Public consultation opens on proposed National Cancer Registry

Ministry of Health, Environment and Sustainability has opened public consultation on proposals to establish a National Cancer Registry for the Cayman Islands, aimed at giving the country reliable national data to better understand, prevent and respond to cancer.

The consultation, which runs from 5 October to 15 November 2026, follows the publication of the National Cancer Registry Discussion White Paper, announced in Parliament by Minister for Health, Environment and Sustainability, Hon. Katherine Ebanks-Wilks, MP.

The White Paper sets out proposals for systematically collecting and analysing information about cancer in the Cayman Islands, including cancer incidence and prevalence, treatment patterns, survival and mortality.

The Cayman Islands does not currently have comprehensive population-based cancer data to guide prevention, early detection, treatment planning and health-service delivery at a national level. Establishing a National Cancer Registry would provide a more reliable picture of the cancers affecting the population, who is being affected and how those patterns change over time.

According to 2025 figures from the Economics and Statistics Office cited by the Minister in Parliament, malignant neoplasms accounted for 20.7 per cent of deaths in the Cayman Islands, approximately one in five deaths, making cancer the second leading cause of death.

The consultation also opens during Breast Cancer Awareness Month, when increased attention is focused on prevention, screening and early detection. While the proposed Registry would capture information across all cancer types, breast cancer provides a clear example of how reliable national data can help identify trends, inform screening and prevention efforts, and support planning for the services patients need.

Minister Ebanks-Wilks said reliable national data is fundamental to strengthening Cayman's response to cancer.

"If our cancer rates are broadly consistent with regional averages, we should know that. If they are lower, we should know that too. And if Cayman has higher rates of particular cancers, we need to know that most of all."

She added: "We cannot address what we do not fully understand. We need reliable national data to understand the burden of cancer in the Cayman Islands, to make informed decisions, to strengthen prevention and screening, and to plan effectively for the future."

Turning information into action

A National Cancer Registry would allow cancer information to be examined at a population level over time. This could help identify changes in cancer incidence, patterns in the types of cancers being diagnosed and the stage at which cancers are detected. The information could then be used to inform prevention and screening programmes, health-service planning and decisions about resources.

Chief Medical Officer Dr. Hilary Wolf said a population-based registry would address an important gap in Cayman's public-health information.

"Good cancer care does not begin and end with treating an individual diagnosis. At a national level, we also need to understand the patterns behind those diagnoses: which cancers are affecting our population, who is being affected, whether people are being diagnosed early or late, and how outcomes are changing over time."

Dr. Wolf added: "A National Cancer Registry would give us a stronger evidence base for those decisions. It can help us identify where prevention and screening need to be strengthened, where further investigation may be needed and how we should plan services to meet the needs of our population."

The Minister said the purpose is ultimately to turn that information into action.

"Behind every cancer statistic is a person, a family and a future. We owe it to them to understand the true burden of cancer in our country. Cancer does not wait for us to have better data; it is affecting our people today. It is time we counted it, understood it and used that knowledge to act."

Protecting patient information

Privacy and confidentiality are central to the proposals set out in the White Paper.

Under the proposed framework, medical doctors and dentists would report specified patient and cancer information to the Cancer Registrar following the discovery of cancer. The Cancer Registrar would assign each patient a unique Cancer Registry identification number. The Registry itself would contain that unique identification number and cancer information rather than directly identifying information such as a person's name, address or date of birth.

Personal and health information would be subject to confidentiality requirements, controlled access and the requirements of the Data Protection Act (2021 Revision). The proposals also provide protections against the disclosure of confidential or identifiable Registry information through Freedom of Information requests.

Minister Ebanks-Wilks said: "Privacy and confidentiality are not an afterthought. They are core requirements of the Registry and will be embedded in its design and operation."

Public encouraged to have their say

The White Paper is a discussion document. The Ministry is encouraging cancer patients and survivors, families and caregivers, healthcare professionals, community organisations and members of the wider public to review the proposals and provide feedback.

Feedback received during the consultation will inform consideration of the proposals and the development of the next steps. The Ministry will also engage directly with healthcare providers, cancer organisations and other stakeholders during the consultation period.

Minister Ebanks-Wilks said:

"I encourage everyone to take the time to read the White Paper and give us their views. Cancer touches families across our Islands, and the development of a National Cancer Registry should be informed by the people it is ultimately intended to serve."

The Minister has stated her intention to bring a National Cancer Registry Bill before Parliament in January.

The public consultation is open from 5 October, until 15 November 2026.

Robert Tatum promoted to Director of Central Procurement Office

Robert Tatum has been promoted to Director of the Central Procurement Office, becoming the first Caymanian appointed to lead the Office. He succeeds Taraq Bashir, who is retiring.

Mr. Tatum joined the CPO as Procurement Manager on 6 May 2019 and was promoted to Deputy Director on 22 January 2024. He holds a Master's Degree in Operations and Supply Chain Management from the University of Liverpool, the MCIPS professional designation from the Chartered Institute of Procurement and Supply, and an ILM Level 5 Certificate in Leadership and Management.

He has also recently completed the International Master's in Public Procurement Management programme at the University of Rome Tor Vergata, graduating at the top of his class. Mr. Tatum was the first Caymanian to undertake the programme and attended with support from a Caribbean Development Bank scholarship. The course covered the full public procurement cycle, including planning, complaints, sustainable procurement and anti-corruption, while exposing participants to procurement systems used around the world.

Reflecting on the programme, Mr. Tatum said, "One of my key takeaways was that no country has a perfect system and there is no one-size-fits-all solution. What is right for the Cayman Islands must be considered in our own context. The experience expanded my thinking beyond rule-making as the main way to achieve compliance and positive outcomes. I would like us to build a system where compliance is the minimum standard, with clear incentives and benefits for going above and beyond."

As Director, Mr. Tatum intends to advance the professionalisation of procurement across the public service, build on the technology already supporting the function, and strengthen the CPO's capacity to assist entities with pre-procurement planning and post-procurement contract management.

Financial Secretary and Ministry of Finance & Economic Development Chief Officer Kenneth Jefferson said, "Robert's promotion is well deserved and reflects his strong performance, commitment to public service and sustained investment in his professional development. His appointment as the first Caymanian Director of the CPO is an important milestone, and I am confident that he will continue strengthening the public procurement function across Government. I also extend my sincere thanks to Taraq for his leadership, his commitment to developing Caymanian talent and his dedicated service as he prepares to retire."

Outgoing CPO Director Taraq Bashir said, "It has been a pleasure to watch Robert grow and develop since he joined the CPO in 2019. He has consistently invested in his professional development and applied that learning to strengthen our work. Robert has the knowledge, judgement and commitment to lead the Office, and I am delighted to see him take on this role. I retire confident that the CPO and the wider public procurement function will be in very capable hands."

Mr. Tatum thanked his family, the CPO team, the Caribbean Development Bank, Mr. Bashir and the Ministry for supporting his development. He added, "Without procurement, Government would not be able to deliver many of its services and obligations to the country. Procurement is the machine that turns public dollars into delivery, and my goal is to ensure that machine is as efficient as possible. I am honoured by the confidence placed in me and proud to take public procurement forward as the first Caymanian Director of the CPO."

Special Economic Zone Strengthens Cayman's Economy

Cayman Enterprise City has marked a major milestone at the Tech Futures Week Innovation Summit recently announcing that 500 Special Economic Zone (SEZ) businesses are now operating within its growing ecosystem. This is a significant new chapter in Cayman's ongoing efforts to diversify its economy and expand local participation in high-growth global industries.

"Reaching 500 Special Economic Zone businesses is a significant milestone, not only for Cayman Enterprise City, but for the Cayman Islands," said Hon. André M. Ebanks MP, Premier and Minister for Financial Services & Commerce. "The steady growth of the Zone demonstrates our ability to attract expertise, creative industries with international capital, while creating meaningful opportunities for Cayman. As we work to build a more innovative and resilient economy, it is important that tangible benefits are produced for our people through high-value careers, opportunities for Caymanian entrepreneurs and businesses, knowledge transfer and greater access to the industries shaping the global economy. Accordingly, I congratulate CEC on reaching this milestone and look forward to seeing more opportunities this growing ecosystem continues to create for Cayman and Caymanians."

According to CEC's latest independent Socio-Economic Impact Assessment by Marla Dukharan, the Zone has generated more than US$1.23 billion in cumulative economic impact since 2012. In 2025 alone, its economic footprint reached US$152.3 million, equivalent to more than US$417,000 flowing into Cayman's economy every day, while salary-driven local consumption contributed US$51.6 million to the domestic marketplace.

"Five hundred knowledge- and technology-focused businesses operating from within the SEZ is an important milestone, but what matters most is what it represents for the future of Cayman and its economy," said Charlie Kirkconnell, Chief Executive Officer of Cayman Enterprise City. "Every business that establishes a genuine physical presence here brings investment, expertise, employment, innovative ideas and international connections to the country. At scale, that creates something much bigger: new industries, expanding opportunities for local businesses, new career paths and greater opportunities for Caymanians to participate in some of the world's most important growth sectors."

CEC was established in 2011, in the aftermath of the global financial crisis, to support Cayman's economic diversification by attracting globally focused businesses operating in knowledge-intensive and strategically selected industries. Today, its Special Economic Zone (SEZ) ecosystem supports businesses across 25 specialised industries, including artificial intelligence, FinTech, virtual assets, commodities production and trading, aviation, BlueTech, cybersecurity, enterprise technology and software, film and media, and MedTech.

CEC delivers more than 200 curated events annually, creating opportunities for companies, entrepreneurs and professionals to build relationships, exchange knowledge and participate more broadly in Cayman's business and innovation community.

The benefits of that activity are increasingly visible across the domestic economy.

In 2025, CEC did business with 164 local companies, channeling US$10.7 million into Cayman businesses across professional services, banking, insurance, real estate, utilities, transport, logistics, marketing, media, food and beverage and other services. CEC operates Cayman's only Special Economic Zone under a transparent legislative and regulatory framework established in Cayman Islands law and overseen by a dedicated Statutory Authority. Qualifying businesses can establish a genuine physical presence through a streamlined four-to-six-week licensing process, with access to serviced office solutions, flat-rate licensing and work visa costs and import duty concessions for qualifying business equipment. Key concessions available to qualifying SEZ businesses are guaranteed through 2061, providing businesses with the long-term certainty required to invest, establish teams and plan for future growth.

"Cayman has built something genuinely distinctive," said Kirkconnell. "We have created a Caymanian-grown platform where globally ambitious businesses can establish with confidence, while ensuring that their presence can contribute meaningfully to the country they become part of. Reaching 500 businesses demonstrates the strength of that model. Our focus now is ensuring that as this ecosystem grows, the opportunities it creates for Cayman's economy, businesses and workforce grow with it."

New Cayman Islands Coins Set For Release.

The Cayman Islands Monetary Authority has unveiled an exclusive first look at the new 2026 Cayman Islands circulating coins. All four denominations (25c, 10c, 5c, and 1c) have been expertly minted by Monnaie de Paris, reflecting the Authority's commitment to quality, tradition, and international craftsmanship.

For the first time, the obverse side of each coin features a portrait of His Majesty King Charles III, symbolising a new chapter for the Cayman Islands. While the portrait has been updated, the coin weights, dimensions, metallic alloys, and the iconic reverseside designs remain unchanged, preserving the familiar look and feel of Cayman's circulating currency.

The new coins will begin entering circulation next week. Coins featuring Her Late Majesty Queen Elizabeth II will continue to be legal tender and are expected to circulate alongside the new 2026 series for the foreseeable future.

CIMA Acting Chief Executive Officer, Mr. Patrick Bodden, welcomed the anticipated release, noting, "Our national currency is more than a medium of exchange, it reflects our history, our identity, and our connection to the wider world. The introduction of these new coins marks an important moment for the Cayman Islands, and we are proud to share this transition with the community."

Updates on the official release date will be shared on the Authority's website. A limited edition collector's set, featuring all four denominations sealed in a blister pack, will also be available for purchase later this year, offering the public a unique opportunity to commemorate this historic change.

Mosquito Counts Fall as Control Efforts Continue

The Mosquito Research and Control Unit (MRCU) reports a significant decline in mosquito counts as control efforts continue across the Cayman Islands. Light trap counts in Grand Cayman have fallen from approximately 41,000 mosquitoes on 3 October to approximately 10,000 in the count recorded on 7 October, a reduction of approximately 75%. Mosquito numbers in the Sister Islands are also declining as control operations continue in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

This is encouraging progress, but mosquito numbers remain high. The improvement is unlikely to be noticeable to the public at this stage, with elevated biting rates continuing and heavy biting still reported in some areas. MRCU will continue working to reduce numbers further over the coming days.

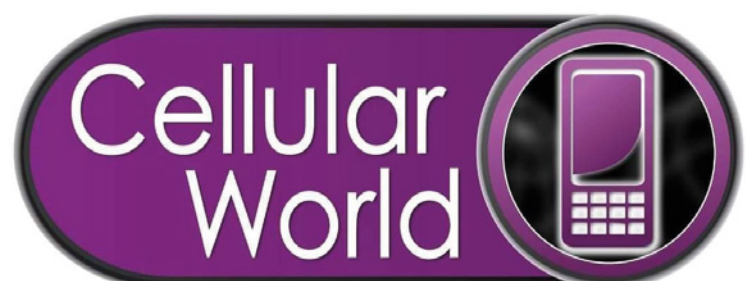

MRCU's operational aircraft has reached its 100-hour maintenance interval and has been taken out of service for its mandatory inspection. The inspection is expected to take approximately two weeks. During this period, aerial adult mosquito control operations will be unavailable, and ground control operations will continue.

MRCU's second aircraft remains grounded while awaiting a replacement part that is not readily available. It will return to service once the part is received and installed and the necessary maintenance checks are completed.

The ongoing ground response includes truck fogging, thermal fogging, larviciding, surveillance and targeted treatments. Teams continue to identify breeding areas, treat larvae before they emerge and reduce adult mosquito populations.

This work is labour intensive, particularly without aerial support. Teams are working during the day and into the evening, often in hot and difficult conditions, to continue bringing mosquito numbers down.

MRCU understands the frustration residents are experiencing. Recent rainfall and high tides have created extensive breeding conditions, and new mosquitoes can continue to emerge even after treatment has taken place. MRCU asks for the public's patience and understanding as teams continue working across the Cayman Islands to bring mosquito numbers back under control.

Older Persons Council's Landmark Report Tabled in Parliament

The Minister for Social Development and Innovation, Honourable Isaac Rankine, tabled the Older Persons Council's first comprehensive Report since its establishment in Parliament on Friday, 2 October 2026, during the Third Sitting of the Second Meeting of the 2026-2027 Session of Parliament. Covering the period 2017 to 2025, the Report documents the council's work over the past eight years and sets out recommendations to strengthen policies, services and protections for older persons. The Report can be accessed via the Ministry and Older Persons Council's website via gov.ky/msdi and gov.ky/opc, respectively.

The Report was initially presented to Minister Rankine by the council's former leadership, former Chairperson Lucille Seymour and former Deputy Chairperson Sarah Alice Mae Coe, on Thursday, 16 July. It reflects years of collaboration between the council, the ministry and key stakeholders and highlights the importance of coordinated, whole-of-government response to population ageing.

The Report highlights the country's changing demographics, noting that the population aged 65 and over has increased by 98 per cent over the past 11 years, while the number of people aged 56 to 64 has grown by 73 per cent. It also notes that most older persons continue to live independently within their communities, highlighting the need for coordinated planning to support healthy ageing.

Key recommendations include the establishment of a Commissioner for Older Persons, creation of a dedicated department to coordinate services and protections and formation of a ministerial committee to strengthen cross-government collaboration. The Report also calls for greater support for community organisations and a national study, in partnership with international organisations to better understand the needs of older persons and inform future policy.

Minister Rankine welcomed the Report and reaffirmed the Government's commitment to improving the lives of older persons. "I thank the former leaders and members of the Older Persons Council for their dedication and service and for producing this Report. The recommendations presented will provide valuable guidance as we strengthen policies, legislation and partnerships that support older persons. The ministry looks forward to carefully reviewing the recommendations as we continue working to build a society where older persons are respected, protected and able to live with dignity and security.

Presenting the Report, Ms Seymour said it serves as both a record of the council's achievements and a roadmap for future action. "This Report is more than a record of the council's work; it is a call to action. We hope these recommendations provide a practical roadmap for ensuring older persons are recognised as valued citizens whose rights, wellbeing and contributions are fully reflected in national development planning."

Mrs Coe further underscored the need for stronger legislation, improved services and enhanced safeguarding measures for older persons, and she expressed the hope that the Report will contribute to making the country a more age-friendly society where older persons are protected and afforded meaningful opportunities to participate fully in community life.

Concluding the presentation, the former Chairpersons acknowledged the ministry's ongoing work on the Older Persons (Amendment) Act, 2024 and expressed appreciation for its continued commitment to strengthening protections for older persons.

Finance Committee Approves CI$44.9 Million for Healthcare and Community Support

Finance Committee in the Cayman Islands Parliament has approved CI$44,945,598 in supplementary appropriations for the 2026 financial year, with most of the additional funding directed to healthcare, financial assistance, and ex-gratia benefits for seafarers and veterans.

The approvals were made on 8th October and comprise of CI$43,345,598 in operating expenditure and a CI$1.6 million equity investment in the Cayman Turtle Conservation and Education Centre Ltd.

Finance Committee's approval allows the relevant 2026 budgets to be increased so that additional expenditure may be incurred; it does not mean the full amounts have already been spent.

Minister for Finance and Economic Development and Chairman of Finance Committee, Hon. Rolston Anglin, JP, MP, said the requests respond to immediate needs while preserving fiscal discipline.

"The supplementary appropriation requests before you reflect the needs of our community and the Government's commitment to responsibly address emerging pressures while maintaining compliance with the Framework for Fiscal Responsibility," Minister Anglin told the Committee.

Healthcare accounted for CI$27.1 million of the approvals. This includes funding for geriatric services, medical care for uninsured and underinsured patients, treatment for chronic illnesses, and tertiary care at local and overseas institutions.

► Hon. Rolston Anglin

Responding to questions about the health appropriations, Minister for Health, Environment and Sustainability, Hon. Katherine Ebanks-Wilks, MP, said: "These services are inherently episodic in nature and they're delivered based on specific, often urgent episodes of critical healthcare needs. So, predicting the exact volume and timing of required care is inherently challenging."

She said Government is also strengthening preventative care, including adoption of the World Health Organization's HEARTS cardiovascular health programme, to help reduce acute cases and longer-term costs.

A further CI$13.325 million was approved for financial assistance and ex-gratia benefits for seafarers and veterans.

Responding to questions about the additional financial-assistance funding, Minister for Social Development and Innovation, Hon. Isaac Rankine, JP, MP, said the increase "relates mainly to the increased cost of rent, food and utilities."

He added that a comprehensive review of Department of Financial Assistance (DFA) services is being finalised and Government expects to update Parliament at its next meeting.

Finance Committee also approved financial support for youth, sports, culture and heritage programmes; preparations for the Cayman Islands' Fifth Round Mutual Evaluation by the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force; and the settlement of a Government liability arising from a Grand Court judgment.

On preparations for the Cayman Islands' Fifth Round Mutual Evaluation by the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force (CFATF), Premier and Minister for Financial Services and Commerce, Hon. André M. Ebanks, MP, stressed the importance of a coordinated national approach. "There's no way in which we can accomplish this if we don't tackle it as a country. It's a national exercise," the Premier said. "It takes all of us."

Minister Anglin reported that the Cayman Islands Government's unaudited results to 31 August 2026 showed a Core Government surplus of CI$175.3 million for the first eight months of the year. This was CI$31.1 million, or 21.6 per cent, higher than the CI$144.2 million surplus recorded for the same period in 2025.

The August 2026 reforecast projects that:

Core Government operating revenue will reach CI$1.30 billion, CI$40.0 million above the original budget;

Core Government operating expenses will total CI$1.27 billion, CI$20.0 million above the original budget;

The 2026 operating surplus will be CI$26.6 million, CI$16.6 million above the CI$10.0 million originally budgeted;

Core Government will borrow CI$124.0 million in 2026; and Core Government will remain compliant with all six Principles of Responsible Financial Management at 31 December 2026, with cash reserves equivalent to 101.6 days of operating expenditure.

Minister Anglin emphasised the need to carefully balance supplementary expenditure while using available Government resources to support the community's most vulnerable.

Responding to a question from Hon. Juliana O'Connor-Connolly JP, MP (Cayman Brac East) about increasing the financial-assistance threshold, he said: "As we monitor all expenditure and the overall fiscal envelope ... everything has to be balanced ... so that we can be prudent."

The approved items will form part of a Supplementary Appropriation Bill for the 2026 financial year. In accordance with the Public Management and Finance Act, the Bill must be introduced in Parliament no later than 31 March 2027.

Introducing The Brya: a new landmark development in Dart's Camana Bay portfolio

Dart has announced the addition of The Brya to its commercial real estate portfolio, introducing a 10-storey landmark development and Camana Bay's first standalone mixed-use building.

Located east of Kapok on Bismarckia Way, The Brya represents a defining milestone in the evolution of Camana Bay by seamlessly bringing together residential, commercial, retail and food and beverage offerings within a single structure. With construction underway and scheduled for completion in 2028, the building will introduce 166 rental residences alongside nearly 25,000 square feet of office space and over 17,000 square feet dedicated to curated retail and dining opportunities on the ground floor.

Beyond its physical footprint, The Brya will deliver strategic commercial and lifestyle advantages grounded in connectivity. Situated steps from key Town Centre amenities, occupants will enjoy immediate, walkable access to an array of dining, retail, wellness and entertainment offerings.

"The Brya is designed to complement the unique character of Camana Bay while offering a deeply enriched daily experience," said Jennifer Ebanks, executive manager – commercial leasing at Dart. "Inspired by the surrounding landscape, the architecture pairs contemporary design with warm, timeless interiors. We're creating an enduring sense of place where community, work and leisure naturally connect."

For commercial operators, The Brya offers direct exposure to an established daily population of over 4,500 residents, professionals and visitors to Camana Bay, creating a built-in customer base that extends beyond traditional working hours. Simultaneously, office tenants gain a light-filled workspace, with select suites overlooking the North Sound. The building also offers direct access to the Esterley Tibbetts Highway and the Seven Mile Beach corridor and is just minutes from Owen Roberts International Airport.

"From an engineering and operational standpoint, The Brya sets a rigorous modern benchmark for sustainable building performance," said Gary Gibbs, executive vice president, development at Dart. "The building is being built to achieve both LEED and Fitwel certification standards, which guarantee optimal energy efficien-

By prioritising environmental stewardship, occupant wellbeing and thoughtful architecture, the landmark building exemplifies Dart's commitment to enduring, human-centric design.

ebenus, the scientific name for the West Indian Ebony, also known as Jamaican Rain Tree, which grows throughout Camana Bay. Celebrated for its brilliant yellow blooms, the tree serves as a sanctuary for the native Cayman Parrot, supplying food, shelter and an elevated vantage point a natural reflection of mixed-use living.

Marfire Marks Five Years as Digital Asset Governance Enters its Next Chapter

Cayman-based independent governance firm, Marfire, is marking five years in business in 2026, reflecting on a period of significant change for the firm, the digital asset sector in both the Cayman Islands and globally, and the expectations placed on those governing its increasingly sophisticated structures.

Founded in 2021 by Oliver and Kate Bell, Marfire launched at a time when only a small number of governance firms were focused on digital assets and the sector was still considered high risk by the established financial services sector. However, as Cayman foundation companies started to gain traction within the global digital asset sector, the founders saw an opportunity to bring their established governance experience and high-touch approach to this emerging and fast-evolving space.

"We knew it was going to be a rollercoaster from the start and it has been," said Oliver Bell, Founder at Marfire. "But it was an opportunity that we felt we couldn't miss, and the ride has been thrilling."

Five years later, the landscape looks markedly different. Digital assets have moved from early-stage experimentation towards more sophisticated, well-funded, institutional structures, and there is greater participation from established financial services firms as well as growing convergence between digital assets and traditional finance. Regulatory requirements have also continued to evolve, while expectations around accountability, risk management and governance have continued to rise.

"The whole of the digital assets space globally has become more institutional over time, and Cayman has grown with that," said Oliver.

"When we started Marfire, we could see digital asset structures beginning to come to Cayman, but there were relatively few governance firms with genuine experience of the ecosystem underneath them," said Oliver. "Five years on, the organisations operating in the space have changed considerably. We're seeing greater institutional participation, more complex structures and much higher expectations of governance. For us, that's exciting because good governance is increasingly being viewed as part of the architecture rather than something added later."

Marfire's first five years have also coincided with Cayman's continued development as the jurisdiction of choice for digital asset structures, supported by its established financial services industry, collaborative professional community and agile regulatory framework.

Looking ahead, Marfire expects governance standards to continue to rise as the digital asset sector continues to mature. As regulatory expectations around governance develop in regulated structures, the firm also expects those standards to increasingly influence the unregulated digital asset space, reinforcing the role of independent oversight as part of the underlying architecture.

Cayman Hosts CFATF’s 18th Council of Ministers Meeting

The Cayman Islands recently hosted the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force (CFATF)’s 18th Council of Ministers Meeting.

The meeting welcomed ministers, attorneys general, senior officials and representatives from across the region for two days of discussion on the fight against money laundering and the financing of terrorism.

CFATF Chair the Hon. Wilfred Abrahams and Financial Action Task Force (FATF) President Mr Giles Thomson opened the meeting, following welcome remarks from our Premier and Minister of Financial Services and Commerce the Hon. André Ebanks MP, and Attorney General the Hon. Samuel Bulgin, KC, JP.

CFATF implements, monitors and enforces the FATF’s global standards against money laundering and terrorist financing in the Caribbean region. Meeting delegates considered a wide range of matters over the two days, including updates on FATF’s 5th Round Mutual Evaluation Programme.

The Premier noted that hosting this meeting comes as the Cayman Islands continues preparing for our evaluation against the FATF standard, which CFATF will conduct in December 2027.

“It was a privilege for the Cayman Islands to welcome our regional partners for this important meeting, and we are pleased to have offered to continue in this role for future meetings,” he said.

“As we look ahead to our own assessment, this week’s discussions are a timely reminder of the shared standards to which we all hold ourselves.”

Cayman Islands Ombudsman Marks Ombuds Day 2026 with Focus on its Role, Public Awareness and YouTube Channel Launch

The Office of the Ombudsman joined counterparts worldwide to mark Ombuds Day 2026 and highlight the importance of independent oversight in promoting fairness, transparency, accountability and good governance.

Observed annually on the second Thursday of October, Ombuds Day raises awareness of the profession and its public value. This year’s theme, “Office of Options”, focuses on impact and public understanding of the role of the Ombudsman as an integral part of the governance framework for the Cayman Islands.

Established in 2017 by the Parliament, the Office of the Ombudsman is an impartial and independent institution that provides its services free to the public free of charge. All matters are handled with confidentiality and respect for privacy. When people need answers, accountability, transparency, or protection, the Office of the Ombudsman provides options. Across its two divisions and five areas of jurisdiction, the Office helps safeguard fairness, transparency, and good governance through: Government complaints handling (maladministration), police complaints, freedom of information appeals, data protection and whistleblower protection.

Whether through guidance, mediation, investigation, or independent review, the Office provides accessible pathways to resolution, helping to ensure that every voice and every concern is given fair consideration.

According to the Ombudsman’s 2025 Annual Report, the office answered 372 inquiries, received 389 cases and resolved 398. Decisions, investigation reports and other outcomes are published on the Ombudsman’s website.

To mark Ombuds Day, the Ombudsman has launched a YouTube channel featuring short, accessible videos on its services and the rights and protections available to the public; including guidance on freedom of information, data protection and the office’s wider role.

Ombuds Day follows closely on the heels of International Day for Universal Access to Information, locally recognised as Right to Know Day on 28 September. During this observance, the office went on local radio and social media to highlight its role in the freedom of information process and provided practical guidance to help members of the public better understand and exercise their rights under the Freedom of Information Act.

As Cayman continues to evolve, the office remains committed to being a modern, accessible and responsive institution that provides options for everyone, regardless of circumstance. Through its work, the office reinforces a simple but powerful principle: when people have access to independent oversight, information, and protection, they have options; and when they have options, fairness, accountability and trust can flourish.

Dart trainees take hospitality skills abroad through international exchange

Two graduates of the Dart Hospitality Training Programme (DHTP) recently travelled to St. Augustine, Florida as part of Dart's Hospitality Training Exchange Programme, where they gained international experience across hotel operations, tourism attractions, culinary arts and event management.

The exchange, held over three weeks between August and September, gave 2023 DHTP graduate Andre Washington and 2025 DHTP graduate Sauntie Kelly the opportunity to learn from hospitality professionals and educators in a different market while experiencing the destination from the perspective of a visitor.

Washington and Kelly participated in lectures at Flagler College, covering resort management, lodging and attraction management. They also gained hands-on work experience at The Renaissance St. Augustine Historic Downtown Hotel, the Pirate & Treasure Museum and BlackFly The Restaurant; and shadowed wedding and event professionals at the Colonial Quarter and Old Town Trolley Tours through a partnership with Historic Tours of Americas.

Beyond the formal training they received, the pair had the opportunity to explore the area, visit the St. Augustine Lighthouse, zipline through Alligator Alley and participate in a walking ghost tour.

"Hospitality is about much more than

the service we provide in our hotels and restaurants," said Dianne Conolly, Dart's hospitality programme manager. "Giving our trainees the opportunity to travel, learn from another hospitality market and experience a destination as a guest helps them return to Cayman with a broader perspective on what it takes to create a memorable experience for visitors – it helps them understand how their individual role fits into the overall experience of a guest's holiday."

The Dart Hospitality Training Exchange Programme was launched in 2023 to provide Caymanian employees who demonstrate excellence in their roles with opportunities for cross training overseas.

"It's an investment in their personal growth, confidence and future careers," added Conolly. "It also allows them the opportunity to be ambassadors of their home country while learning how another destination approaches tourism and guest experiences."

The programme was initially developed around synergies between Dart's hospitality properties in Anguilla and the Cayman Islands and has since expanded to include Flagler College.

In a reciprocal exchange, two hospitality students from Flagler College also visited Grand Cayman over the summer and gained practical experience through hands-on training at Bonny Moon Beach Club, Hampton by Hilton Grand Cayman Seven Mile Beach, Hotel Indigo® Grand Cayman and Kimpton Seafire Resort + Spa.

"This exchange programme hits all the marks we strive for at Flagler College – experiential learning, hospitality across cultures and authentic relationship building," expressed Zachary Cole, assistant professor and program director of Hospitality and Tourism Management at Flagler College.

The Dart Hospitality Training Exchange Programme forms part of Dart's broader commitment to developing local talent and investing in people by providing pathways for professional growth.

IMAC's 2026 Annual Gala Raises US$35,000 for Educational Scholarship Fund

The Insurance Managers Association of Cayman (IMAC) has announced that its 2026 Black-Tie Gala & Scholarship Fund-raiser, held on September 12 at the Kimpton Seafire Resort + Spa, raised US$35,000 in support of the IMAC Educational Scholarship Fund (ESF).

The Gala brought together Cayman's captive insurance and wider financial services community for a shared purpose: investing in the next generation of Caymanian talent. The funds raised will help create opportunities for local students to pursue higher education abroad and take meaningful steps towards achieving their academic and professional ambitions.

"The continued generosity of our industry and wider community is what makes initiatives like the IMAC Educational Scholarship Fund possible," said James Trundle, Chair of IMAC. "We are grateful to everyone who contributed to this year's Gala. Their support helps us continue opening doors for young Caymanians, giving them the opportunity to pursue their educational goals and build successful futures."

A highlight of the evening was the featured address delivered by former IMAC scholarship recipient Vanessa Burke, who shared her personal journey and the role the Scholarship Fund has played in her educational and professional development. Her story offered a powerful reminder of the Fund's lasting impact, demonstrating how investing in education can create opportunities that extend far beyond the classroom.

These reflections underscored the broader impact of the Fund, which has awarded more than US$5 million in scholarships and supported over 90 Caymanian students in pursuing higher education since its establishment in 1994.

The continued commitment of industry partners remains instrumental to the Fund's success, with RSM Cayman returning as Title Sponsor of the 2026 Gala. Further demonstrating its dedication to supporting Caymanian education, RSM has also confirmed a renewed three-year sponsorship commitment, reinforcing its long-term partnership with IMAC and its investment in the next generation of local talent.

"Education has the power to open doors and create opportunities that can last a lifetime," said Richard Wainwright, Partner at RSM. "Supporting the Educational Scholarship Fund is an investment in Cayman's future, helping young people pursue their goals, unlock their potential, and contribute meaningfully to our community. We are proud to continue our partnership with IMAC and support an initiative that creates lasting, positive impact for Cayman's next generation."

Additional sponsorship was provided by Artex Risk Solutions, Campbells and Honigman LLP.

UCCI Celebrates Technical Excellence with 2026 National Technical Honor Society Induction

The University College of the Cayman Islands (UCCI) celebrated excellence in technical and professional education on Thursday, 1 October 2026, as 14 students were inducted into the National Technical Honor Society (NTHS) Cayman Chapter and 12 students were recognised for outstanding achievement across programmes within the University's Professional and Technical Education and Training (PTET) Division.

Held under the theme "Celebrating Excellence, Honoring Achievement, Inspiring Futures," the ceremony recognised students whose commitment to their studies, technical development and professional growth reflects the vital role skilled professionals play in the continued development of the Cayman Islands.

The 14 inductees represented programmes spanning Construction Technology and Project Management, Plumbing, Electrical, Air Conditioning and Refrigeration, and Food and Beverage, reflecting the breadth of technical and professional pathways available at UCCI.

The evening also celebrated 12 students for outstanding achievement across programmes including Construction Technology, Plumbing, Electro-Technology, Electrical Installation, General Business, Air Conditioning and Refrigeration, Hospitality and Tourism, General Accounting and Computer Technology.

Recognising Excellence in Technical Education

Membership in the National Technical Honor Society recognises students who demonstrate excellence within career and technical education while encouraging continued development through leadership, service and professional growth.

For UCCI's inductees, membership also connects them to a wider international community of students pursuing technical and career-focused education. NTHS provides members with scholarship opportunities, career development resources and professional programmes, while promoting leadership, service and professional development as core elements of the student experience.

NTHS and its partners award nearly US$300,000 in scholarships annually, with membership benefits also including career-readiness resources, industry-recognised certification opportunities and other professional development tools.

Dr. Livingston Smith, Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs and Workforce Education, delivered greetings during the ceremony, joining faculty, industry representatives, families and members of the UCCI community in recognising the students' achievements.

Delivering remarks on behalf of UCCI President and CEO Nanalie Cover, Tresea Brown extended the President's congratulations to the inductees, their families, educators, mentors and supporters.

In her message, President Cover emphasised that the honour of induction carries both recognition and responsibility as members of the second cohort of the NTHS Cayman Chapter.

"Your induction into the National Technical Honor Society is a recognition of what you have already accomplished, but it is also a reflection of the qualities that will define your success in the years ahead: discipline, integrity, professionalism, initiative, and a willingness to continually learn and improve.

"But I also encourage you to see today not as the culmination of your journey, but as the beginning of a new chapter. As the second cohort inducted into the Cayman Chapter, you have a unique responsibility. You are not simply joining an honour society; you are helping to shape its identity, establish its traditions, and build its legacy."

President Cover also underscored the importance of technical and vocational education to the Cayman Islands, noting that the students being recognised will form part of the skilled workforce needed to strengthen industries, support communities and contribute to the country's continued prosperity and resilience.

Connecting Education with Industry

The ceremony also highlighted the connection between education, resilience and professional growth in preparing students for the opportunities that may emerge throughout their careers.

Mr. Troy Whorms, Director of the Public Works Department and a UCCI graduate, delivered the guest address, drawing on his own journey from technical studies at UCCI to senior leadership within the Cayman Islands.

Whorms reflected on returning to UCCI following the disruption caused by Hurricane Ivan in 2004, when he experienced significant personal and professional losses. He recalled the important role faculty members played as teachers, mentors and sources of encouragement during that period, and shared how continued learning, practical experience and perseverance contributed to opportunities he could not have anticipated while he was a student.

"Your training matters. Your experience matters. Your resiliency matters. The people who invest in you and the opportunities in front of you are greater than they have ever been before, so be ready for them. Keep learning. Trust what you have built. When disruption comes, dig deep enough to grasp the future you want for yourself.

"Every student being recognised today should feel proud of what they have accomplished. But understand, this is not the finish line. This is evidence that you have the capability to take on what comes next, and I look forward to seeing what you build from here," said Whorms.

His message encouraged students to view their recognition as a foundation for continued learning and professional growth, emphasising resilience, character and the importance of remaining prepared for opportunities throughout their careers.

Mr. Ricardo Benjamin, Programme Director of Technical and Vocational Education and Training (TVET), reflected on the wider significance of the students' achievements and the collective effort involved in strengthening technical and vocational education in the Cayman Islands.

"The Professional and Technical Education and Training (PTET) Division celebrates far more than individual achievement. We celebrate the remarkable accomplishments of our National Technical Honor Society inductees and award recipients, whose dedication, perseverance and commitment to excellence exemplify the very best of technical and vocational education and training.

"The accomplishments of our students reflect the collective efforts of educators, industry partners, families, government agencies and community stakeholders who have invested in their growth and success. These achievements demonstrate what is possible when we work together with a common vision to develop a skilled, innovative and resilient workforce.

"As we recognise the dedication and potential of our inductees, we reaffirm our commitment to strengthening TVET pathways in the Cayman Islands, ensuring that our nation is equipped with the talent, expertise and leadership needed to build a prosperous and secure future for generations to come," said Benjamin.

UCCI's PTET programmes are supported by relationships with employers and industry organisations across the Cayman Islands. The 2026 ceremony recognised industry sponsors representing construction, utilities, tourism, refrigeration and air conditioning, electrical services and professional accounting, among other sectors.

These relationships strengthen the connection between education and professional practice, providing opportunities for students to develop skills that reflect the needs of the workplace while engaging with industries in which many will ultimately build their careers.

Inspiring the Next Generation of Skilled Professionals

For UCCI, recognition through the National Technical Honor Society represents more than academic achievement. It reflects the University's broader commitment to ensuring that technical and professional education is recognised as an essential pathway through which students can develop their talents, pursue rewarding careers and contribute meaningfully to the Cayman Islands.

President Cover's message called on the inductees to carry their achievement forward through integrity, excellence, lifelong learning and service.

"Wherever your career takes you, leave your workplace, your profession, your community, and your country stronger because you were there."

As the Cayman Islands' premier tertiary institution, UCCI continues to provide educational pathways that respond to the diverse aspirations of its students and the evolving workforce needs of the country. Through technical education, professional training and partnerships with industry, the University seeks to prepare graduates with the knowledge, practical capabilities and professional values required to succeed within their chosen fields.

The induction ceremony therefore represented both a celebration of what students have already achieved and an acknowledgement of the opportunities and responsibilities that lie ahead.

For the 14 newest members of the National Technical Honor Society and the students recognised for outstanding achievement, the evening marked another milestone in journeys defined by learning, skill development and the pursuit of excellence.

As they continue those journeys, UCCI congratulates each inductee and award recipient and encourages them to carry forward the spirit of "Celebrating Excellence, Honoring Achievement, Inspiring Futures" into their professions, workplaces and communities.

Governments of the Territories.”

Describing it as ‘the Charter of Engagement’, the British government says it consolidates and codifies responsibilities and established practice for UK Government engagement with the Overseas Territories. “It aims to provide clarity for officials and reinforce consistent engagement in line with the constitutional arrangements of each Overseas Territory, as set out in their written constitutions contained in Orders in Council. These Orders set out the powers and responsibilities of the institutions of government, which in populated Territories include a Governor, and elected leaders, legislatures and representatives.”

It goes on to say that the UK and OTs are equal partners in a relationship defined not by history alone, but by shared purpose and mutual contribution. Within these are listed: safeguarding precious biodiversity, hosting critical international security assets, providing key economic value, sporting and cultural contributions, and advancing our shared values of freedom and openness. “The relationship is grounded in shared values, mutual respect, and a commitment to prosperity, security, and sustainability.”

It also affirms that: “The people of the Territories are predominantly British nationals.”

According to the charter, the UK has a fundamental responsibility, flowing from international law and our shared history, to ensure the security and good governance of the Overseas Territories and their peoples.”

It adds: “The UK aims to support the Territories to continue to develop self-government and free political institutions and to invest in capacity building within the Territories to ensure the effective exercise of the Territory Government’s responsibilities.”

(CHARTER SNAPSHOT)

UK’s INTERNATIONAL LEGAL RESPONSIBILITY

The United Kingdom carries significant contingent liabilities in respect of the Territories, resulting from moral, legal and political imperatives. The UK has a range of mechanisms through which it fulfils its responsibilities to the Overseas Territories and manages these liabilities. Some responsibilities are fulfilled via a Territory Government, Governor and some (for example in matters of defence) by the UK Government directly – this requires strong partnerships between each of us.

Under the relevant constitutions, powers are delegated to the democratically elected governments of the Territories, consistent with the UK retaining the ability to fulfil its sovereign obligations and responsibilities and meet its duty to manage its liabilities effectively.

PRINCIPLES OF UK ENGAGEMENT WITH THE OTs

Under this heading, the Charter outlines devolution and democratic autonomy for the Overseas Territories, and consistency on the principles of partnership and engagement. It also stresses the principle of “nothing about you without you”. It also says the partnership with the OTs is based on mutual respect and inclusion and speaks of a commitment to good governance and ensuring proper democratic accountability and regulation. Also highlighted are defending the Territories’ security, autonomy and rights, including the right of self-determination.

INTERNAL UK DEPARTMENTAL ALLOCATION OF RESPONSIBILITY

The charter affirms that the UK’s international obligations are set out under international law, which cannot be altered unilaterally by the UK or Territory.

Within that framework, it says departmental responsibility for the Territories generally rests with the UK department holding the corresponding policy lead. Governors have powers and responsibilities under the relevant Constitutions and can receive instructions from UK Secretaries of State on behalf of the Crown, related to these.

The Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office (FCDO) has lead responsibility within the UK Government for managing the UK’s relationship with the Overseas Territories and for coordinating engagement across Whitehall e.g. of other government departments’ own responsibilities to OTs, and chairing the OT Ministerial Group.

GOVERNANCE

This section outlines the British government’s commitment to engaging with the Overseas Territories through what it describes as ‘clear and regular governance mechanisms’.

The FCDO Minister for the Overseas Territories chairs a Ministerial Group made up of the cross-Whitehall Ministers with responsibility for the Territories. The Ministerial Group agrees, assigns and reviews departmental action to address priority Overseas Territories issues and leads UK Government activity on the Territories, regularly reviewing progress against responsibilities. In line with the principle of ‘nothing about you, without you’, Overseas Territories’ elected representatives are consulted on the agenda of the Ministerial Group and are provided a read-out of meetings.

The UK-Overseas Territories Joint Ministerial Council(JMC) meets annually and provides a forum for the exchange of views on political and constitutional issues between the Governments of the Territories and the UK Government. It also promotes the security and good governance of the Territories and their sustainable economic and social development, while agreeing on priorities, developing plans and reviewing implementation. The agenda is jointly agreed between the UK Government and the Governments of the Territories. The next JMC will be held next month.

GRENADIANS GO TO THE POLLS ON NOVEMBER 5TH

Voters in Grenada are going to the polls on November 5th, a year ahead of the constitutionally due date.

Prime Minister Dickon Mitchell set the process in motion in the hopes of securing a second consecutive term after he led his ruling National Democratic Congress (NDC) party to victory in 2022.

The main challenge is expected to come from the official opposition New National Party, now under the leadership of Emmalin Pierre, after former prime minister and party founder Dr Keith Mitchell announced his resignation from politics. He had previously stepped down from the leadership of the NNP and was succeeded by Pierre, who will now become the first woman to lead the party into a general election.

There are 15 elected seats in Grenada's bicameral parliament with another 13 in the Senate for appointed members.

Grenada's politics, which has been dominated by two parties in recent years, will this year see a third party joining the bid for power in the November 5th poll. The Democratic People's Movement (DPM), formed last November by ex-NNP MP and tourism minister, Peter David, has announced that it will contest all 15 seats.

In the 2022 election, the ruling NDC of Prime Minister Dickon Mitchell won nine of the 15 seats with the NNP taking the other six.

Dickon Mitchell is the youngest prime minister in the Caribbean, having assumed office as Prime Minister of Grenada on June 24th 2022, at the age of 44.

Economic and cost-of-living-related issues are expected to dominate the campaign, alongside growing pressure from the United States and the European Union over its Citizenship by Investment Passport (CIP).

2026 Nobel Peace Prize awarded to South African jurist

The Norwegian Nobel Committee has awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for 2026 to Navanethem "Navi" Pillay for her efforts to promote peace and international law.

Navi Pillay's commitment to universal legal principles and her firm moral compass are constants in a long career.

Born into a family of Indian Tamil origin under apartheid in Durban, South Africa, Pillay became a lawyer and legal pioneer, confronting deep structural discrimination, segregation and exclusion. A common thread runs from her early work defending Nelson Mandela and others who stood up against apartheid to her service as a judge in some of the key international court cases of our time.

This year's laureate has significantly enlarged the scope and impact of international law. She has served as a judge on the High Court in South Africa, the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda and the International Criminal Court. She was the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights and, until recently, she chaired the UN Independent International Commission of Inquiry on the Occupied Palestinian Territory. Today Navi Pillay is a judge on the International Court of Justice in the case where Myanmar stands accused of genocide.

In historic international court cases, she has shown that legal measures can help prevent acts of war and violence. Navi Pillay has also contributed to strengthen the institutions of international law. Her independence, expertise and steadfastness have made her one of the most respected international jurists of our time.

Navi Pillay has held states and national leaders accountable and brought hope to victims of violence and conflict. In all the positions she has held, she has stressed the responsibility of individuals and states to comply with the rule of law. She has also helped define the relevant norms and legal principles. When the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda established that rape and sexual violence could constitute a crime against humanity – as well as genocide – her influence was a significant factor. In the same case, Ms Pillay was instrumental in a separate legal breakthrough: for the first time, a defendant faced charges of incitement to commit genocide purely on the basis of spreading propaganda.

The first Nobel Peace Prize was awarded 125 years ago.

Over time, you will also build and lead a team of recruiters and resourcers as the business scales.

KEY RESPONSIBILITIESBusiness Development & Client Relationship Management

- Contributing to business strategy and market analysis, and reporting to the Directors on business performance, operational priorities and growth opportunities.

Executive Search & Recruitment (Exclusive/Retained Mandates)

- Actively sourcing candidates for open exclusive/retained executive search mandates and managing the entire recruitment lifecycle, from briefing through to offer and onboarding.
- Building a team of recruiters and resourcers over time as the business grows, and providing leadership and mentoring to that team.

Organisational Consulting & Coaching

- Delivering organisational consulting and advisory services to corporate clients, including strategic HR consulting, organisational design and change management.
- Delivering organisational coaching programmes to corporate clients, including team coaching, leadership development and culture change initiatives.
- Providing one-to-one executive and professional coaching on a corporate-sponsored basis, including designing coaching frameworks, conducting coaching sessions and tracking client outcomes.
- Maintaining relevant professional coaching qualifications and accreditations, and staying current with developments in coaching methodologies, strategic HR and organisational behaviour.

Marketing & Brand Development

- Managing the company's website and social media presence and developing marketing materials.
- Attending industry events and networking opportunities, and supporting ongoing brand development and business growth.

General Business Operations & Administration

- Overseeing the day-to-day operations of the company, including office management, vendor management, and maintenance of all business licences, permits, registrations and corporate records.

Financial Administration

- Managing invoicing, accounts receivable and accounts payable, budgeting, and liaison with external accountants.
- Overseeing payroll processes and expense management, and maintaining appropriate financial records and controls.

Compliance & Regulatory

- Ensuring the company's compliance with applicable Cayman Islands laws and regulations, including the Labour Act, Data Protection Act, Anti-Money Laundering regulations, and Trade and Business Licensing requirements.
- Maintaining required records and liaising with relevant regulatory bodies, where applicable.

Human Resources & People Management

- As the company grows, overseeing onboarding, policy development and performance management.
- Maintaining human resources records and managing work permit applications and renewals for employees and personnel.

Note: this list is not exhaustive, and the role may evolve to include additional duties and responsibilities as the business grows.

WHAT WE'RE LOOKING FOR

- A minimum of 8 years' experience in executive search and/or recruitment, ideally with exposure to retained/exclusive search mandates.

- A strong existing network within the Cayman Islands and/or international professional and financial services community.
- Solid commercial and business management acumen, including comfort with financial administration, budgeting and operational oversight.
- Excellent relationship management, communication and negotiation skills, with a genuine client-service mindset.
- A self-starting, entrepreneurial approach with the ability to manage competing priorities across business development, delivery and operations.
- Prior people management or team-building experience, or a clear aptitude to lead and develop a team as the business scales.
