mindfulness, deep breathing, exercise, social connection, and setting boundaries—are essential for long-term well-being. Seeking support from a coach, counselor, or trusted friend is not a sign of weakness but of self-awareness.

5. Skipping Preventive Health Practices

Many individuals only focus on their health when something goes wrong. Skipping regular checkups, screenings, and preventive care is a common but avoidable mistake. Early detection of health issues can prevent minor problems from becoming serious conditions.

Preventive health includes routine medical visits, dental care, eye exams, proper hydration, and listening to your body's warning signs. Taking a proactive approach to health allows you to make informed decisions and maintain vitality as you age.

Lifestyle mistakes don't happen overnight, and correcting them doesn't require perfection. Small, consistent improvements in movement, sleep, nutrition, stress management, and preventive care can produce powerful long-term benefits. By avoiding these five common lifestyle mistakes, you set the foundation for a healthier body, a clearer mind, and a more energized life—today and well into the future.
