Visitor Sentenced to 18 Weeks' Imprisonment Following CBC Fraud Investigation

A 32-year-old visitor was sentenced to 18 weeks' imprisonment on Wednesday, 22 July 2026, after pleading guilty to the charge of Possession of Articles for Use to Defraud.

The defendant was arrested by Customs and Border Control (CBC) officers at the Owen Roberts International Airport on Tuesday, 16 June 2026.

During an examination of his luggage, CBC officers discovered several electronic devices, including equipment suspected of being used for card-skimming activities.

Numerous credit cards and other items were also found concealed among his belongings.

The investigation was conducted by CBC investigators in close collaboration with the Royal Cayman Islands Police Service (RCIPS). The successful prosecution reflects the continued cooperation between the two agencies in detecting, investigating, and disrupting financial and other criminal activity at the Cayman Islands' borders.

CUC Partners with Department of Financial Assistance for 60th Anniversary Initiative

As part of its 60th anniversary celebrations, Caribbean Utilities Company, Ltd. (“CUC”) has partnered with the Department of Financial Assistance to support vulnerable families in preparing for the 2026 hurricane season.

For six decades, CUC has remained committed to serving the people of Grand Cayman.

With safety as its top priority, the Company identified an opportunity to give back in a meaningful way by helping at-risk individuals access essential hurricane preparedness supplies during this critical time of year. “Giving back to our community is something we are truly passionate about,” said Mr.

Richard Hew, President and CEO of Caribbean Utilities Company, Ltd. “Whether through community events, youth development, or supporting those in need, CUC recognises the important role we play in strengthening the resilience of our community.” Ms. Tamara Hurlston, Director of the Department of Financial Assistance, said, “I thank CUC for honouring their 60th Anniversary with a meaningful donation of gift cards to help our clients secure critical hurricane season supplies. CUC’s partnership and commitment to community resilience remain invaluable, and we acknowledge their continued support with deep gratitude.” The Honourable Issac Rankine, JP, MP and Minister for Social Development & Innovation and Minister for Youth, Sports, Culture and Heritage commented on the collaboration and stated, “Supporting families in need remains a priority for the National Coalition for Caymanians (“NCF”) Government, and this generous donation will further reinforce our efforts to help families enhance their hurricane preparedness. I extend my sincere appreciation to CUC for this meaningful contribution to the well-being of the families we serve and the safety of our islands. The donation from CUC will play a meaningful role in strengthening efforts to assist families in enhancing their readiness for the hurricane season. This truly reflects the value of partnership and the spirit of community that make initiatives like this possible.” In support of this initiative, CUC donated C$20,000.00 in gift cards from a combination of grocery and hardware stores which will be distributed to families to assist with purchasing essential hurricane supplies on Grand Cayman and in the Sister Islands.

CCRIF Board Holds First Meeting Under New Chair Sandra Bailey and Deputy Chair, Dr. Michael Gayle

At its first meeting under newly appointed Chair Sandra Bailey, on July 8, the Board of CCRIF SPC considered a full agenda of governance and operational matters, among them the Organization's updated Strategic Plan to 2030, which the Board approved.

In her opening remarks to the Board and Management, Mrs. Bailey said, "This first meeting under our new Board leadership signals CCRIF's continued commitment to strong governance, innovation and regional resilience. I look forward to working with my colleagues on the Board, the CCRIF management and wider team, our service providers, and our development partners to deliver meaningful impact for the people we serve."

Mrs. Bailey, who assumed the chairmanship on 1 June 2026, was joined by newly appointed Deputy Chair, Dr. Michael Gayle, who has served on the CCRIF Board since 2019 and is Chief Executive Officer of the Cayman Islands National Insurance Company (CIN-ICO). With more than 46 years of insurance experience, Dr. Gayle also serves as Chairman of the Management Committee of CWUIC SP, the Caribbean Water Utility Insurance Collective - one of the two management committees of the CCRIF Board, bringing deep sector expertise to CCRIF's governance. Together, the appointments of Chair Bailey and Deputy Chair Gayle come at an important juncture for CCRIF and the region's resilience financing agenda.

Plan to 2030 charts CCRIF's course as the world's leading development insurer. Born from crisis in 2007 and now nearly two decades into its work, CCRIF has grown from a sovereign risk pool into a systemic enabler of resilience, linking quick liquidity within 14 days of a natural disaster to development outcomes such as education continuity; health-system, tourism and agriculture recovery; safeguarding critical infrastructure; and protecting the most vulnerable. The Strategic Plan has five strategic objectives, spanning innovative parametric insurance products, member and stakeholder engagement, resilience and capacity building, scaling access to close the protection gap, and financial sustainability. It sets out five flagship initiatives to deliver impact at scale, including a regional data and modelling ecosystem and expanded last-mile delivery of protection to vulnerable communities.

In reflecting on the new board leadership he will work with in the coming years, CCRIF CEO, Mr. Isaac Anthony, added, "Chair Bailey and Deputy Chair Gayle bring deep technical expertise, considerable managerial experience and a shared commitment to resilience and equity. Together with the Board, we are focused on long-term change - anchored in innovation, expanded access and financial sustainability, so that parametric insurance becomes a widely understood and accessible tool for governments, utilities, other sectors and communities."

Guyana ferry tragedy questions remain

Members of the Guyanese community here in Cayman are mourning with relatives at home and the wider diaspora as they try to come to terms with a maritime tragedy that has taken dozens of lives in their homeland.

A packed ferry, named the MV Barima, was travelling between the capital Georgetown and the port of Kaituma when it capsized off the Essequibo coast. According to reports, the vessel was carrying around 179 passengers, with updates to the death toll now indicating that over 100 may have perished.

According to reports, 76 passengers were rescued, and of those believed to have perished, around 40 bodies have been positively identified.

Over a week and a half after the tragedy, which occurred on the weekend of July 18th, the search continues with the Guyanese authorities being assisted mainly by naval resources provided by the governments of Brazil and Trinidad and Tobago.

The Guyana authorities say a full investigation has been launched and the vessel's captain and senior crew have been detained.

One line of investigation is said to be aimed at determining if the vessel, launched 87 years ago, was actually fit for service, and if the operators and owners were in compliance with national and international regulations.

There are conflicting reports about the condition of the MV Barima and whether it was overloaded with passengers and cargo at the time of the tragedy. Some media reports suggest that although its manifest listed 133 people, authorities now believe as many as 179 were aboard. However, it's also reported that the vessel underwent extensive maintenance in 2024.

The Guyana government declared three days of national mourning from July 22nd to July 24th, with flags being flown at half-mast.

The MV Barima tragedy has been described by Guyana's Prime Minister Mark Phillips as "one of the darkest moments in Guyana's history". It's also believed to be one of the worst maritime disasters in the Caribbean.

Proactive Heart Checks Offer Peace of Mind for HSA Patient

For Kim Gardiner, experiencing heart palpitations, chest pains, and knowing her family history of heart disease were clear signals that she needed to check on her heart health.

According to the Cayman Islands' Compendium of Statistics, cardiovascular diseases are the leading cause of death, accounting for 35.8% of all fatalities in 2024. This is an increase of 8.8% from 2022; therefore, Ms. Gardiner's concerns were not too trivial to be ignored.

Following her consultation with Health Services Authority's (HSA) Consultant Cardiologist Dr. Brian Noronha, he recommended Computerised Tomography (CT) Coronary Angiography and Calcium Scoring tests to assess for blockages and calcium buildup. These tests showed an incidental finding of an aortic aneurysm.

An aortic aneurysm is a bulge or ballooning in the wall of the aorta, the largest artery in the body. The aorta carries blood from the heart to the rest of your body. If ruptured, an aortic aneurysm can lead to life-threatening complications.

Following this result, Ms. Gardiner continues to maintain scheduled cardiology assessments with Dr. Noronha, including undergoing an echocardiogram (heart ultrasound) to monitor the size of her heart. These assessments, she admits, have given her "peace of mind".

Ms. Gardiner's proactive approach is exactly what Dr. Noronha hopes to see more of among Cayman Islands residents. "Early diagnosis and treatment are often a result of the patient taking on a strict healthcare regimen, following up with their general practitioner, eating healthily and being active," he explains.

At the HSA, non-invasive CT Coronary Angiography and Calcium Scoring are key tools for early cardiovascular screening. Performed using a CT scanner, these tests are recommended for men over 40, women over 45, smokers or ex-smokers, persons with a family history of heart disease, diabetes, high cholesterol, high blood pressure and those with a sedentary lifestyle.

"Outside of prevention, early detection of cardiovascular diseases provides opportunities for early specialist intervention, offsetting various related diseases that may prove debilitating and costly," Dr. Noronha highlights. "The availability of advanced imaging equipment at the HSA provides an opportunity to be proactive in patients' risk assessment. With CT Calcium Scoring, we can stratify patients' risk before symptoms even appear, and CT coronary angiography allows us to noninvasively pinpoint blockages when further investigation is needed."

CT Calcium Scoring uses a non-contrast CT scan to measure the buildup of calcium, an early sign of atherosclerosis, in the coronary arteries. The widely used procedure to assess a patient's cardiovascular risk takes five to 10 minutes to complete.

"The scan was easy; I just lay there," indicated Ms. Gardiner of her experience of undergoing the test. "They put an IV in my arm to give me contrast. The scan itself was painless and fast. Quick, easy and peace of mind. It's all about prevention. That is the key!"

Data from the Ministry of Health's STEPS 2023 National Health Survey indicate that 3.7% of the population reported having a heart attack or chest pain from heart disease (angina). The survey further highlights the increased risk of experiencing cardiovascular diseases for persons aged 45-69, almost three times more likely compared to those aged 18-44.

"In patients with elevated scores, vigorous management of blood pressure, cholesterol, diabetes, and smoking cessation can significantly reduce the likelihood of a heart attack. Patients with no calcium detection should repeat the test after five years, but we still advise them to maintain a healthy diet and exercise. Where patients have risk factors, we may follow up with a CT Coronary Angiography," Dr. Noronha stated.

Unlike CT Calcium Scoring, the CT Coronary Angiography test utilises an intravenous injection of contrast dye to highlight the coronary arteries, enabling radiologists to identify narrowing or blockages. The test is usually performed after an overnight fast and does not require the insertion of tubes or catheters into the heart arteries.

If significant narrowing is detected, patients are referred for an invasive coronary angiogram using coronary catheters, where blockages can be treated with stents or, in some cases, bypass surgery.

Dr. Noronha is a member of the Royal College of Physicians, London and the Royal College of Physicians, Ireland. He completed his doctorate in medicine at King's College London and his specialist training in Internal Medicine and Cardiology in Liverpool and London.

His clinical interests include transthoracic echocardiography, exercise and dobutamine stress echocardiography, transesophageal echocardiography, cardiac computed tomography, knowledge of nuclear stress tests, implantable loop recorders, radial and femoral angiography, single- and dual-chamber pacemakers, and ICD and pacemaker battery replacements.

Food, Nutrition & Inflammation: Cooking for Better Health

How You Cook Matters: The Best and Worst Cooking Methods for Managing Inflammation

Part 2 of a two-part series on Food, Nutrition and Inflammation.

By Sandra A Farrell, Public Health Nutritionist.

What is Inflammation?

Inflammation, is a term that literally means “to set on fire,” and represents the body’s innate response to harmful pathogens and stimuli. This response can be classified into two stages: acute and chronic inflammation.

The way you cook your food, can make a difference to the inflammation caused in your body.

Cooking methods can make a difference

The best methods for cooking are those that are considered ‘gentle’ – keeping the foods you’re cooking, intact as possible. Some cooking methods will destroy nutrients in your foods, whereas others will help keep all the goodness in as far as possible. Many foods are susceptible to damage when cooked at high temperatures.

Grilling

Foods such as fish and vegetable skewers are well suited to grilling because they require minimal cooking time, reducing their exposure to intense heat.

Meat typically requires longer cooking times, which can lead to the loss of some nutrients. Cooking meat at high temperatures such as barbecuing, can produce heterocyclic amines (HCAs), compounds that may promote inflammation and contribute to other physiological changes in the body. Reduce inflammatory effects by marinating lean cuts of meat.

Poaching

Why not try poaching, when it comes to cooking meat? Again, no oil is added and the meat is not exposed to high temperatures. You can poach in stock or water and add herbs and spices to your water base to infuse added flavours. Poaching heats the meat gently, retaining nutrients.

Stir frying

Stir frying, quickly cooks food with little to no oil. As you keep the food moving around the pan as it is cooking, you’re helping it to cook much quicker and retain nutrients, especially in your vegetables.

Steaming

Steaming is a healthy and effective way to cook, as it’s very gentle to the food and doesn’t need any added oil. A steamer pot keeps the food out of the water, allowing the hot steam to circulate and cook the food. This is a useful way to do your vegetables, as they don’t need long, so keep an eye on them and ensure they don’t overcook.

Baking

Baking is a healthful cooking method as long as you’re not adding lots of oil and heating the food at very high temperatures. Baking in the middle of the oven provides the most even circulation of heat and acts as a safe zone ensuring that food bakes evenly. Additionally, adding moisture can be beneficial, as it involves simply adding vegetables to the bottom of your cooking dish and adding protein on top, away from the base of the dish.

Frying

In general, frying isn’t an ideal cooking method due to the amount of oil needed as well as the high cooking temperatures.

The Anti-Inflammatory effects of culinary herbs and spices

Culinary herbs and spices provide more than just flavour. Many of them have documented anti-inflammatory properties due to polyphenols and other phytochemicals that modulate inflammatory pathways.

Research suggests that culinary herbs and spices can have anti-inflammatory properties and may help reduce inflammation in the body, particularly when included as part of a nutrient-rich diet.

Raw foods

Eating some raw foods can be beneficial as part of an anti-inflammatory diet. Cooking can decrease certain nutrients in food, especially water soluble ones like vitamin C and B vitamins. Foods to eat include fresh fruits, raw vegetables, raw nuts and seeds, dried fruits, raw grains and legumes, sprouted or soaked, fermented foods like sauerkraut and kimchi, seaweed and sprouts.

Including a salad adds extra nutrients to your meal. Include a variety of ingredients such as spinach, kale, radish, carrot, avocado, cucumber, pepper and pomegranate seeds. Increase the benefits, by adding a drizzle of extra virgin olive oil and a squeeze of lemon juice.

Healthy eating habits to reduce inflammation

A diet rich in colourful foods emphasising fruits, vegetables, nuts, whole grains, fish and healthy oils is considered by experts at the Harvard School of Public Health, to be one of the most beneficial anti-inflammatory eating patterns.

Key Takeaways on Food, Nutrition & Inflammation

(Parts 1 and 2 of the series)

Maintain a healthy lifestyle through good nutrition, quality sleep, regular exercise and effective stress management.

The most effective anti-inflammatory approaches, include a combination of raw and cooked foods.

Enhance meals with culinary herbs and spices including thyme, turmeric, garlic and ginger.

The best cooking methods to reduce inflammation are those that use lower temperatures and add moisture such as steaming and poaching.

Cayman start with double splash

Team Cayman began the Commonwealth Games in Glasgow impressively on Friday night. They delivered a brilliant opening session in the pool, rewriting the record books twice.

In the men's 4x100 metres freestyle relay Cayman men powered to a new national record, stopping the clock at 3 minutes 26.14 seconds which eclipsed the previous mark of 3:27.63 set at CARIFTA 2023.

Similarly, in the women's 4x100m free-style relay, after breaking the national record in Friday morning's heats, they returned that night and smashed it again, posting 3:56.61 and racing to a superb 7thplace finish.

In the individual events, James Allison was second in his heat in the 50m freestyle on Saturday. Kyra Rabess was third in her women's 400m freestyle heat. Harper Barrowman won her heat in the women's 200m free. Both Barrowman and Rabess swam well in the 1500m free. Sierrah Broadbelt had a strong swim in her 100m backstroke heat and gained immense experience in the semi-final. She also swam well in the 200m backstroke and the 50m butterfly. Luke Higo was sixth in the men's 200m backstroke and seventh in the 200m individual medley. He was also in the 50m backstroke and 50m free. Daniel Kish was busy too, competing in the men's 100m butterfly. Connor MacDonald was third in the men's 400m free. Will Sellars competed in the 200m back, 400m free and won his heat in the 50m backstroke. Riley Watson swam brilliantly in the women's 200m backstroke for third in her heat. She was also in the 200m IM.

► The men's relay team smashed the record

Spencer improves personal best in All-Round

Cayman gymnast Justin Spencer turned in a brilliant performance on Friday, hitting a new personal best in the All-Around and delivering one of his strongest international outings to date.

Spencer looked confident across all apparatus, showing the poise and consistency that have defined his rise through the sport. His 65.1 points result marks a major milestone for Cayman gymnastics and caps years of hard work, discipline, and steady improvement.

Officials say Spencer's performance is another sign of Cayman's growing presence on the Commonwealth stage, and they praised his commitment and professionalism throughout the competition.

► Justin Spencer performed incredibly well

Hoop dreams popped but fighting spirit still strong

The Cayman 3x3 men's basketball team were competitive but got edged out by Nigeria (21-17), Scotland (22-13) and Guyana (21-17). From the opening possession until the final basket, Cayman stood toe-to-toe with Nigeria in a contest that had fans on the edge of their seats. Every run was answered. Every possession mattered. The game remained neck-and-neck throughout, with the crowd fully engaged as our players refused to back down against one of the tournament favourites.

Nigeria's superior size eventually proved to be the difference. Their ability to secure several key offensive rebounds created second-chance scoring opportunities at crucial moments, allowing them to narrowly edge ahead in the closing stages. Yet even with that advantage, Cayman never stopped fighting.

Cayman displayed incredible composure, resilience, and belief, matching Nigeria's intensity possession after possession. Their defensive pressure, ball movement, and relentless effort demonstrated that Cayman is capable of competing with some of the very best teams in the Commonwealth.

The women's 3x3 team also found it tough, losing to the gigantic Fiji (16-6), Uganda (21-7) and Jamaica (21-5). Against Fiji, taking a quality international team the entire length of the game is a testament to the resilience, toughness, and competitive spirit of the Cayman women. Their effort on the defensive end was outstanding, and they demonstrated that they are capable of competing with established basketball nations on one of the world's biggest stages.

Every possession reflected the pride of wearing the Cayman Islands jersey. Every defensive stop, loose ball, and hustle play reinforced the culture that this team is building—a culture founded on determination, unity, and never giving up.

Minister for District Administration and Home Affairs, the Honourable Nickolas DaCosta, said, "This successful prosecution sends a clear and unequivocal warning to anyone who believes they can come to the Cayman Islands to prey on our people or profit from criminal activity: do not come. You will be detected, arrested and brought before our courts. The Cayman Islands is not a soft target.

This case demonstrates the continued transformation of Customs and Border Control into an intelligence-led border security agency, working closely with its law enforcement partners to identify, disrupt and prevent criminal threats before they reach our communities. 2 Our Government remains committed to ensuring CBC has the people, technology, powers and resources it needs to protect our borders, strengthen national security and keep the Cayman Islands a safe place to live, work, visit and do business."

CBC Director Marlon Bodden said, "This outcome demonstrates the vigilance, professionalism, and commitment of our officers in identifying and intercepting individuals who may seek to use the Cayman Islands as a conduit for criminal activity.

It also underscores the importance of strong collaboration among our law enforcement partners. I thank our colleagues at RCIPS for their valuable assistance throughout this investigation.

CBC will continue to work closely with its partners to protect our borders, combat financial crime, and safeguard the Cayman Islands community." CBC remains committed to preventing the importation of prohibited, restricted, and illicit items and to detecting and disrupting criminal activity across all ports of entry.

Two men charged with Importation of Cocaine, other Drugs and Firearm offences

Following an individual & detailed search of the suspicious packages recovered on a vessel, intercepted by the Cayman Islands Coast Guard and RCIPS' Air Operations Unit, along the southern coastline of Grand Cayman on Friday, 29 May, the police can confirm that concealed within the recovered parcels containing 505 pounds of ganja was a quantity of cocaine weighing 10 kilograms and small quantities of other illicit substances, ketamine and MDMA weighing less than one kilogram, along with a firearm and several rounds of assorted ammunition.

"This significant recovery demonstrates the impact of a major investment in law enforcement capabilities to disrupt the flow of illegal drugs, firearms and ammunition through our islands," said Commissioner Walton.

"The RCIPS continues to work closely with our local and international law enforcement partners to maintain a zero-tolerance approach to drug and firearms trafficking and will continue to apply all necessary resources to combat this criminal activity." The two men, age 44 and age 22, who were found on board the vessel and arrested, were both formally charged with Importation of Ganja. The 22-year-old was also charged with Illegal Landing in relation to the initial arrest and recovery.

They appeared before the court on 14 July, where they were further charged with Importation of Cocaine, Importation of Ketamine, Importation of MDMA (Ecstasy), Possession of An Unlicensed Firearm, and Possession of An Unlicensed Ammunition. They were remanded in custody pending a further court appearance on 29 July.

Police Investigate Burglary Incidents in North Side

Shortly after 1:30AM on Wednesday, 22 July, police responded to a report of an attempted burglary at a residence in North Side.

It is reported that a man dressed in dark clothing entered the premises through an unsecured balcony door leading to a bedroom.

The occupant, who was awake at the time, shouted at the suspect, who then fled the location in the direction of the beach.

No items were reported stolen, and no one was injured during the incident.

Police were then called to respond to a similar attempted burglary report at a residence in the community. No one was injured, and no items were reported missing.

A few minutes later, police responded to another call for service at a residence nearby.

It is reported that the occupants were inside a room when they were alerted by suspicious sounds in another section inside the premises. They shouted at the suspect, who fled the location. Afterwards, it was found that a quantity of cash and personal items had been taken

In two of the reported incidents, the suspect gained entry to the premises through doors that had been left unsecured. The RCIPS is reminding the public to ensure that all doors and windows are properly secured before going to bed or leaving their homes.

Anyone, who believes they have any relevant CCTV recording or information regarding these incidents, is encouraged to contact the Bodden Town Police Station at 947-2220.

Police Warn of the Latest SMS Phishing Scam Circulating

The Police are investigating an ongoing SMS phishing scam involving suspects purporting to be from several public and private institutions, as well as a new wave of the Post Office Parcel SMS Scam.

In the latest tactic, the suspects have been sending text messages purporting to be from a local financial institution, alerting them of unusual activity on their accounts, and instructing recipients to click on a fraudulent link to verify recent transactions and other activity. Clicking on the link can result in your financial information being compromised.

The scam remains active, with different domain addresses being included in the text messages.

The RCIPS is reminding members of the public to ignore these messages and contact their financial institutions directly to verify the legitimacy of any communication received by phone or online concerning their bank accounts.

Anyone who believes they may have mistakenly clicked on a link in a similar text message is advised to contact their financial institution immediately and report the matter to the police at 949-4222.
